The Wise Man Foresees the Evil.

For about the fortieth time in our own personal experience, a great drouth has dried up the sources of profits of nine out of ten of the dairy farmers of the land. The milk flow has shrunk at nearly every creamery and cheese factory from 40 to 60 per cent.

Think of what a fearful loss that is. Yet it could have been easily and inexpensively avoided. These same farmers have been punished in just the same manner a score of times before, yet the smart of the lash has been forgotten and it will be again. Thousands of farmers who depend so much on pasture will have to sell a large portion of their cows, for not only is pasture dried up but so is hay, corn, and other forage.

Butter bids fair to bring a good price but these farmers will have no milk of consequence to make butter from, and so the lesson comes year after year, and they learn but little, from it.

It is the strangest thing on earth. There is not another class of men in existence that would take such continued slaps in the face year after year without learning something from it; how to help themselves when the day of trouble cometh.

All that was required was that they should have built a silo last year big enough to furnish say 4 tons of ensilage for every cow during the winter, with enough left over to make a ton or ton and a half for this period of drouth in the summer, which is sure to come. It is a simple thing to do; it is comparatively an easy thing to do.

Here is a hard fact in support of the statement. Last year we built a new silo which held 200 tons of ensilage. It was filled to the top and this last spring we had about 50 tons left over as we had calculated. Along comes this hot, scorching, wind and drouth and in a week's time the pastures were turned as brown as a berry. The cows could not get succulent grass to make milk of, so they commenced to shrink in their milk flow.

Then the ensilage was uncovered and they were given a good feed of it night and morning. The milk flow came up at once, and has continued clear up to grade all through the month of July. Our pasture was one of the very best in the state, but good as it was, there was no longer a good flow of milk in the grass. This ensilage supplied the deficiency of a juicy, good food. How simple it was. Yet simple as it is, there are hundreds of farmers in this our home county, who have lost thousands of dollars by the drouth and are not yet punished enough. They expect to keep right along in the dairy business for years and yet they cannot see that a silo is as necessary as a barn to meet the contingiences of climate for their profit.

They are so completely stuck on the idea of pasturage, that they will hang to it when it has become worthless. But there a few, who, having eyes, can see, and they say that not another summer rolls over their heads without ensilage to meet this ever sure drouth.—Hoard's Dairyman.

The following extract from a letter just at hand, shows the confidence of school boards in the State Normal at Drain: "We want a thorough and strong teacher—lady teacher—one who has had several terms outside experience, as well as the advantage of your training department. If chanced that the president has such a teacher that he could recommend." Normal graduates are being sought and this fact is turning students towards the Normal. The Normal aids its graduates in securing positions. The TEACHER'S REVIEW CLASS will be found of great benefit to those needing review work for examinations. Address the President, Drain, Oregon.

The state of Oregon refuses to give James McDonald, a London waiter, a free ride to Portland for the purpose of giving him a hearing for the robbery of the Western Lumber Company's office of $4,728.70 last year on his own confession.

Police Works Over-Time on Drays.

The following are excerpts from what the Examiner has to say regarding San Francisco's police services during the strike:

San Francisco now is a city almost entirely without police protection. There are plenty of policemen, but all are busy riding on the drays of "the biggest business men of the city."

While the lives and property of more than 300,000 citizens are left unprotected, 300 members of the Employers' Association have half a regiment of patrolmen at their service for fourteen hours a day.

The result of the withdrawl of all the men on patrol duty is far-reaching. Burglaries, robberies, holdups and petty crimes have become so frequent that orders have been issued from police headquarters that reports of such crimes must not be made public. Citizens whose houses have been robbed are warned not to give publicity to the crimes.

"Dont mention this robbery to the newspapers or to any one if you want the Police Department to have anything to do with the case."

That was the statement made to C. Shea in the Chief's office when he reported that his saloon, at Third and Townsend streets, had been entered by burglars.

Shop-keepers discover thieves at work in their stores and blow police whistles until they are out of breath. No policemenanswer their summons. Women and children brush against burglars at work in their homes and vainly scream for the policemen, who are not on duty, except in the daytime atop of some wagon or astride a horse. Footpads slug citizens on the streets and leave their victims senseless in cellarways, not to be found until the next morning.

And while all this crime is going on the 450 policemen, who are paid from the municipal tresury are under the direction of the Employers' Association, quelling the "riot" which no one but Police Commissioner Newshall and a few employers have been able to discern.

Sixteen policemen are expected to patrol the entire city between 5 p. m. and 1 a. m., but hundreds ride on drays. Each beat in the residence section is about fifteen miles long. If a policeman could possibly cover this distance he might be on hand at any given point about once in ten hours. Twenty idle men can be found at draymen's barns at any hour.

After 1. a. m. there is not a single patrolman on duty anywhere in the city. The O'Farrell-street police station is closed. One sergeant without a man to command is on duty at the Stanyan-street station. Burglars may roam at will without disturbing the police force, sleeping after fourteen hours' service under the banner of the Employers' Association.

Resolutions.

RIVERTON Oregon Aug. 24th 1901.

MR. EDITOR. Our conference held a harmanious session; and just before its close the following resolutions wer adopted:

Whereas, Most party leaders dare not lift a hand or vote against that most crushing, pitiless, autocratic, merciless, murdering trade, the liquor traffic, and because a Methodist Protestant must be an active, tireless, unrelenting enemy of the saloon, because it is a breeder of rottenness, ruin, and riot, and has no redeeming feature.

Therefore, Resolved, by the Oregon Mission Conference of the Methodist Protestant church that we are in favor of the everlasting banishment, extinction, extermination, annihilation expulsion, abolition and condemation to endless nonexistence of the saloon by all the means in our reach, for it cannot be legalized without sin, and,

Whereas, such sins are so prevalent in this part of the state, whereby the laws of the state, as well as the laws of morality and humanity, are set at naught, and whose demoralising influence is so far reaching that it comes in contact with every society and industry:

Therefore be it resolved by this Oregon Misson canference of the Methodist Protestant church that we enter our solemn protest against ball games, excursions, and kindred amusements on the Lord's day. We pledge ourselves to use our best endeavors by precept and example to suppress the same.

THE HOME GOLD CURE.

An Ingenious Treatment by which Drunkards are Being Cured Daily in Spite of Themselves.

No Noxious Doses. No Weakening of the Nerves. A Pleasant and Positive Cure for the Liquor Habit.

It is now generally known and understood that Drunkenness is a desease and no weakness. A body filled with poison, and nerves completely shattered by periodical or constant use of intoxicating liquors, requires an antidote capable of neutralizing and eradicating this poison, and destroying the craving for intoxicants. Sufferers may now cure themselves at home without publicity or loss of time from business by this wonderful "Home Gold Cure," which has been perfected after many years of close study and treatment of inebriates. The faithful use according to directions of this wonderful discovery is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker. Our records show the marvelous transformation of thousands of Drunkards into sober, industrious and upwright men.

Wives Cure Your Husbands! Children cure your fathers! This remedy is in no sense a nostrum but is a specific for this disease only, and is so skillfully devised and prepared that it is thoroughly soluble and pleasant to the taste, so that it can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it. Thousands of Drunkards have cured themselves with this priceless remedy, and as many more have been cured and made temperate men by having the "Cure" administered by loving friends and relatives without their knowledge in coffee or tea, and believe today that they discontinued drinking of their own free will. Do Not Wait. Do not be deluded by apparent and misleading "improvement." Drive out the disease at once and for all time. The "Home Gold Cure" is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, thus placing within reach of everybody a treatment more effectual than others costing $25 to $50. Full directions accompany each package. Special advice by skilled physicians when requested without extra charge. Sent prepaid to any part of the world on receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. The Pacific Monthly for August.

The August number of the Pacific Monthly is the best number of that magazine ever issued. It has made a new departure in that it has adopted the plan of having many illustration, the most popular feature of magazines nowadays. The articles, too, are of exceptional interest They combine the local and the world-wide in such a degree as to challenge the interest of all people in this section.

The leading article is a reminiscent sketch of the poets and philosophers who lived in Concord, Massachuesetts, the middle of the last century. It is by Wallace Brainard Conant, who has been a resident of Concord, and who writes from personal and familiar knowledge of that historic old town, its history and it famous people. The sketch is profusely illustrated with fine half-tones of the places famous in Revolutionary history, centering in the Concord fight. April 19, 1775.

Then there is a poem which breathes the spirit of the Rockies—"The Monarch of the Mountains," a legend of the Nez Perce Indians—a weird, stirring tale, well told in hexameter verse. The author is C. W, Pefley, of Lewiston, Idaho. The number also contains a short love story, "His Strange Helper," a tale of pioneer life in the Missouri Valley. A poem of local flavor, "The Nymph of the Willameete," by Andrew Franzen, is another feature. Educatioal interests are considered in an article by Mrs Lydia A. Irons on "Ethical Education."

These are by no means all the interesting features of the number. The departments are comprehensive, reviewing the various activities of the month, and the department devoted to "Men and Women" contains a large number of potraits of persons who are prominent in the world just now. The issue is one to call forth both pride and admiration from readers and subscribers of this splendid and worthy enterprise, which is meeting with such marked success.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh; which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) tan cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
