OF INTEREST TO THE PEOPLE.

THE MODERN SAMPSON.

The Philistine "Cannibals of Labor" Have Shorn Him of His Strength, Temporarily.

Now that the smoke of the recent political battle has cleared away it is a fitting time for the thoughtful man to reflect. Looking over the last few months no fact stands out more clearly than that the greatest danger to our future as a republic, next to the concentration of wealth, is the gathering of vast populations into the limited space of the great cities. Of the first so much has been said that we speak now only of the latter. We have seen in the recent election how the poorer classes in the cities are always an element of uncertainty in politics. No man can say how they will vote. How the rural vote will go is easy to predict, for the same out-spoken spirit that characterizes the country man in other matters, makes his vote a certain thing, not only to himself but to any man who chooses to inquire. All of the wild guesses made by the paid estimator are based upon the city vote and his ability to control it. We have the buyer of votes as openly plying his trade as if he were licensed by the government. But he does not invade the rural districts as a rule, and we believe it can be safely asserted, without undue credit for beligerancy being given the farmer, that if he did he would have his head oftener in a sling than he does now. It seems that even the nearly omnipotent and omnipresent Mark Hanna did not invade the corn field or the feed lot. He and his minions stayed in the cities. There they ravaged among the classes that such "cannibals of labor" as Harna and his backers are making more sadly numerous every day, they went about corrupting votes. And Esau sold his birthright for a mess of pottage. "Poor Esau!" When he bartered away his privileges as the eldest son it was because he was hungry. The simile does not fail us here. For a few dirty dollars thrown to him by the rich, whose ill-gotten opulence casts him and his into the gutter, the poor in the cities gave their votes to continue the very conditions that are crushing him. Does any man dare assert that these poor creatures did this willingly and intelligently? Surely not.

The masses in the cities are divisible into two classes: First the wage earner who has only been able to barely live on his wages, who has not a dollar ahead and who stands aghast at the thought of being thrown out of employment at the beginning of winter. If he holds his job he can keep a roof, though a poor one, over the heads of those dependent upon him. They will not be cold or hungry. True, his work has no future, wages are slowly but surely sinking, every day he comes nearer to helpless old age, with no means of support. He knows all of this but what can he do? This man must hold his job, must vote as his employer dictates, and recent developments show that there is more than one way to dictate votes. This is the man who helped elect McKinley. He did not do it ignorantly or willingly. The laboring-men talked it over among themselves, quietly, earnestly. The man who eats his dinner out of a tin pail is not a frivolous, unthinking person. Life to him has been a serious matter. They went to the Silver Clubs, they listened to the street orators, they read the papers, they hurrahed for Bryan and silver. Some even went so far as to walk in the street parade with a white badge on their coat. But before Nov. 3 the boss let it be known that all of this, while not pleasing to him, might be overlooked if they would all "vote right." This, with those dark hints as to the ruin and despair a free silver president might bring, and the correspondingly false picture of "Prosperity and Protection," did the work. The man really knew better. But do not judge him too harshly. He was timid for others rather than for himself. What man can go out to battle with a wife and helpless children clinging to him? To protect them, even if it be only temporary, he must vote wrong. Thus do the Philistines cut off Sampson's hair. (But it will grow again.)

The other class is the ignorant, the idle, the vicious. They glory in their shame. They neither know nor care for principles nor men. The man who can pay for their vote gets it. Witness the great McKinley vote in Chicago. Think of the vote of an honest, clear-eyed farmer being cancelled by one of these vicious tools of plutocracy. The gathering of the vicious poor into great cities is one of the symptoms of national degeneracy. But our hope must be from these poor creatures. They not only can not be ignored any longer but THEY MUST BE USED, and by the right side. Help, to down the money power, must come to the great middle class from this element before it can come from the honest but handicapped wage-earner. The overcoming of the ignorance of this class is more feasible than is the sacrificing of the great body of small wage-earners. When the laborer sees deliverance is possible he will defy the bosses and vote for conditions that will put him on safe ground. Such men know the great purchasable vote and fear it. But until it is educated and ready to throw its weight with them the honest, poor laborer must go on cutting the ground from under his own feet. Let every man, who wants to help where it is most needed, help educate the lowest strata in the city. Our help, in turn, must come from them. History repeats itself. The Philistines cut off Sampson's hair and for a time he was weak—but the hair grew out. When they saw him strong again not only were his locks shorn but they put out his eyes and the blind prisoner must grind corn.

They forgot in their revelry that Sampson's hair could grow again, and that Sampson's God could hear and answer the cry of an agonized heart. When he knew he was lost to freedom and to all that made life worth having, he gladly used his last strength to pull down the house upon the revelers. He perished but THEY PERISHED TOO.

If the Philistines of Capital leave the Sampson of Labor shorn of his God-given freedom of strength and sight, who shall answer for what may come? It was a Philistine slave-boy who led the blind giant to the pillars that held up the house. The only hope of averting such another horror is to raise up out of the ignorance and corruption, a helper for the poor who is, as yet, only shorn of his freedom in part, only grinding corn for the Philistines. This help must come from the masses in the cities and WE MUST FIRST HELP THEM. How shall we begin?

Why they Burn Corn.

The following is taken from the Omaha, Neb., World Herald: Many farmers about Winside, as well as a number of business men, are burning corn in order to keep warm in preference to coal. The principal reason for this is, of course, that it is vastly cheaper, for it takes only 26⅔ bushels of corn to makes a ton. There is also another feature to this which is actually astonishing when it is figured out. Ten dollars will buy 91 bushels of 11 cent corn. This at 75 pounds to the bushel, makes 6825 pounds, which is equivalent to about the same amount of coal. The freight on this coal at 21 cents per 100 would be $14.33, so the railroad company loses that to begin with by this substitution of corn for coal. They also lose the freight on the corn they do not haul to Chicago, so in $10 worth of corn or 91 bushels at 12 cents freight per bushel, they lose $10.91. Thus we reach the remarkable conclusion that every time a resident of Wayne county burns $10 worth of corn for fuel he saves $10 and deprives the railroad company of $25.24 worth of business.

Permanent organization of the Union County Teachers' Association will be perfected at a meeting called for the purpose in La Grande, December 19.

Not on Earth as in Heaven.

Two babes were born in the selfsame town
On the very same birthday;
They laughed and cried in their mother's arms
In the very selfsame way;
And both seemed pure and innocent
As falling flakes of snow,
But one of them lived in a terraced house
And one in the street below.

Two children played in the selfsame town,
And the children both were fair,
But one had curls brushed smooth and round,
The other had tangled hair.
The children both grew up apace,
As other children grow,
But one of them lived in the terraced house
And one in the street below.

Two maidens wrought in the selfsame town,
And one was wedded and loved;
The other saw through the curtain's apart
The world where her sister moved;
And one was smiling, a happy bride,
The other knew care and woe,
For one of them lived in a terraced house
And one in the street below.

Two women lay dead in the selfsame town,
And one had tender care,
The other was left to die alone
On her pallet so thin and bare;
One had many to mourn their loss,
For the other few tears would flow,
For one had lived in the terraced house
And one in the street below.

If Jesus, who died for rich and poor,
In wondrous, holy love
Took both the sisters in His arms
And carried them above,
Then all the difference vanished quite,
For in heaven none would know
Which of them lived in the terraced house
And which in the street below.

About Kissing Mother.

A father talking to his careless daughter said: "I want to speak to you of your mother. It may be that you have noticed a careworn look on her face. Of course it has not been brought there by any act of yours; still it is your duty to chase it away. I want you to get up tomorrow morning and get breakfast. When your mother comes and begins to express her surprise, go right up to her and kiss her on the mouth. You can't imagine how it will brighten her dear face.

"Besides you owe her a kiss or two. Away back, when you were a little girl, she kissed you when no one else was tempted by your fever-tainted breath and swollen face; you were not so attractive then as you are now. All through years of childish sunshine and shadows she was always ready to cure by the magic of a mother's kiss, the little dirty, chubby hands whenever they were injured in those first skir-[illegible] And then the midnight kisses with which she [illegible] dreams, as she leaned above your restless pillow, have all been on interest these long years.

"Of course she is not so pretty and kissable as you are; but if you had done your share of the work during the past ten years, the contrast would not be so marked.

"Her face has more wrinkles than yours.

"And yet, if you were sick, that would appear far more beautiful than an angel's as it hovered over you, watching every opportunity to minister to your comfort, and every one of those wrinkles would seem to be bright wavelets of sunshine chasing each other over the dear face.

"She will leave you one of these days. Those burdens, if not lifted from her shoulder, will break her down. Those rough, hard hands, which have done so many necessary things for you, will be crossed upon her lifeless breast. Those neglected lips, which gave you your first baby kiss, will be forever closed and those sad, tired eyes will have opened in eternity and then you will appreciate your mother, but it will be too late."—Eli Perkins.

The Call of the 10th instant says: "Single taxers in this city were delighted to hear yesterday that Glasgow has gone for sinle tax with a large majority, and that now that great metropolis has no taxes save those on rents. The news came in full form in a letter published in the National Single Taxer, and written by Josn Paul, editor of the Glasgow Single Tax, to Henry George." The city of Glasgow is the foremost city in the world in the ownership of public utilities, and now goes way ahead by adopting the single tax.

According to a tabulated statement of the vote cast at the late election, 13,896,389 were polled. Of the number McKinley got 7,122,976; Bryan 6,498,106; Palmer 125,037; Levering 125,489. McKinley's plurality over Bryan, 624,870, although several thousand votes were cast for Bryan and Watson, which would really cut this plurality down to less than 600,000.

The following appeared in the Jefferson Review with a star after it: "Albany has the best postmaster in the state, E. B. Davidson. During the month of November he took up 4 horses, 12 dogs and 8 cows. Of course, he is in a row most of the time, but he executes the law just the same."

We have several calls to rent dairy farms; owners should notify the HERALD.

Governor-elect Rogers, of Washington, on "Free Land."

Tacoma, Dec. 13.—Governor-elect Rogers has issued a copyrighted pamplet containing about 2200 words, and entitled "Free Land." A copy has been sent to members of the legislature, which meets next month. He takes the position that free land is an "inalienable, imprescriptable and indestructible" right of man, and draws lessons from the freedom and enjoyment of the Puyallup reservation Indians, which he thinks results from their free, inalienable and untaxable homesteads. His position is supported by quotations from Emerson, Ingersoll and Seneca.

In conclusion, he proposes an amendment to the state constitution, providing that real estate and usual improvements, to a value not to exceed $2500, occupied as a homestead by a private family, the head of which is a citizen of the United States and this state, shall be forever exempted from all taxation of every kind. The exemption is limited to homesteads.

The pamphlet states that in no state would the amount exempted by the amendment exceed 10 per cent of the total valuation. He says that such a plan enacted into law "will prevent that fatal clash of the classes otherwise inevitable." The pamphlet concludes as follows:

"County government should be abolished or reduced to the merest skeleton of what it is now. Township and municipal government can attend to local affairs; let the state be called in when necessary."

GENERAL NEWS.

SIX IRON PIPE MANUFACTURING FIRMS SUED.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 10.—United States District Attorney Babb, acting under instructions from Attorney General Harmon, brought suit in the United States district court today against the six big firms which control the iron pipe manufacturing industry in the south charging that these concerns are operating as a trust for the purpose of preventing competition and securing a monopoly of the business. Judge Clark granted a [illegible] defendants to answer. The accused companies are: The Adams [illegible] pipe works, the Howard-Harrison pipe works, Bessemer, Ala.; the South Pittsburg, Tenn., pipe works; the Addiston pipe works, Cincinnati; Denniston & Co., Louisville, Ky., and the Chattanooga foundry and pipe works.

SUCCESSFUL TRIAL OF THE CZARINA.

San Francisco, Dec. 11.—The Beaver Hill Coal Company's Czarina had her trial trip yesterday. She more than exceeded expectations and in consequence the directors of the Risdon Iron Works are jubilant. When the steamer reached San Francisco in tow of the tug Fearless her engine-room was to all intents and purposes a wreck. Since then the vessel has been thoroughly overhauled and yesterday over the measured mile she logged better than 10½ knots an hour. When she is fitted with the patent corrugated propeller Captain Drisko expects his vessel to beat 11 knots when fully loaded.

MUST HANG FOR HIS CRIME.

Albany, Ga., Dec. 10.—Sankey Cunningham, colored, charged with assaulting Miss Camp December 3, reached here today from Macon under escort of Macon military. The four courthouse entrances were guarded by troops. Within twenty minutes a jury was empaneled. The evidence closed in fifteen minutes. The jury returned a verdict of guilty. Judge Spence sentenced Cunningham to hang January 1. The trial occupied but one hour.

SUDDEN DEATH OF G. W. STAVER.

Portland, Dec. 10.—With but a gasp, without the slightest warning that the grim messenger with his dread summons had come to him, George W. Staver, head of the widely-known agricultural implement house of G. W. Staver & Co., reeled in his chair this morning and fell over dead. Death was instantaneous.

A DOUBLE SUICIDE.

Boston, Dec. 12.—Mary L. Collins and Samuel P. Putnam, of Chicago, free-thought lecturers, were found dead today in a room occupied by the woman. The gas was turned on. The woman was 20 years old, the man about 50. Indications are that the couple committed suicide last night. He accompanied her home last night.

Out of 40 cases of crackers consigned to Honolulu on the steamer Asiatic by the Portland Cracker Company eight were found by the custom officers to contain 480 tins of opium. The company claims to know nothing about how the drug got in the cases.

STYLE No. 55. "ARLINGTON."

A strictly high-grade Sewing Machine, finished throughout in the best possible manner. It possesses all modern improvements, and its mechanical construction is such that in it are combined simplicity with great strength, thus insuring ease of running, durability, and making it impossible for the machine to be put out of order. It sews fast and makes a perfect stitch with all kinds of thread and all classes of material. Always ready for use and unrivalled for speed, durability and quality of work. Notice the following points of superiority:

The Head of the "Arlington" swings on patent socket hinges, firmly held down by a thumb screw. Strong, substantial, neat and handsome in design, and beautifully ornamented in gold. Bed plate has rounded corners and is inlaid or countersunk, making it flush with top of table. Highest Arm—Space under the arm is 5½ inches high and 9 inches long. This will admit the largest skirts, and even quilts. It is Self-Threading—Absolutely no holes to put thread through except eye of needle. Shuttle is cylinder, open on end, entirely self-threading, easy to put in or take out; bobbin holds a large amount of thread. Stitch Regulator is on the bed of the machine, beneath the bobbin winder, and has a scale showing the number of stitches to the inch, and can be changed from 8 to 32 stitches to the inch. Feed is double and extends on both sides of needle; never fails to take goods through; never stops at seams; movement is positive; no springs to break and get out of order; can be raised and lowered at will. Automatic Bobbin Winder—For filling the bobbin automatically and perfectly smooth without holding the thread. Machine does not run while winding bobbin. Light Running—Machine is easy to run, does not fatigue the operator, makes little noise and sews rapidly. Stitch is a double lock stitch, the same on both sides, will not ravel, and can be changed without stopping the machine. Tension is a flat spring tension, and will admit thread from 8 to 150 spool cotton without changing. Never gets out of order. The Needle is a straight, self-setting needle, flat on one side, and cannot be put in wrong. Needle Bar is round, made of case-hardened steel, with oil cup at the bottom to prevent oil from getting on the goods. Adjustable Bearings—All bearings are case-hardened steel and easily adjusted with a screw driver. All lost motion can be taken up, and the machine will last a lifetime. Attachments—Each machine is furnished with necessary tools and accessories, and in addition we furnish an extra set of attachments in a velvet lined metal box, free of charge, as follows: One ruffler and gatherer, one binder, one shirring plate, one set of four hemmers, different widths up to ⅝ of an inch, one tucker, one under braider, one short or attachment foot, and one thread cutter. Woodwork of finest quality oak or walnut, gothic cover and drawers, nickel-plated rings to drawers, dress guards to wheel, and device for replacing belt.
