OF INTEREST TO THE PEOPLE.

AND NOW LET US ALL BLUSH!

REVELATIONS IN THE HOOLEY CASE THAT MAKE BRITONS BLUSH.

How the Nobility Has Disgraced Itself, and Yet We Are Asked to Patter After Them and Let Our "Nobility" Act for Us.

The world has been startled to learn through Promoter Hooley's revelations of the extraordinary amount of dishonesty and corruption existing in the British aristocracy.

The noblemen implicated are not the few black sheep whose existence even Lord Salisbury has admitted in the house of lords. They are the flower of the aristocracy—the best society, in the common usage of the phrase.

Hooley's revelations mean that the British lawmakers, whose powers correspond to those of American senators, are blackmailers and bribe takers. They have sold themselves to a common parvenue company promoter. They have sold their names as a bait to draw the public into financial schemes about which they knew nothing. They licked Hooley's boots, cheated, bribed and threatened him.

It is well to remind Americans occasionally that an aristocracy is essentially rotten. What would our British cousins say about American politics if a dozen senators proved to be in the pay of one company promoter?

As a matter of fact, every form of crime known to the calendar, every form of degradation known to the civilized life, may be found among the members of the British aristocracy.

There are murderers, thieves, forgers, incendiaries in the gilded chambers.

There are others who have abandoned themselves to drink and the life of the vilest denizens of the slums.

Those who made up Hooley's list are far removed from the utterly degraded. It was their position at the top of society which made them valuable to Hooley as a bait to en-trap the gullible, snobbish, lord-loving British public.

A relative of Lord Salisbury is Earl De la Warr, who got the biggest sum of all from Hooley as a director of the Dunlop Tire Company. His price was $125,000.

Hooley's revelations show principally that honor and honesty are less common among lords than among ordinary people.

Where are the boasted qualities of blood and breeding, and the principle of noblesse oblige, when noblemen sell introductions to members of their order?

But the offenses of the British aristocracy do not cease with dishonor, dishonesty and moral fraud.
All these offenses a nobleman may commit, and still be at the top of society; but there are others which necessarily come under the ban of the law, and cause the offender's removal from the drawing-rooms of Mayfair to the interior of a jail.

For instance, Lord William Neville, fourth son of the Marquis of Abergavenny, was this year sentenced to five years' penal servitude for obtaining money under false pretenses. He is now in jail, wearing a yellow suit with broad arrows all over it, and probably picking oakum. This is the most useful work he is ever doing.

Lord William made friends with a rich young man, Lieutenant Spencer Clay, and induced him to sign certain papers without reading their contents. Lord William alleged that they referred to the divorce of his sister, the Countess Crowley, and would disgrace her if they were read. The papers turned out to be promissory notes for $60,000. Sam Lewis, the money-lender, sued Clay to recover the money, and Lord Neville's fraud was exposed. The couvict's father, the Marquis of Abergavenny, is descended from Warwick the Kingmaker.

Here is the list:

MARQUIS OF QUEENSBURY, MONSTER OF IMMORALITY.

The Marquis of Queensbury framed the famous boxing rules, and has figured in innumerable scandals. Burke's Peerage says he has been twice divorced. There is only one cause for divorce in England. If the marquis lived in Turkey his conduct would be considered disreputable. What shall virtuous Americans say of it?

LORD GREVILLE, A HOOLEY CREATURE.

Lord Greville, another of Hooley's blackmailers, has been a member of parliament, a groom-in-waiting to the queen, and a lord of the treasury. Lord Greville figured in an incident that will live in the annals of the British aristocracy.

Hooley swore that he paid Lord Delawarr $10,000 for merely saying: "Lord Greville—Mr. Hooley."

LORD THOLTO DOUGLAS MARRIED TOUGH GIRL.

Lord Sholto Douglas is a younger son of the Marquis of Queensbury.
Lord Sholto, finding it necessary to seek a change of scene, went to San Francisco. There he married a young woman who alternately sang songs and served beer in a music hall.

ANOTHER OF HOOLEY'S EARLS.

The Earl of March obtained $5000 from Promoter Hooley for being a director of the Schweppe's Mineral Waters Company, and $3000 a year in addition. The earl is eldest son and heir of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, and is descended from an illegitimate son of Charles II, and quarters the royal arms of England, Scotland, Ireland and France.

AN EARL WHO APPEARED AS A BALLET
GIRL.

The Earl of Rosslyn is a British nobleman who has danced upon the stage in ballet girl's costume. The earl is bankrupt and entirely without means of his own. As a last resort he became an actor, and figured at a public dinner in order to advertise the company. He is a brother of the Duchess of Sutherland and the famous Countess of Warwick.

LORD NORBURY TOOK ALL HE COULD GET.

William Brabazon Lindsey Toler, Earl of Norbury, Viscount Glan-dine, Baron Norwood, Baron Nor-bury. These are all titles of a noble blackmailer who took thousands of dollars from Promoter Hooley for helping him to float his companies. The founder of the Norbury family was chief justice of the court of common pleas of Ireland.

LORD SAVILE, WHO BLACKMAILED HOOLEY.

Lord Savile was one of the noble crowd who blackmailed Promoter Hooley. The motto on his coat-of-arms is "Be Fast." Lord Saville, who was formerly known as Sir John Saville, was for years in the diplomatic service, and was last ambassador to Italy. His seat, Rufford Abbey, is famous for its beauty and antiquity.

MARQUIS OF HUNTLEY, DISGRACEFUL BANKRUPT.

The Marquis of Huntley appeared in the London bankruptcy court three weeks ago. His liabilities were $700,000, and his assets $3500. He had wasted his fortune in dissipation and dealing with money lenders. He is penniless and looking for a job. He is the premier marquis of Scotland and one of the chiefs of the Gordon family.

HON. ROBERT DE COREY, WAITER.

The Hon. Robert Charles Sinclair de Corey, only brother of Lord Kingsale, was until lately a steward on the Peninsular and Oriental steamship Britannia. He had not sufficient intelligence to hold any higher position. Now he has given this up on account of a legacy of a few hundred dollars.

LADY SYKES, FORGER.

Lady Sykes, forger, is the wife of Sir Tattou Sykes, friend of the Prince of Wales, and one of the richest baronets in England. He was recently sued for the payment of certain notes. He denied his signature, whereupon it appeared that Lady Sykes had forged it.
The case was compromised.

VISCOUNT HINTON, ORGAN GRINDER.

Viscount Hinton, son and heir of Earl Poulett, is an organ grinder in London. He is far lower than the average Italian who pushes an organ in New York streets. His father married a disreputable woman, and when Viscount Hinton was born he declared he was not his son, and cast him off.

A BARRING BOUGHT BY HOOLEY.

Lord Ashburton, who is a Baring, sold his name to a parvenue promoter. Hooley swore that he paid Lord Ashburton $10,000 for introducing him to other noblemen.
This is peculiarly shocking, because the Barings belong to the financial aristocracy of the world, and ought to have a higher sense of financial honor than hard-upt nobles with landed estates.

SIR R. PEEL, ALL-ROUND BLACKMAILER.

Sir Robert Peel, grandson of the great English prime minister, has squandered his fortune in a most disgraceful manner. He was put out of a gambling club in Paris, and refused to fight a man who had insulted him. He insulted an American girl to whom he was engaged. He is a bankrupt.

LORD DEERBURST SQUEEZED HOOLEY.

Viscount Deerhurst married Miss Bonyuge of California, and is the eldest son of the Earl of Coventry.
He charged Hooley $10,000 for introducing him to other noblemen.
Lord Deerhurst's father, the Earl of Coventry, is master of the buck-hounds, a high office in Queen Victoria's household. The young man's disgrace will give pain to the queen.

A DUKE WHO COULDN'T PAY A LIVERY BILL.

The Duke of Manchester was last year hauled up in an inferior court for failure to pay a livery bill of $1000. He is only twenty-two years old, and is threatened with bankruptcy. He has wasted his small fortune in dissipated living. He will make a new start by marrying an heiress, Miss Joan Wilson.

EARL OF CLANCARY MARRIED A MUSIC HALL SINGER.

The Earl of Clancary married Bell Hilton, a London music hall singer, who exhibited her legs and sang vulgar songs. She has the worst kind of reputation. She has striven to preserve the title, for she has already three children, one of whom will be an earl.

LORD LENOX, BRIDE-TAKER.

Lord Walter Lennox is a brother of the Earl of March. He obtained $5000 for introducing Hooley to his brother, who further proceeded to fleece the promoter. A pleasant family arrangement. Lord Walter was formerly secretary to the Marquis of Salisbury, prime minister of England. One wonders what he is charged for introductions then.

THE EARL OF WARWICK A HOOLEY MINION.

The Earl of Warwick is one of the noblemen who took $10,000 from Hooley for introductions, and other thousands for other purposes.
The earl's wife is the greatest beauty in England, and famous as the most conspicuous woman in the Prince of Wales' set. The earl owns Warwick Castle, one of the most historic places in England.

THE CHEEKEST BLACKMAILING.

The Earl of Winchelsea was exposed by Hooley as a peculiarly shameless financial fraud. He himself suggested that he could be made chairman of the Dunlop Tire Company for a consideration. He got $50,000 from Hooley. He told the latter that he could not accept the money personally, but that he might hand it to his brother.

LORD SALISBURY'S DISHONEST RELATION.

Lionel Charles Cranfield Sackville, eighth Earl Delawarr, Baron Delawarr and West, and Baron Buck-hurst. The earl is a near relative of the Marquis of Salisbury, prime minister. Promoter Hooley swore that he paid Earl Delawarr $125,000 for becoming a director of the Dunlop Tire Company, and for other services in beguiling the public.

LORD ALBEMARLE'S BRIDE.

The Earl of Albemarle is one of the great British nobles disgraced by Promoter Hooley's testimony.
The promoter swore that he paid Lord Albemarle $62,500 for becoming a director in the Dunlop Tire Company. He afterward announced that an agent of Lord Albemarle had offered him $5000 to withdraw this statement.

DUKE'S GRANDDAUGHTER CHILD MUR-DERER.

Mrs. Robert Montagu, daughter-in-law of Lord Robert Montagu, who was a son of a Duke of Manchester, is virtually a child murderer.
She was convicted of causing the death of her daughter by cruelty, and sentenced to a year's imprisonment. Yet she still holds a conspicuous position in high English society.

MARCHIONESS OF AILESBUARY, DRUNKARD.

There is little to be said about the Marchioness of Ailesbury, except that she is as low and vulgar as she can be, and over fond of drink.
Her husband, the late marquis, had the manners of an underbred costermonger, and when he married a ballet girl, Dolly Tester, he went above his natural station.

MARCHIONESS OF DONGALL ON HER UPPERS.

The Marchioness of Dongall lives in a cheap lodging house off the Strand, in London, and takes a drink with any kind-hearted person who offers her one. She is separated from her husband, the Marquis of Dongall, who is penniless and is clerk of an inferior court in Ireland.

A SPANISH TRANSPORT GOES DOWN.
900 Lives Lost—The Gunboat Leyte Was Captured by Americans.

Tacoma, Aug. 30.—The Hong Kong Press is authority for the statement that 900 Spanish sold their lives several weeks ago, when the Spanish gunboat Leyte was captured by a vessel of Dewey's squadron.

The Leyte had been stationed at an adjoining island, where the insurgents were numerous. The latter were gaining ground rapidly and causing 900 Spaniards to board three sailing vessels and endeavor to escape from the natives.

The gunboat undertook to tow the transports to Manila. After the Leyte had towed them some distance along the coast a heavy storm came up making it necessary for the gun-boat to cut the tow lines.

The Leyte was captured by the Americans the next day. An American vessel was dispatched to find the transports but failed to discover any trace of them.

The superior court ruled that the estate need not pay the tax. The supreme court now holds that the estate must pay the tax.

THE MAJOR'S EXPERIENCE.

How He Spent the Greater Part of His Life—A Time When His Life was in Danger.

One of the staunchest supporters of the deep-water way from the Great Lakes to the ocean is Maj. A. C. Bishop, of 715 Third Ave., Detroit, Mich.

MAJOR A. C. BISHOP.

Maj. Bishop has had unusual experience in that line—more probably few are so well qualified to speak intelligently of it as he. For the greater part of his life he has been engaged in water ways and is one of the oldest and best known civil engineers north of the Ohio river.

Commencing in 1850, he was for a number of years an assistant engineer for the Hudson River Railroad, and later held like positions with the Genesee Valley Canal, New York, and also the Des Moines River Improvement and Railroad Co.

He has been superintendent of large mil-ing operations and when the State Reformatory at Elmira, N. Y., was built, he was superintendent and engineer in charge of the construction.

Major Bishop was attached to the staff of Brigadier General Chamberlin, of the National Guard of New York, with the rank of Major from 1855 to 1857.

He has been located in Detroit since 1865, and has a large acquaintance among the business men and citizens of this city.

Two years ago, for the first time, Major Bishop was in the hospital. For two months he had the best of medical attendance but when he was discharged he was not like the Major Bishop of old.

When asked regarding his health, he said:
"When I had my last spell of sickness and came out of the hospital I was a sorry sight, I could not gain my strength, and could not walk over a block for several weeks."

"I noticed some articles in the newspapers regarding Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, which convinced me that they were worth trying and bought two boxes. I did not take them for my complexion but for strength. After using them I felt better, and know they did me worlds of good. I am pleased to recommend them to invalids who need a tonic or to build up a shattered constitution."
—A. C. BISHOP.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 10th day of January, 1898, at Detroit, Mich.
ROBERT E. HULL, Jr., Notary Public.

The pure, powerful vegetable ingredients in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People supply the nutrients for poisonous matter in the blood and add those elements needed to build up body and brain. Many diseases long supposed by the medical profession to be incurable have succumbed to the potent influence of these pills. They can be taken by young or old, being harmless in their nature, but powerful in eliminating disease.
