THE EASTERN STAR IN COOS COUNTY.

Visit of the Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Madeleine Conkling.

ED. HERALD: I have been instructed to report through your paper that the Order of the Eastern Star in this county, and especially in Coquille City, has greatly revived in interest and efficiency by a visit from Mrs. Madeleine B. Conkling, of Roseburg, our Worthy Grand Matron, who came to us August 10th, inst., at which time we held a special meeting for the purpose of greeting her. Mrs. Conkling is the youngest Grand Matron ever elected to that position in the United States, and is earnest and full of enthusiasm, which spirit she imparts to her sisters in the order. The work of the order was exemplified by the initiation of Miss Ruby Pershbaker into membership with this chapter. We had as visitors delegations from Occidental Chapter, No. 45, of Bandon, Elgin Chapter, No. 24, of Myrtle Point, and a number from more remote chapters. The Grand Matron delivered a lecture on matters of interest to the chapter. At the close of the regular work, all repaired to the lower hall in the Masonic building, where a banquet was served and all enjoyed social converse till a late hour.

Beulah Chapter, of Coquille City, is among the earliest organizations of this order in the state and made a very favorable impression on our visiting sister.

Our Grand Matron and a member from each of the above named chapters went to Marshfield on the 11th inst. and instituted Doric Chapter, No. 53, at that place. Returning to us on the 18th inst., she spent some time drilling our local chapter, Beulah Chapter, No. 6, in new work. The evening of the 20th inst. the ladies again served refreshments and devoted more attention to their esteemed guest, as at former meetings she and they were earnestly engaged in giving and receiving instructions in new work. After this repast, Rev. C. A. Stine, chaplain of our local chapter, presented the Grand Matron with a very beautiful centretable of our fine myrtle wood as a token of love and esteem from Beulah Chapter. She feelingly responded with encouraging words. As she was to leave for her home at Roseburg on the midnight stage, good-byes were said and sincere expressions of love manifested toward one whose acquaintance was so brief, but whose ability, earnestness in the cause and charming presence won the esteem and friendship of all. All regretted that she could not remain with us longer, and each expressed the sincere wish that she might return at no distant period.

NORA A. GOOD,
Secretary.

From what we hear, it would seem some of the bosses of the g. o. p. on the bay are making whiskers fly among themselves. Well, the old saying, "when rogues fall out honest people will get their dues," will be exemplified, no doubt, in this case. Read our communication from the bay on the subject It comes straight.

J. B. Fox presented us yesterday with the crop of one grain of oat, grown by him, the result of which is 34 stalks measuring 6 to 6½ feet in length. The heads are 8 and 10 inches long, each, and heavy.

The county business moves off smoothly when not hindred by injunctions. All of our county citizens admit the convenience and desirability of the new location of the county seat.

S. P. C. Johnson left us a sample of plums from a 3-year old tree that were rarely fine for size, faultless shape and delicious flavor. The tree bore 2 bushels.

Several important communications, already in type, are crowded over to next week's issue.

The county board of equalization will hold its term in this city beginning next Monday.

The Populist administration of Kansas has paid off $200,000 of the state's indebtedness during the past few months. While they were doing that, says the Bedford Free Press, the Republican administration of Iowa was running Iowa in debt more than that much. And still it's "poor, bleeding Kansas."

Ewing Herbert, a well-known Kansas Republican editor, writes: "The fact is there are more John Wanamaker Republicans in Kansas than there are of the Quay kind. The Populists rule the state by the consent of Republicans grown tired of old party methods."

UPPER-RIVER DEPARTMENT.

Myrtle Point and the Upper-Coquille and What is Going on There.

Peter Wise, the blacksmith, is treating his dwelling to a nice new coat of paint.

The brickyard shut down last Friday and Saturday for repairs, but started up again Monday morning.

Evangelist Ross preached in the M. E. house last Sunday and as usual had a very large and attentive audience.

Three threshing machines are now running full blast, and the farmers' wealth in grain will soon be counted.

J. A. Haynes and wife and Miss Hattie, of Eckley, took in the G. A. R. Encampment at this place last week, also visiting with their many friends in town.

We are pleased to announce that work on the river improvement was resumed last Monday, the grievance between the U. S. inspector and the contractors having been settled.

The Godfrey-Petersen entertainments at this place were well attended and every one was well pleased, as they give a first-class show and one that is worth your while to go and see.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Black, also Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown, went down to Bandon on last Saturday to enjoy a brief outing by the sea. It is Mrs. Black's first experience on the beach and would afford many feature of interest to her.

We are pleased to learn from J. M. Johnson that his wife's health is much improved by the Suplee Mineral spring of Grant county. It will be remembered that Mr. Johnson and family left here last spring on account of his wife's health. It will be gratifying to his many friends to learn that the trip has been crowned with the desired result.

Miss Laura E. Jones, of Cottage Grove, arrived in this place last week. Miss Jones is a sister of Mrs. W. C. Conner, and was an assistant in the Enterprise office for some months after its establishment at this place, during which time she made many warm friends here who are proud to welcome her back to Myrtle Point.

On last Saturday as Marshall Olford, a young man engaged as mail carrier for Sam Miller of this place, was trying to pass a wagon on the road near the Mirard place on the North Fork, the animal which he was driving to a cart began kicking and landed one of her feet in Mr. Olford's face, knocking him senseless for some time and mutilating his face badly. Dr. K. A. Leep was summoned and rendered the young man all possible assistance and soon pronounced him out of danger; however it was a close call for the young man.

U. S. Commissioner Orvil Dodge received instructions from Washington last week to post some notices reciting the law pertaining to forest fires. His attention has also been called to the statutes relating to placing driftwood in the river, or allowing it to be placed in position to be carried into the channel by the freshets. This is an important matter, as the government improvements will be placed in jeopardy if snags and logs are rolled in the river, as they are liable to become embedded in the channel and also carry out the works. We understand that there is a severe penalty attached to the law, and it would be well for farmers to "look a leetle out."

Now comes Fairview to the front with some excitement and a novel case. It appears that a newly married couple had made their appearance in the neighborhood, invitations were given out by some one and a general attendance with old pans, bells, guns and every other conceivable means of making a hidious noise was expected, and in fact was realized, for ten boys and five girls made their appearance shortly after dark and inaugurated a charavari and made it as pleasant as possible for their young friends. However we think the compliments of the night visitors were not fully appreciated and their good will was trampled underfoot, as nine of the boys were promptly arrested and will be tried at Marshfield for rioting, while one poor little soul will be left at home to care for the five girls until the preliminary hearing is had and the boys discharged.

Bandon Recorder: The will of Daniel Pulaski, deceased, has been found. It bequeaths two-thirds of his property to Susie Malcolm and the other third to the Bandon school, after making a couple of small bequests to other parties who are in Europe. John Lamont is named as his executor.

Ash Moore, of Salmon mountain fame, was a visitor at the G. A. R. Encampment.

J. A. Lehnherr returned from Deer Park last week and is slightly improved in health by his sojourn in that place.

The surveyors and reviewers are still at work on the Myrtle Point-Dairyville road and say they will have a good one when laid out.

Sam Currier, superintendent of the famous Currier mines on Poverty Gulch, paid our town a business visit on last Friday and Saturday.

A. H. Black & Co. have made large preparations to handle fruits, such as apples and pears. The overwhelming crop coming on will afford large shipments and it is very creditable in that firm to make arrangements to save that product.

B. C. Lehmanowsky, Wm. Corbin and Jack Eagan have gone to the Sandy creek country for an outing in the mountain air. Of course they went around with guns and fishing tackle and expect to bring home a record as the champion sports.

Walter Sutton, editor of the Port Orford Tribune, came over and took in the G. A. R. Encampment at this place last week. We feel slighted, as he did not visit our department, but will forgive him if he will be more generous in the future.

The stockholders of the M. P. & D. Co. held a meeting on last Saturday. They are very enthusiastic over their prospect and claim to have a Klondike at home. They will soon bring water on their placer grounds and develop what appears to be one of the richest mines on the coast.

Died—Luke J. Story, who was about 64 years of age, died on the North Fork of the Coquille river on the 17 inst. from the effects of a cancer. Mr. Story and family, consisting of wife and son, came to Coos county from Spokane, Wash., about a year ago. He was a faithful member of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints. The remains were interred in the new cemetery at this place, Rev. Thos. Barklow conducting the services.

J. K. P. Elliott, one of Coos county's most respected citizens, started Monday morning for California, hoping to benefit his wife's health. Mrs. Elliott has a cancer forming that needs the best of medical skill, and thus it was necessary to make a hasty move. Mr. Elliott was postmaster about 15 years in his neighborhood, and when he found it necessary to make a change he resigned his trust, but on account of red tape his resignation was not yet accepted and he concluded that the health and perhaps the life of his esteemed companion depended upon immediate action, he deemed his duty to her was paramount to any other duty, and he closed up the postoffice, turning over the property to F. P. Hermann, the P. M. at Myrtle Point. The best wishes of this whole community go with Mr. Elliott and family.

The G. A. R. Encampment at this place last week was one of the most enjoyable reunions of the old soldiers that has been experienced for some time. There was just crowd enough to be entertained comfortably. The addresses of welcome were heartfelt and eloquent, and the responses gave evidence that the guests appreciated every word that was said. The address of Prof. Bunch, the first day, has been spoken of as a splendid effort and the addresses of Prof. Airey, Comrades Palmer and Sanderlin, as well as other speeches, were well received. Congressman Thomas H. Tongue's address has been spoken of as a masterly literary production, and it is said that its delivery was complete. The camp ground, in a beautiful grove at the suburbs of the town, was a scene of great interest every evening during the encampment. The people of Myrtle Point have again shown that they have great respect for the old veterans, and the exception is rare when an old soldier conducts himself in such a manner that a community cannot respect him, and though he is vain and wears stripes, sashes or other badge of honor that do not belong to him and assumes an importance that would otherwise be disgusting, the public smiles and passes it by because of his alleged service for his country.

Anarchistic Utterances.

"The rich man is wise in his own conceit; but the poor that hath understanding searcheth him out." "The rich man's wealth is as a high wall in his own conceit," referring to which persons, it is said, "There is more hope of a fool than of him." What vile "anarchist" wrote these sentences? We don't know, but they will be found in Proverbs xviii: 11, xxvi: 12, and xxviii: 11.—San Francisco Star.

Mrs. Sleep of this place has gone to Haynes slough on a vacation.

We are sorry to hear that our old friend Mr. Quigley has to retire from business on account of his health.

Superintendent Hennessy has built a stable and buggy house for his own private use. It wouldn't be a bad idea if he had some of the houses fixed so the miners could live in them this winter without being drowned out, or a coat of whitewash would make them look cleaner.

Alderman Gaffy is talking about going to the Klondike. His outfit is a collar box, stove-pipe hat and an umbrella. He says he can walk around the north pole with nothing on but his garters.

PARSON AND PETER.

An Important Decision.

An opinion of vital importance to railroads and other corporations and employes generally has just been filed by the appellate court at Mt. Vernon, Illinois.

The suit was brought by a former freight conductor of the road to recover $2000 on a declaration charging that although the plaintiff had been a faithful employe of the railroad company for ten years he was discharged without cause, and that the customary letter or clearance card, showing time of service and general capacity, was refused.

It is alleged that the defendant road and other railroads have a custom, which is charged to be a conspiracy, not to employ a discharged employe of a road without such letter or clearance card. The court affirms the verdict of $875 awarded to the conductor. In its decision the court says:

"It is almost like depriving him (the conductor) of the right to earn a living by the pursuit of an honorable calling, a right inherent of which he cannot be deprived by any rule, regulation or practice of employers of men."

Bandon Recorder: We are sorry to announce this is the last trip of the steamer Coquille River, to the trade of this section and was adapted to our wants, but circumstances are against us and she goes elsewhere, and like the vessel, when we want to take a trip to San Francisco we can go elsewhere to find a vessel to carry us. Her leaving this route is already bringing its fruit as freight rates have increased to $3.50 a ton from San Francisco to the Coquille river, and like all other business propositions that get cornered, you cannot tell when the concern will take another hitch in its benevolence and put on another dollar or two per ton. She goes on the route between San Francisco and Fort Bragg under a year's contract.

Mrs. Asa Coon sent us a bucket of nice plums and other fruit, for which she has thanks of the office.
