Coquille City's Celebration. The Glorious day of our national independence was duly observed by a celebration previously arranged by a committee of patriotic citizens who were equal to the emergency and presented a program in road modern American style.

It is estimated that there were 1200 people present, and there would evidently have been more had it not been for the threatening appearance of the weather. At sunrise the work of firing the salute of thirteen guns commenced, and everything about town showed signs of life after this, while guns and crackers kept up such din that no one could forget that it was the glorious 4th.
