E. Ogren, of Marshfield, who has been down on Elk river prospecting for several weeks, passed through this place yesterday on his way home. He, with Will Elliott, have a splendid placer prospect in an admirably convenient place to work, and we trust the boys may do well. They have also found a prospect of another nature, the kind of metal being unknown to them, he brings up a lot of the samples of rock which he will have analyzed.

George Ayer, of Marshfield, passed through town this morning on his way to Riverton where he has a large class in music. He tells us that the Crescent Coal Co. struck the long-looked for vein of coal at Coos City on Saturday. This will no doubt be a big thing to Coos county. This, according to the theories of our best mining experts, proves that the whole county is underlain with a stratum of coal very much greater in extent and far superior in quality to anything yet opened, and will offer a stimulus to coal mining never before felt in Coos county.
