WERE FED HORSE MEAT.

Tale of an Ex-Member of the Second Oregon Will not Be Denied.

Astoria, Aug. 14.—Charles Newman, of company E, Second Oregon volunteers, was in this city yesterday, and appeared to be particularly pleased that he could talk without being subject to military discipline for it. His tale of his experiences is more or less a hard-luck story, and no young man who listens to him will want to fight in the Philippines. He says that the boys were treated like dogs, and it was not until they got into actual fighting that the officers paid any attention to their comfort. He says that they lived on canned salmon and hard-back for a year, and they got so tired of it that they lost all interest in the salmon industry. Some of the "canned beef" that was given them was horse meat. This, he says, is a fact, as the officers of the regiment went to the trouble to trace it back and found that the meat came from the horse factory at Linton, and, after being shipped to Chicago and had Armour's label placed on it, it was reshipped to the Philippines. He says that there is indisputable evidence of this, and that it will be forwarded to the proper authorities at Washington.

The Political Situation—Some Thoughts on the Condition of Things.

PORT ORFORD, OR., Aug. 10, 1899.
EDITOR COQUILLE CITY HERALD: Through your kind invitation for some correspondence, I will write a few lines; not that I can advance any new ideas, or that they will be of any special benefit to anyone, but I believe if we would exchange our views more freely and discuss the great problems, and measure now confronting the American people more thoroughly, we could come to a better understanding of our duties to our fellow-man.

In looking back and summing up the different moves of the political parties, during the last few years, it is amusing, to say the least.

The Republican party, at its beginning, advocated high protection to our home manufactures and industries, while in their infancy.
That seemed plausible and all right.
But when the calf became as large as the old cow, a certain element concluded that when our petted and fostered industries had gotten such a grip upon the nation that they could dictate and seemingly control elections, and create laws in the interest of trusts and monopolies, that it was about time to wean some of the calves.

These banded themselves together under the title of the People's party, and added a few more planks in the interest of the masses and the general public.

Then the Democrats, under the leadership of Grover Cleveland, were carried clear off of their feet for the upbuilding of monopoly and corporations, in which they had repudiated all time-honored customs.
Therefore a split, and the anti-Clevelandites indorsed the People's party platform, thereby confiscating all of their thunder. Now Mc-Kinley has come to the conclusion that we do not need such high protection—just enough for revenue only. And he seemed to be a straddle of the fence on the money question, or at least he would like to make the people believe that he was undecided. But the money power, no doubt, knows exactly where he stands. Now, too, hear them denounce the trusts, and favor the election of U. S. senators by a direct vote of the people; and I would not be surprised to hear them sanction the Initiative and Referendum in their platform. Oh, Lord, anything to catch votes in 1900. When we hear the Republican papers denouncing the trusts, the very political machine that has made it possible for such combinations to exist, and has fashioned them into existence so rapidly that it is almost impossible to count them—it is a slap in the face to the American people and the merest kind of buncombe.

The trusts and combinations can well afford to allow the Republicans to roast them before the election, and say all kinds of mean things against them, for they know what they can do after the election.

What has become of the Populist party? The Democrats first swallowed their platform. Now the Republicans are trying to swallow the whole business, with the exception of expansion. I believe the expansion problem will be settled before 1900; if not, the Republican party will be materially weakened.

If the Populist party should never be so fortunate as to get in power, it will have the satisfaction of knowing that it was the means of bringing the old parties back in line, where they must respect the wishes of the common people. E. S. P.

of insects will surround you in the

Gov. Geer and the Volunteers.

Governor Geer isn't exactly a Teddy Roosevelt, but he is a deservingly popular man among the soldiers.—Portland Telegram.

In what respect has Geer been a friend to the volunteer, we would ask the Telegram? We are assured that everything the soldiers received from the state of Oregon, blankets, clothes, etc., they paid a very high cash price for. The state administration did nothing for them at all.
Geer, it is true, rode on a free pass to San Francisco to see the transports come in, and again to the state line to meet the special trains, but the home-bound volunteers paid full fare. If there was no money available out of the big appropriation —after Gen. (?) Tuttle and his crowd got their salaries—then the governor might have called on the people of the state to raise the money to bring the boys back home free of charge.
He could have headed the list with a few dollars from the unconstitutional part of the big salary he is getting, and the necessary funds would have been subscribed in twenty-four hours. The Populist governors of Nebraska and South Dakota, whose patriotism was assailed because they asked that the wish of the volunteers to return home when their enlistments had legally expired be respected, have arranged to bring their volunteers home without charging them a cent for railroad fare. Oregon's chief executive, on the other hand, contented himself with declaring a legal holiday, junketing around on free passes himself, and giving his double-action rapid-fire mouth free play.

Governor Geer, it will be remembered, opposed the demands of the boys and their relatives and friends to be mustered out when their terms of enlistment had legally expired, first making sure that his nephew, the only relative he seems ever to have had in any army, was discharged. Other governors took up the question on behalf of the soldier boys and the administration was forced to admit the justice of their demands and recall the volunteers. If Oregon's governor had had his way the volunteers from this state would have been fighting and dying over these jets, and he would be talking as glibly as ever in order to give his pent up patriotism vent.

For popularity among the soldiers, Geer ought to rank a good second with a can of Algie's embalmmed beef.—Roseburg Review.

Two Points of View.

An old Scotchwoman was walking to church with her family. The old church minister rode by at a tremendous rate, and the old lady said to her children: "Such a way to be ridin'; and this the Sabbath day.
Aweel, aweel a good man is merciful to his beast!" Shortly afterward her own minister rode past just as furiously, and the worthy old wife cried: "Ah, there he goes! The Lord bless him, good man! His heart's in his work, an' he's eager to be at it!"

The Flaming Sword: A German scientist has been willing away his time in making estimates and calculations concerning the relative amounts of the various materials of which the human body is composed, and he reaches the conclusion that there are contained in 1200 hens' eggs all the ingredients necessary to make a man weighing 150 pounds.
Reduced to a fluid, the average man would yield 98 cubic meters of illuminating gas, and hydrogen enough to fill a balloon capable of lifting 155 pounds. According to the calculations, the normal man contains enough iron to make seven large nails, fat for fourteen pounds of candles, carbon for 65 gross of crayons, and phosphorus to make 820,000 matches. Besides all these things, out of man there could be obtained 20 teaspoonfuls of salt, 50 lumps of sugar and about 10 gallons of water.

Age of Reason: "The politician is my shepherd; I shall not want any good thing during the campaign.
He leadeth me into the saloon for my vote sake; he filleteth my pockets with good cigars; my glass of beer runneth over. He prepareth my ticket for me in the presence of my better judgment.
Yes, though I walk through the mud and rain to vote for him and shoot myself hoarse, when he is elected straightway he forgetteth me; lo, when I meet him in his own office, he knoweth me not. Surely the wool has been pulled over mine eyes all my life, and I will kick myself forever.

At present it is estimated there are in the world's oceans 7,000,000 cubic miles of salt, and the most astonishing thing about it is that if all of this salt could be taken out in a moment the level of the water would not drop an inch.

The Storm in the East.

The loss of life by the recent Porto Rico hurricane was 500.
According to dispatches from points in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa and Wisconsin, a great deal of damage was done by Friday night's storm. In some places there was some loss of life, due to lightning, and the loss in crops and destroyed buildings reaches a very heavy figure.

Preparing for War.

Johannesburg, Aug. 14.—The Standard and Diggers' News says today:
"The Boers are convinced that there is nothing for it now but the arbitration of arms. All sorts of warlike rumors are in circulation.
It is alleged that the field cornets have received orders to supply all unarmed burghers with rifles grat-uitously, and to substitute Mausers for the Martini-Henrys wherever the latter are still in use."

A Klondike King Falls.

A special to the Times-Herald, from San Francisco, says: Alexander McDonald, king of the Klondike, has failed. Liabilities are estimated at $6,000,000, assets of uncertain value. After knowing for two years what it is to be a millionaire, he has shouldered his pick and started again as a poor miner.

The Counsel of Dreyfus Assassinated.

Rennes, France, Aug. 14.—Maitre Labri, counsel for Capt. Dreyfus, was assassinated by an unknown man this morning while on his way to court. The murderer escaped and has not yet been apprehended.

The Best Remedy for Flu.

Mr. John Mathias, a well known stock dealer of Pulaski, Ky., says:
"After suffering for over a week with flu, and my physician having failed to relieve me, I was advised to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and have the pleasure of stating that the half of one bottle cured me." For sale

The Immensity of Space.

It is almost impossible for the mind to comprehend the vastness of the spaces that separate us from the stars, even from those that are nearest. Some idea of our marvelous distance from Sirius, the nearest fixed star, and which shines brightest in the heavens, is given by this illustration: A scientific writer says that if people on the star Sirius have telescopes powerful enough to distinguish objects on this planet, and are looking at it now, they are witnessing the destruction of Jerusalem, which took place over 1800 years ago. Of course, the reason of this is that the light which the world reflects, traveling, as it does, at the rate of 186, 000 miles per second, would take over eighteen centuries to reach the nearest fixed star.

Chicago Inter Ocean: The kissing bug, which is said to be causing so much trouble in Washington, must be something like the kissing bee we used to have in Illinois long ago.

As a fly can see a morsel of filth invisible to the kitchen maid, so a social scavenger can always discern the smallest faults. Both the fly and the slanderer have compound eyes.

The Danger Signal of Life

Mr. G. H. Snyder, a well known citizen of Lawrence, Kan., said:
"I am now seventy years of age. About three years ago I experienced a coldness or numbness in the feet, then creeping up my legs, until it reached my body. I grew very thin in flesh, appetite poor and I did not relish my food.
At last I became unable to move about. I consulted several distinguished physicians, one telling me I had locomotor ataxia, another that I had creeping paralysis. I took their medicines but continued to grow worse. Almost a year ago a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Before I had finished my first box I found they were benefiting me. I used twelve boxes in all, and was perfectly cured. Although it is six months since I used my last pill there has been no recurrence of the disease."
From Lawrence Journal.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and vigor to the blood and nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after-effects of the grip, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, and all forms of weakness either in male or female.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are never sold by the ounce or by the half-ounce, but only in boxes. At all druggists, or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., 50 cents per box, 5 boxes $2.50.
