OUR MERRY CHRISTMAS TIME. Santa Claus Makes His Usual Pleasant Visit—Social Events All Around.

Coquille City and vicinity has been quite happy and faced sumptuously during this holiday season, and all seems to be harmonious among the people and the "strife" to enjoy the season and have everybody else happy and supplied with the sweets that attend.

Our Myrtle Point department mentions the happy time that took place, and "Now-and-Then" makes the following report from Lampey creek schoolhouse:

CHRISTMAS AT LAMPEY CREEK.

"When your correspondent arrived at the schoolhouse there was quite a crowd gathered and we observed many familiar faces and some strangers. A large tree was carried, so that we could not then discover what was on it, but about 8 p. m. the house was filled and the exercises commenced, opening with a song by the scholars, led by their teacher, Mrs. Luffin, assisted by Prof. W. H. Waddington. This was followed by recitations and songs, Mrs. Luffin presiding at the organ.

A 15-year-old daughter of Chas. Siestwert was drowned near her home at Ten-mile Wednesday evening of last week in a singular manner. She, and a younger sister aged about 6 years, started for the woods. They had to cross a branch called Dry creek, at this wet season running about a foot deep of water, where the girl, Ida Olga by name, saw salmon going up the stream, and with a pitchfork in her hand she tried to spear one of them. The handle of the fork broke and Ida fell on her face in the water, and for some cause could not extricate herself.

No other Christmas trees were prepared but that at the little church, but Sunday morning both the Christian and Southern Methodist Sunday-schools distributed beautiful cards, boxes of candies and other presents to the scholars and teachers. In some instances special presents were made by teachers to their scholars and by scholars to their teachers.

The Christian Endeavor gave a special and appropriate service of song and Bible readings, in the following order: Voluntary by the choir; scripture reading by the pastor, Rev. C. A. Stine; song by choir; prayer by the pastor; song by the choir; scripture references; recitations by Dolly Skeels and Miss Effie Collier; duet by Misses Maude Nosler and Irma Lukens; offering; recitation by Miss Marie Skeels; prayer by the choir; reflections on the topic—first by the pastor, Rev. C. A. Stine; second by Mrs. Anna Nosler; third by Mrs. Jennie Simmons; fourth by Mrs. Sarah Stine; fifth by Mrs. Ora Maury; sixth by Mrs. Sugg.

UPPER-RIVER DEPARTMENT. Myrtle Point and the Upper-Coquille and What is Going on There.

The little son of A. McMickle is still very low; the case is a doubtful one. Prof. L. R. Traver's singing class reached fifty odd members last week. Ed Page returned on Saturday from a visit to the Eckley neighborhood.

Many of our people are suffering from colds or la-grippe; in fact few have escaped it. Go to sleep, darling; there is no harm in that noise; it is only the octet traicking for concert. Jas. Thom was reported as no better Monday evening, having taken a slight back-set last week.

Some of our young folks expect to attend the Woodmen's ball to take place in your city on New Year's eve. Miss Mary Quick, of Coquille City, has spent part of the holidays with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Lavine, of this city.

W. E. Landy returned from the mines a few days ago, bringing the usual good report and little bag of precious stones.

H. H. Rogers, of Coos river, has purchased the Vanhouser property and become a permanent resident of Myrtle Point.

Ralph Knight arrived in town lately from Roseburg. He is quite improved, although not entirely recovered from his injuries.

The bridge across Catching creek, at the D. Giles farm, was broken down a few days ago by a logging team attempting to cross it.

The Misses Laura and Clara Murray spent a few days in town last week. They were en route to Remote, where they will spend the holidays.

Ed Page has taken a pleasure trip to the mountains in the Eckley neighborhood, to visit his old friends in that vicinity and escape the queries of the Alaska admirers.

The private school at this place now has 128 pupils enrolled. This is the largest private school ever taught in this place and speaks well for Prof. Traver and his able assistants.

Orvil Dodge started up the Middle Fork of the Coquille, Monday, to make contracts for the right-of-way for the railroad company and says it will be completed to Roseburg within a year.

We have been led to believe that buzzsaws are on exhibition in some of our show-windows; however, upon investigation we find that pig squashes and yellow pumpkins are the principal display.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held in this place on last Monday evening by the Alaska Company, and it now appears a certainty that a ship will be built and a company of prospectors sail for Alaska in the spring.

W. W. Edicott, the blacksmith, says 1898 will be the leading grain season, judging from the number of plows he has been repairing recently, while Mr. Long seconds the prediction by the harness he has been selling.

A company is organizing at this place with a view to building a schooner and going to Alaska to explore the gold districts in that frozen region. Work on the ship will be begun about the first of January, 1898.

Chas. Schroeder, the road supervisor, has had a crew of men at work on the Middle Fork road for several days recently, so we promise our coast neighbors their mail a little more regularly if Charley's force holds out.

DEATH OF ELDER S. S. BARKLOW. DIED—At his home near Norway, Friday, Dec. 17, 1897, Elder S. S. Barklow, aged 56 years, 4 months and 20 days.

Elder Barklow, or "Uncle Sammie," as he was familiarly called, was born in Union county, Pennsylvania, July 27, 1841, and in 1848 moved with his parents to Stephenson county, Illinois. In 1858 he united with the German Baptist church, being then in his 17th year; was married to Miss Mary Studebaker in about 1861 who died in March, 1866, leaving him with two small children, both boys, one of whom is School Superintendent J. H. Barklow, who is now serving his fourth year as school superintendent of Coos county; the other, the younger Dr. J. S. Barklow, died in this city on June 1st, 1889, in his 26th year. In August, 1867, he married Miss Annie Miller, who was his companion through life and who survives him. There were seven children—3 boys and 4 girls—born to this union, all of whom are still living. In 1871 he, in company with 20 others, came to Oregon and settled on the Coquille river, where, as pioneers, they braved all dangers and endured the hardships incident to the building of homes in a new country. He, with his brother David, introduced the German Baptist religion into this valley and began work of building up a strong branch of that denomination in this vicinity. The church, then numbering only eight persons (being an equivalent number to those saved in the ancient ark), the members being the three brothers, David, John and Samuel Barklow, their mother and their wives, also Miss Betsy Snyder, which in 1873 had increased to 21 members, when a church organization was established that has long since boasted of over 100 members, over which time the responsibility and care of the church has rested on Elder S. S. Barklow, the subject of this sketch, who at the time of his death was elder over the Coquille, Moscow (Idaho) and Oyster-ville (Washington) branches of his chosen church, in which he was an able and earnest worker and one who spent much time and money in its upbuilding and advancement. Elder Barklow was the youngest of a family of seven children—5 boys and 2 girls—he surviving six of them. Since his death, the last on earth to represent that honored family is Mrs. Sarah Hickson, now in her 77th year, who with her aged husband resides in this city. Though surrounded by loving relatives and kind friends she mourns with a loneliness never again to be cheered until God shall call her home to join the family circle on the celestial shores. Her extreme age and enfeebled condition prevented her being present at the interment, which took place at Norway cemetery December 19th, amid the tears of those that knew and loved him best. It is said that over 300 people attended the ceremonies, all of whom were personal friends of the deceased who had come to pay their last respects to the one that had gone and to offer comfort and consolation to the family whose grief is unbounded. It is needless to say that they have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends, extending from the Pacific to the Atlantic Ocean.

The winter session of the Oregon state teachers' association will be held in Portland, beginning this (Tuesday) evening, Dec. 28th, and continuing through Wednesday and Thursday.

Four years of poor mail service was promised when the following contracts were awarded: "Roseburg to Empire City, J. L. Yaden, $6437; Myrtle Point to Bandon, S. C. Stevens, for $487." Said figures are less than one-half what should be received by the mail carrier, consequently poor pay means poor service. Other routes in this vicinity are more in reason, yet many are taken entirely too low.

Orvil Dodge, the pioneer historian, has received many fine photographs of historical and important places in Coos and Curry counties. Among them we notice Battle-Rock of Port Oford, the Coquille and Coos bay bars, a few logging camps and some mining views, all of which are intended for the forthcoming history and would certainly be appropriate. The photographs of many of the old pioneers will also be quite an interesting feature.

It was indeed a merry Christmas in Myrtle Point, the day being daily observed by our people. The Christmas tree in the Presbyterian church was very neatly arranged and bore many presents for the young folks, while a private tree, well laden with nice gifts, made glad the hearts of almost every family within our little village. The entertainment on Christmas eve was well attended, and swelled the treasury of the "Echo Octet" to a considerable extent. The masquerade ball, on Christmas night, was an enjoyable affair, being fairly well attended notwithstanding the fact that some parties maliciously or ignorantly circulated the erroneous report that the brick hall was dangerous and thereby induced many to either remain at home or go elsewhere. Old Santa Claus, in his rounds, seems to have missed none, as evidence of his annual visit was seen on every hand.

Scrofula. Makes life misery to thousands of people. It manifests itself in many different ways, like goitre, swellings, running sores, boils, salt rheum and pimples and other eruptions. Scarcely a man is wholly free from it, in some form. It clings tenaciously until the last vestige of scrofulous poison is eradicated by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the One True Blood Purifier.

Thousands of voluntary testimonials tell of suffering from scrofula, often inherited and most tenacious, positively, perfectly and permanently cured by

DEATH OF ELDER S. S. BARKLOW. DIED—At his home near Norway, Friday, Dec. 17, 1897, Elder S. S. Barklow, aged 56 years, 4 months and 20 days.

Elder Barklow, or "Uncle Sammie," as he was familiarly called, was born in Union county, Pennsylvania, July 27, 1841, and in 1848 moved with his parents to Stephenson county, Illinois. In 1858 he united with the German Baptist church, being then in his 17th year; was married to Miss Mary Studebaker in about 1861 who died in March, 1866, leaving him with two small children, both boys, one of whom is School Superintendent J. H. Barklow, who is now serving his fourth year as school superintendent of Coos county; the other, the younger Dr. J. S. Barklow, died in this city on June 1st, 1889, in his 26th year. In August, 1867, he married Miss Annie Miller, who was his companion through life and who survives him. There were seven children—3 boys and 4 girls—born to this union, all of whom are still living. In 1871 he, in company with 20 others, came to Oregon and settled on the Coquille river, where, as pioneers, they braved all dangers and endured the hardships incident to the building of homes in a new country. He, with his brother David, introduced the German Baptist religion into this valley and began work of building up a strong branch of that denomination in this vicinity. The church, then numbering only eight persons (being an equivalent number to those saved in the ancient ark), the members being the three brothers, David, John and Samuel Barklow, their mother and their wives, also Miss Betsy Snyder, which in 1873 had increased to 21 members, when a church organization was established that has long since boasted of over 100 members, over which time the responsibility and care of the church has rested on Elder S. S. Barklow, the subject of this sketch, who at the time of his death was elder over the Coquille, Moscow (Idaho) and Oyster-ville (Washington) branches of his chosen church, in which he was an able and earnest worker and one who spent much time and money in its upbuilding and advancement. Elder Barklow was the youngest of a family of seven children—5 boys and 2 girls—he surviving six of them. Since his death, the last on earth to represent that honored family is Mrs. Sarah Hickson, now in her 77th year, who with her aged husband resides in this city. Though surrounded by loving relatives and kind friends she mourns with a loneliness never again to be cheered until God shall call her home to join the family circle on the celestial shores. Her extreme age and enfeebled condition prevented her being present at the interment, which took place at Norway cemetery December 19th, amid the tears of those that knew and loved him best. It is said that over 300 people attended the ceremonies, all of whom were personal friends of the deceased who had come to pay their last respects to the one that had gone and to offer comfort and consolation to the family whose grief is unbounded. It is needless to say that they have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends, extending from the Pacific to the Atlantic Ocean.

The winter session of the Oregon state teachers' association will be held in Portland, beginning this (Tuesday) evening, Dec. 28th, and continuing through Wednesday and Thursday.

Four years of poor mail service was promised when the following contracts were awarded: "Roseburg to Empire City, J. L. Yaden, $6437; Myrtle Point to Bandon, S. C. Stevens, for $487." Said figures are less than one-half what should be received by the mail carrier, consequently poor pay means poor service. Other routes in this vicinity are more in reason, yet many are taken entirely too low.

Orvil Dodge, the pioneer historian, has received many fine photographs of historical and important places in Coos and Curry counties. Among them we notice Battle-Rock of Port Oford, the Coquille and Coos bay bars, a few logging camps and some mining views, all of which are intended for the forthcoming history and would certainly be appropriate. The photographs of many of the old pioneers will also be quite an interesting feature.

It was indeed a merry Christmas in Myrtle Point, the day being daily observed by our people. The Christmas tree in the Presbyterian church was very neatly arranged and bore many presents for the young folks, while a private tree, well laden with nice gifts, made glad the hearts of almost every family within our little village. The entertainment on Christmas eve was well attended, and swelled the treasury of the "Echo Octet" to a considerable extent. The masquerade ball, on Christmas night, was an enjoyable affair, being fairly well attended notwithstanding the fact that some parties maliciously or ignorantly circulated the erroneous report that the brick hall was dangerous and thereby induced many to either remain at home or go elsewhere. Old Santa Claus, in his rounds, seems to have missed none, as evidence of his annual visit was seen on every hand.
