OF INTEREST TO THE PEOPLE.

The Promised Land.

From "In the Promised Land, and Other Poems," by Michael Lynch.

No we sailed and sailed over stormy seas, till we came to a pleasant land, Where forever were peace and happiness, and plenty was on each hand;
And no man wronged his brother there, for no man counted it gain
To live by the sweat of another's brow, or to joy at his neighbor's pain.

And the strong man there was a kindly man, and aided the one who was weak, And for those who were simple and trusting men their wiser brothers would speak;
And no man wronged his brother there, for no man counted it gain
To live by the sweat of another's brow, or to joy at his neighbor's pain.

And the old man there was a blessed man, for follies he wanted naught, And vice and toil on the little ones no longer their ruin wrought.
And the feeble in body and mind had there a care no longer for bread; For out of the plenty that was for all, 'twas theirs the first to be fed.

And oh! but that land was a happy land for those who were sisters of men, For there was no rude and unseemly toil, in field nor in sweeter's den; They paved not body and soul for bread, for woman felt woman's shame, And dowered not life to the strong man was the good of his sister's name.

And the fields were yellow with harvesting where every man might reap,
And the fields were yellow with harvesting where every man might reap, And the mountains were clothed with forest, and the orchards were ripe with fruit, And the breath of the kind line incense arose in the meadows still green soft.

And peace was forever in that fair land, for no man envied his mate, And no man's treasures, where all were rich, were his brother's sleeping hate, And the kingdom that Christ had promised was now for all men to see,
And the name of that happy kingdom was, "The land of the soon to be."

And the fields were yellow with harvesting where every man might reap,
And the fields were yellow with harvesting where every man might reap,

PECULIAR HERBS ARE GROWN HERE.

Absinthe Now Made From American Wormwood, and Michigan Sage Worth a $140 Ton.

The manufacturer of genuine French absinthe is the latest American industry. This is guaranteed to be the real stuff, straight from the boulevards.

Franconians, who frequent the cheap table d'hote restaurants of the upper East and West Sides, imbibe this stuff, which, in an arrangement of complicated glasses is allowed to drip into a glass of water, where it acquires an opaque hue. The absinthe is previously a clear light green liquid. It is made from the common wormwood which is found in many old New England gardens and from which a thick oil is distilled. It has been found by an examination of custom-house exports that 60 years ago large quantities of this American wormwood were exported from New York and Vermont to France, where it was used in making absinthe.

But so large has the home consumption now grown that we now use all the wormwood for our own production, as well as five times as much, which is imported from France and Germany. The American wormwood is regarded as the best in the world.

Another expensive herb that is grown here is saffron, which is worth from $6 to $8 per pound.
Until quite recently the chief supply of saffron came from Vermont, but a severe drought there killed most of the plants, and the price has increased in consequence. In many western states, as well as in Mexico, it has since been artificially propagated.

In Michigan there are vast fields of peppermint, which is cultivated carefully and sells for a high price.
Another medicinal herb grown in Michigan is sage, which is sold for $140 per ton, in addition to which 100 tons of sage are imported into the United States every year at a value of $80 per ton, most of it coming from Italy.

In the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee honest, pennyroyal and thorn-apple leaves are cultivated as well as mandrake, blood-root and black cohosh, all of which are used in patent medicines.
California and Cape Cod are the homes of horseradish, which makes a cough medicine.

This country raises a greater variety of medicinal herbs than any other, producing those that grow in cold and hot climates, as well as those that thrive on dry mountain tops and in the humid valleys.
Bardock, angelica and bayberry are some of these roots, and others are spikenard, unicorn root, cascara, cramp bark, thyme and pigeon berry.

Child Bitten by a Rattlesnake.

Redding, Cal., June 20.—The 3-year-old child of Mrs. J. H. Porter, living six miles east of Redding, was struck by a rattlesnake and may die. The little one was playing in the yard with its mother not six feet away when the reptile appeared.
Mrs. Porter, alarmed by the whirr of its rattle, screamed and leaped toward the baby. The cry and her quick movement angered the snake, which had coiled around the baby's leg, and it struck at the child, fastening its fangs in the little one's arm. The child is in a precarious condition.

The Rev. Rose C. Oglesby died Wednesday at Jacksonville, at the age of 64. He was born in Adams county, Ill., and crossed the plains with his parents, settling at Fort Lane, in Jackson county, in 1852.
He united with the church when 17 years old, and was ordained a minister in the Methodist church, south, 30 years ago, 15 years of which he spent as presiding elder in different parts of the state.

Grasshopper War in South Dakota.

Redfield, S. D., June 19.—State Irrigation Commissioner Cochran has just returned from Edmonds county, where he has been directing measures to destroy grasshoppers, which have alarmed settlers there and in Brown county.

Professor Saunders, of the state agricultural college, is on the ground superintending the work.
Fourteen hopper dosers are in use.
Crude petroleum is shipped in by the railways free and used in the work. One can gather about a bushel of hoppers in 20 minutes.
They move across the road like a big gray blanket, and have already done much damage. The county commissioners will offer a bounty of 50 cents a bushel for the hoppers.

Professor Saunders declares that if the hoppers are permitted to reach the period for wings they will deposit millions of larva for next year's crop. The county has set men at work burning off stubble and grass on unused lands.

A strictly high-grade Sewing Machine, made in the best manner. It possesses all the modern improvements, and its mechanical construction is such that it will run with simplicity and great strength, thus insuring ease of running, durability, and making it impossible for the machine to be put out of order. It is ready with all kinds of thread and all classes of material. Always ready for use and unrivaled for speed, durability and quality of work. Notice the following points of superiority:

The Head of the "Arlington" swings on patent socket hinges, firmly held down by a thumb screw. Strong, substantial, most easily and quickly ornamented in gold. Red plate has rounded corners and is inset or countersunk, making it flush with top of table. Highest Arm—space under the arbor 10 inches high and 4 inches wide. Fits all sizes of skirts, and even quilts. It is Self-Threading—Absolutely no holes to put thread through except eye of needle. Shuttle is cylinder, open end, entirely self-threading, easy to put in or take out. Bobbin holder, screw-adjusted, flat on one side, and causes no put in wrong. Needle Bar is round, made of case-hardened steel, with cup at the bottom to prevent oil from getting on the foot. Adjustable Bearings—All bearings are case-hardened steel and are easily adjusted with a screw driver. All lost motion can be taken up, and the machine will last a lifetime. Attachments—Each machine is furnished with necessary tools and accessories, and in addition we furnish an extra set of attachments in a velvet lined metal box, free of charge, as follows: One ruler and gatherer, one binder, one shirring plate, one set of four lemmets, different widths up to 3/4 of an inch wide, one under binder, one short or attachment foot, and one thread cutter. Woodwork of finest oak or walnut, Gothic cover and drawers, nickel-plated rings to drawers, dress garnish to wheel, and device for replacing belt.
