Coos County's New Temple of Justice.

Located at Coquille City, the County Seat---Description of the Beautiful Structure.

Contractor Harmon Snook, of Salem, Or., began excavating for the new courthouse on block 29, Coquille City, a donation from M. J. McDonald, of San Francisco, Cal., August 15, 1898, and at the same time Micelli Bro's, of Roseburg, established a brick yard on the Geo. Collier place, just east of town, from which to supply the brick. The original contract, entered into by the board of commissioners, Judge J. Henry Schroeder, county judge, and B. F. Ross and I. T. Weekly, commissioners, on the part of the county, and Harmon Snook, esq., of Salem, was for an entire building of brick, trimmed with stone, to be two stories in height, with basement to be used for the jail, sheriff's residence and heaters, the structure to be modern in every particular, and the price to be paid was $11,625. To this was added later the sum of $180 in favor of the contractor, owing to delay in prosecuting the work when first contracted for April, 1897, by intervention of injunction proceedings, during which prices advanced on many articles included in the contractor's estimates. However, the total at this rate was $12,105, which sum was to complete the building, including plumbing, heating and ventilation.

The court found, a little later on, the necessity for adding to the contractor's obligations to keep along with the progress of construction the excavation of a cesspool, for vault doors, jail door, tiling, etc., and payment to the architect for plans and superintending construction an additional sum making the total to reach $13,837.25, which, taken from the special tax levy of 5 1/2 mills on the taxable property of the county, with allowances for errors, etc., the county could expect to realize the sum of $15,000, there would still be left a balance of $1162.75 for furnishing the building, fencing and grading the grounds, etc., in the court's opinion.

A later county election changed the membership of the county court, Judge J. Henry Schroeder and Commissioner Ross retiring, and Judge L. Harlocker and Commissioner Donald McIntosh assuming the duties. On entering upon their positions some modifications of materials and plans of the structure were considered, and instead of a brick, wood was approved for the superstructure, the west entrance was closed, and such necessary modifications of the partitions made in the first story as this change called for.

doorways and the rooms have outside grated windows. The northeast corner is the furnace room, which is large and convenient and floored with concrete. Here are two large "Perfect" Richardson & Boyington hot-air furnaces, furnishing the rooms throughout the entire building with an abundance of warmth, each also having separate ventilators, regulated for the comforts of the occupant by themselves with registers. On the west side of this furnace room, and between it and the jail, is a large 9x19 fireproof vault for the storage of old records. This basement is all substantially and handsomely finished, with bins for storage of coal, wood, etc., and convenient doorways. The sheriff's residence quarters are charmingly inviting, and the windows thereto are all supplied with the Hill patent sliding blinds, modern in style, convenient and beautiful.

The First Floor Can be approached by stairways from the basement at several points, but the public entrance is the large and beautiful front doorway on the south side of the building, approached by a flight of 23 cement steps, 10 feet wide, to a spacious hall, into which—or outward—swing two massive and beautiful doors. To the right of this hall is the entrance to the COUNTY COURT ROOM, Fronting south and east, 24x35 feet, 14 feet to the ceiling, with south-east bay window and a vault. The windows are supplied with the patent sliding blinds—as are also all the rooms. En suite with and fronting to the north side of the building, with a public entrance, an 8-foot corridor, leading from the main hall, is the COUNTY CLERK'S DEPARTMENT, A spacious and elegantly designed business place, having the proportions and air of a banking house. It is 28x35 feet, with a public lobby and counter, underneath which are neat pigeon-holes, cupboards, drawers, shelves and such other conveniences as a well regulated clerk's office would demand; then a massive vault, 9x19 feet, with shelving, drawers, etc., etc., galore, for filing and storing safely the public records and a cabinet for official blanks and papers.

Immediately in front of the landing in the hall of first story, and across it, is a pair of large double doors and protected rear stairway. The room to the left of the county clerk's is assigned to

THE COUNTY ASSESSOR, It is on the north side of the main hall and fronts north. It is 20x20 feet in dimensions and is supplied with a fireproof vault.

Still to the left of the assessor's office, with a north and west fronting, is a room 12x20 feet, approached by a corridor, designated as an

ABSTRACT OFFICE, To the left of the large hall of entrance, fronting southward, is THE COUNTY TREASURER'S OFFICE, size 15x20 and en suite with the sheriff's office. It has a convenient and ample fireproof vault, and is supplied with a counter and desk room.

Still to the left, and the south-west room on that floor, is

THE SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

The office proper is 16x16 feet, with a public lobby 9x19, and includes a private stairway to the circuit courtroom above, one to the sheriff's residence below and to the jail. The big vault occupies a portion of the suite with that of the county treasurer. On the west end of the main corridor, and between the sheriff's office and the abstract room, is a lavatory for official convenience.

Returning to main hall on first floor, on either side of the main entrance, are ample stairways leading to a landing midway, and there merging into one wide central flight again and leading to a large, cheery, south-front room, 15x32 feet, with bay window in southeast corner. It is fit for a governor, and we doubt not the county superintendent will be so smitten with its attractiveness that he will move in and plant himself.

THE SECOND FLOOR APARTMENTS.

At the head of the right stairway a door opens into

On the north side of the hall, directly in front of the main stairway, is

THE SPACIOUS CIRCUIT COURT ROOM.

This room is 35x66 feet, 18 feet to ceiling, with all the conveniences of judge's bench, clerk's and deputy's desks, jury box, and an enclosure for the attorneys. To the rear of the courtroom and connected with it by doorways, occupying the west end of the upper floor, are the petit jury room, 11x15, the judge's room, a lavatory and grand jury room, the latter connected by private stairway with sheriff's office on first floor. A stairway also leads to the tower.

THE TOWER Is square, 16x16 feet, and is 90 feet from the ground to the final. A balcony 4 feet wide circles the tower at a point 50 feet from the ground.

The stairways are of hardwood, and the novel posts finely worked myrtle. The building is plastered throughout with cement finish and tinted.

The courtroom and halls are decorated in an artistic manner, with borders and lines.

The inside finish is in natural state in Coos county white cedar. The base of the wall are all wainscotted with handsome finish, and the windows throughout the building have the beautiful slide blinds.

THE BUILDERS, The following named persons constituted the building force, some dropping out along the way as the work progressed and their particular part of the work was completed:

Chas. H. Burggraf, Salem, Or., architect and superintendent of construction.

Harmon Snook, esq., Salem, Or., contractor and builder.

Micelli Bro's, Roseburg, brick makers. Steiner & Blosser, Salem, Or., contractors for the galvanized iron work, tinning, heating and plumbing, and the work was done by David Steiner, "Shorty" Fraser and J. A. Guyer, of Salem.

The brick work was done by Harry Draper, Oscar Taylor and Dan VanWagner, of Salem, Or. Carpenters—E. Craig, Johnny Stauff, A. L. Nosler, W. H. Nosler, Wm. Burggraf, C. A. White, Cal Shields, L. A. Morgan and Thos. Krewson.

Genial Gene Robinson was "boss" of the work—beginning with the excavation for the basement and ending up with the inside finish, doing all that his hands could find to do. He was ably assisted by Novy Little, Al Hite and Henry Longuss.

The plastering was under the management of E. M. Sorber, of Salem, a skilled workman, and a gentleman from Olalla, whose name is unknown to us.

The painting contract was let to J. M. "Dad" Needham and son Walter, of Salem, Or., and these were ably assisted by our own townsmen Joe Rochon, E. A. McDuffee and N. W. Leneave.

The lumber was furnished from Lyons' mill, of this city, and is spoken of in the highest terms by Supervising Architect Burggraf and Contractor Snook as to quality, skill of preparation and facility of supply.

The vault doors and fronts are works of art from The Champion Iron Co., of Kenton, Ohio. They are supplied with approved locks, bolts and bars, and of handsome finish.

The sash and doors came from the North Pacific Planing Mill Co., of Portland, Oregon.

All in all, Coos county is the possessor of one of the most substantial, handsome and convenient of public buildings, modern in style and arrangement, capacious, convenient and central. Its dimensions are sufficient for years to come, supplying the need for court purposes, public offices and county prison, and yet to the credit of all parties—county court, architect and contractor—the structure has been so substantially, handsomely and honorably built. Coos county is the exception in this reporter's large experience of public work of this kind, wherein the people have been served faithfully and honestly. The cost to our people will hardly be over $15,000, while ordinarily the same sized building, villainously slighted by the interposition of "jobbers" and "jobs," and clinched all along the line by corrupt officials and middlemen, would have run up to $40,000 or $50,000.

The Herald congratulates the citizens of Coos county, and is glad of the humble part it has taken in the matters of selecting a site and at the same time guarding the interests of the people. We feel repaid on the consciousness of having done our duty.

Boston Girl's Confusion. A Boston girl, who recently witnessed an Indian sham battle in the west, thought she would try to talk to a young brave sitting near her. "Heap much fight," said she. "Lo smiled a stoical smile, drew his blanket closer about his stalwart form, and replied: "Yes; this is indeed a great exposition, and we flatter ourselves that our portion of the entertainment is by no means the least attraction here. May I ask you it is that I have the honor of addressing?" "The dear girl from Boston was thunder-struck. She blushed a rosy red—even Boston girls can blush when they thaw out—and hastily fled. She had been addressing one of the Carlisle Indian school graduates.—Omaha World-Herald.
