The cannery shut down about the first on account of the lack of cans, the fishing season not being out till the 20th. This will prove a good thing in the future no doubt, as there are an unlimited number of fish going to the spawning grounds of the upper river, which will insure large runs in the future.

160 acres for sale. 1/2 of a mile from river. Enough red cedar to cut 1,000,000 shingles, good grazing and fruit land with fine bottom land garden of about 3 acres, and 100 young fruit trees set, few bearing. Fine coal on place. Would take good team as part pay, and give time on part. Inquire of the HERALD.

We failed to mention in our last issue that Mrs. R. Pomeroy, of Parkersburg, who went to Hempstead, Texas, on a visit, was accompanied by her brother, W. A. Dickson, who has gone back to bring out a housekeeper. This is as it should be. And since they are acquaintances of long standing and have been in direct communication along the lines of matrimony for upward of twenty years, we cannot consider the act in anywise rash.

How's This.

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. F. J. CHENEY & CO. Proprietors, Toledo, O.

The work of developing the Crescent mine, on the Isthmus, is progressing rapidly, and the management anticipates the commencement of coal shipments within sixty days. By that time it is reasonably certain that the output of the mine will be at least 100 tons per day, and a steamer about the size of the Homer, which will make weekly trips to San Francisco will be chartered. Mr. Maxwell informs us that the small bunker at the mine will be used temporarily, but next spring an entire new shipping plant will be put in. The new plant will be designed with the object of loading coal with as little handling and consequent breakage as possible, and will be an improvement in numerous ways over the old method.

The three veins of coal in the mine will be worked from the one opening, the middle vein being opened first, and then tunnels run to the upper and lower veins. As the development work progresses, the output will be constantly increased, and, it is estimated, within two years will reach 1,000 tons per day. Suitable steamers for the trade will be procured, or built, and shipments will be made to ports south of San Francisco.

Soundings made on Isthmus slough, between Marshfield and the Crescent mine, show a depth of 13 feet of water at low tide, at the shallowest place, thus allowing vessels drawing 17 feet to cross without trouble at less than high tide. The shallowest place in the slough is near the Eagle Point log beam, and should it be necessary, it can be dredged at a limited expense.

A force of carpenters has been at work at the mines for several days past, putting up necessary buildings, etc., and Crescent City will soon have a place on the map of Coos Bay.—Coos Bay News.

The steamers and sail fleet now in Portland harbor is loading flour, wheat and canned goods for South Africa, lumber and flour for the Orient, hay, oats and lumber for Manila, and wheat and barley for the United Kingdom. Coastwise vessels just departed carried potatoes, onions, flour, paper, lumber, butter and other Oregon products to California. Every cargo dispatched from this port represents the distribution of large sums of money among the producing classes, who in turn keep it in circulation in channels of trade where its influence is felt to the fullest extent. The vault of the cargoes now loading or loaded in the port will approximate $2,000,000, and every dollar of this sum has been created right here in the northwest within a very short time. The best feature of the business, however, is the fact that it is continuous, for when this November fleet is out of the way a December fleet of even greater proportions will follow it.—Oregonian.
