

THE LABOR EXCHANGE

It is the Most Practical.

Mrs. J. B. Millhollin, in the Grandeur Age, says of the Labor Exchange:

"Unhesitatingly give it as my fullest conviction that the Labor Exchange is the most practical and comprehensive scheme for the emancipation of the human race that was ever presented to the minds of men.

"I say practical, because it comes to our very doors, no matter where we may be located. We no not have to go to it—as to co-operative colonies—but it comes to us, bringing the possibility of employing ourselves all we will, and insure bread during life.

"It brings liberty, because we do not have to ask task-masters for those blessings, neither do we have to go to the city of Washington for them. I repeat, it brings liberty because it practically emancipates from the tyranny of our government. What have we been asking at the hands of our government—is it more laws? Surely not when they are ground out to us 2500 strong every year. We are completely snowed under by laws. There are scarcely numbers sufficient of the classes to execute those laws on the masses! We are not needing more governing as a people, but we do need bread enough to govern our hunger. Then what is it that Coxy and Debs and all our reformers are requiring as a bounty of our government? Is it not the employment of the idle to insure bread to the hungry? Have they got it, or is there any chance for them to get it? Then come in to the Labor Exchange, where all these blessings can be obtained without money and without price, if you only take hold of salvation when it comes right to your very hand.

"I say it is comprehensive, because of its capacity to carry the whole human race through the entire journey of life. It affords us ample opportunities to the black man, the brown man, the red man and the yellow man as it does the white man. The Labor Exchange sounds the first trump of freedom, and through it, in a few short years, we shall see all great obstacles to human progress as completely annihilated as are now the walls of Jericho. I repeat, comprehensive, because it is the all-sufficient and only practical foundation on which to establish the other reforms. On it we can complete the grand co-operative commonwealth, and tow the bark of equal suffrage from the muddy waters of politics. The Labor Exchange makes possible all the Utopias and beautiful dreams of the seers of the past.

"The Labor Exchange will carry on its bosom the first complete brotherhood of mankind the world has ever witnessed—the completed ideal of Christ: Peace on earth; good will to men. And women, too; I must not forget that."

Inland Empire: The Labor Exchange system of finance has taken such hold upon the people of Aspen, Col., that merchants now receive the checks as cash, and the town has assumed an air of prosperity fully equal to the times before the panic. Through this method of scientific bartering or trading—exchanging one product for another—the people will soon learn that they do not care anything about what the gold worshippers do with the money question in Washington, as they will have little further use for legal tender money, every dollar of which is drawing interest from some bonded slave or is robbing some poor working man of the profits of his labor. The goldbugs will soon discover that all their efforts to subjugate the American people have come to naught, and it will be their time to turn calamity howlers.

The law permits a great many things which are morally wrong, and prohibits many things abstractly and morally right. The law protects men in the greatest crimes I can imagine and aggresses on the most sacred rights of the people. Government is by and for the protection of property. Life is not protected, for many slaves to death. The poor man is deprived of life and property. Without land upon which to live, he cannot live—and is not the landlord protected in monopolizing it? The right to property is only a conventional right, but the right to use property is inalienable.

When the laborers learn that they can create just as much wealth, make just as many bricks, raise just as much corn, whether they are paid one dollar a day, ten dollars a day, or no dollars at all—that is, that human effort and wants do not depend on money—they will have solved the problem of labor and capital; then let them adopt a system of account for the transfer of title to property and they will have solved the problem of human happiness.—L. E. monthly publication.

The Labor Exchange methods can be applied to any of our everyday transactions.

RELIEF IS NOW ON THE WAY.

Government Will Aid the Flood Sufferers. Congress Appropriated $200,000.

Washington, April 7.—The president this morning sent to congress a special message regarding the flood sufferers in the Mississippi valley. It recited facts learned from governors and prominent citizens of Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee, regarding the extent of the submerged area and the number of people who have lost all property and crops, and their chance to raise anything during the present season, and said that from $150,000 to $200,000 would be necessary to relieve their wants. It cited former occasions when the general government gave money in aid of unfortunates and strongly urged congress to promptly make the appropriation in the present case.

In the senate, upon receipt of the president's special message, Senator Jones, of Arkansas, offered a joint resolution appropriating $150,000 for supplies to Mississippi river flood sufferers.

In the house, Catchings of Mississippi offered a resolution appropriating $200,000 for the relief of flood sufferers.

The senate passed the Jones resolution and the house the Catchings resolution. This would have left an awkward situation, but the senate yielded precedence to the house, recalled its resolution and promptly passed the house resolution, which then went to the president.

The president signed the resolution at 1:55 p. m.

Secretary Alger acted with the greatest promptness, and has already almost completed arrangements for distribution of government relief for the flood sufferers. By the present plan, army officers will start for Memphis tomorrow, and dividing the Mississippi into six sections, will ascertain the needs of the people; another detail of officers following and distributing rations.

The following story on the speaker of the house was told in the cloakroom the other day. Mr. Reed was making a speech on his native health last summer, and to show the effect of the Wilson bill on sheep farming said: "You have 3000 sheep, and you get but 12 cents a pound for your wool." "You're wrong there, Biddy," called a voice in the crowd, with characteristic Yankee familiarity, "we only get 10 cents." "Well," responded Mr. Reed, quickly, "you can always retail what I tell you at a profit."

Lady Henry Somerset has cabled Miss Francis Willard, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, asking for $1500 to be spent for the White Ribbon nurses in Crete. Roseburg Review: Fred Patterson, the brick mason and contractor, has gone to Coquille City to bid on the new courthouse which is to be built there. He will do the people of Coos county a good job if he gets the opportunity.

Secretary Long has refused the armor plate bid, and has referred the whole matter back to congress, asking authority to re-advertise for bids at an increased limit of cost.

D.W. MARION, President of the Swamp Angel Medicine Co. Drawn by C. J. Brown from life.

Two years ago, at 38, I was a consumptive, emaciated, debilitated, dying man, weighing but 120 pounds. Now, at 40, I weigh 170 and am in perfect health. Each of the wonderful results of using Swamp Angel Medicine for two years when my symptoms of disease showed themselves.

When the scientific men of the world, and all the health boards of the large cities informed the public that consumption, and the most malignant and fatal disease, were caused and preceded by living bugs, germs or microbes, I determined to find a germ or microbe killer. I then bought and tested every preparation on sale for throat troubles, bronchial affections or consumption. I could not find a germ or microbe killer in the entire lot of medicines. I then commenced experiment with naphthol, and produced a medicine similar in effects to Iodo-naphthol. While my medicine was very strong, yet, I could drink it like water. But the most wonderful thing was that one drop would not only kill millions of germs and microbes, but would instantly kill any large insect. I named this remedy Swamp Angel Medicine in honor of the Swamp Angel canon, a gun very destructive to enemies but harmless to its operators, its friends. Even so, Swamp Angel Medicine destroys all lower germ life, the cause of human disease. Under heat, this medicine divides into gas, air, and can be inhaled directly into the lungs, thereby killing all germ and microbe life on these organs. Like lightning, this same medicine will rush through the skin, and therefore kill any ache or pain from a common toothache to a severe neuralgia or rheumatic pain. Every family should have a bottle. Cut out the ticket on this page and get one.
