CEDAR POINT BOOM SITE CHANGES HANDS.

J. T. McCormac Buys Coquille Frontage and Will Improve Logging Facilities.

A deal was consummated Monday whereby Dr. J. T. McCormac, of this city, bought of J. W. Coon 1½ miles of water frontage on the Coquille river at Cedar point boom.

The purchase of this frontage by Dr. McCormac is part of plans which he has had for same time in mind and the carrying-out of which will have an important bearing on the development of the timber resources of Coos county.

Dr. McCormac already owns the Eagle point boom on this side just above the Bay City mill, where the logs brought from the Coquille by rail are dumped into tidewater, this boom having a capacity of about 7,000,000 feet. He will now proceed to enlarge the boom at Eagle point by extending it up the river, and later building a supplementary boom below. The intention is to make room for about 3,000,000 feet of logs. A plant will then be put in for hoisting the logs from the water and loading them on the cars in an economical manner.

The intention is to establish a system whereby for a reasonable price the logs will be taken from the Coquille river and delivered to the mill here, the charges for boomage on the Coquille, loading on cars, freight, boomage on this side and rafting to the mill all being included in one fixed charge which will be low enough to enable Coquille loggers to sell their logs to the mills here at a profit.

By having the booms on both sides and the loading plant all under one management it will be possible to handle the work in an expeditious and economical manner. Formerly there were no loading facilities on the Coquille side except as the loggers cobbled up temporary expedients with hired hoisting engines, and the result was that with charges of boomage, freight, etc., to pay the different parties the expense was too great. All this will be changed, and when Dr. McCormac's plans are carried out we may look for a revival of the logging industry on the Coquille, the effects of which will be felt beneficially on the bay.

There are immense tracts of the finest timber, which have never been touched, on the Coquille river and its tributaries, and if the cost of transporting the logs to the bay can be brought down to a figure which will permit it, there is no doubt that nearly all this timber will be converted into lumber in the mills here, where shipping facilities are adequate to handle it.

This will help both bay and the river and tend to bring the two parts of the country into closer relations, a thing much to be desired.—aDily Coast Mail

Memorial to Lincoln.

New York, Jan. 5.—The American Missionary Association has issued an appeal to the Congregational churches of the country to observe Sunday, February 6, as a memorial of Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday is February 12. The churches, and especially their Sunday schools and Endeavor societies, are urged to emphasize Christian patriotism.

"Abraham Lincoln," says this appeal, "was born in the mountains of the South, where schools and churches have been established by this association. The negroes have grown into a great multitude of more than 8,000,000, among whom this association has planted its institutions and missions. Through its missionaries the colored people are being trained in the shop, on the farm, in the school and at home, for safe citizenship and Christian responsibility. President Lincoln urged the kind and Christian treatment of the Indians. The negro and Indian departmets of missionary work carried on by this association are, therefore, naturally suggested by his name."

Official advice from the City of Mexico denotes a state of excitement in our sister republic wholly unwarranted by any condition of affairs at home or abroad. In that country are two strong parties, the Clerical and the Liberal. The former looks with distrust upon the United States and sees in the Monroe doctrine the future absorption, commercially and politically of everything on this hemisphere by the "greedy Yankees." "El Tiempo," the organ of this self-scared set of politicians, says: "Roosevelt's message is characterized by an arrogant and vainglorious tone." The Liberal organ replies with more sanity: "We fear nothing from the United States. That great republic plants itself on the Monroe doctrine and that of peace in this hemisphere. The United States offers as a pledge of its sincerity the support they gave Mexico during her war with Napoleon the Third,"

Marconi's System Carried Sad News.

New York, Jan. 8.—A dispatch to the Herald from Nantucket Lightship, off the coast of Massachusetts, gives an account of the manner in which Captain Jorgensen, of the lightship, received the news of the illness and death of his daughter through his wireless telegraph system. Says the dispatch:

"Informed by wireless telegraphy of the illness and death of his daughter, on the mainland, and yet kept an unwilling prisoner for seven days because of the extremely rough sea, which prevented incoming steamers from taking him off, Captain Jorgensen, of the lightship, finally succeeded in getting o board the steamship Astoria, which will carry him ashore. Life on the storm-swept lightship has been almost unbearable to Captain Jorgensen since the receipt of the first news of his daughter's illness.

"The girl, who was only 19 years of age, has been ill from the effects of vaccination at her home in Braintree, Mass. News of her condition since she was first taken ill had been daily flashed to her father at his lonely post by means of the Marconi system. As the daily bulletins told of her rapid loss of strength and the premonitary systomps of lockjaw, which finally developed, Captain Jorgensen's distress of mind became greater day by day. At last came a dispatch announcing her death on December 30.

All Birds Fear Mirrors

"I learned a trick while in the Philippines in the matter of keeping birds out of fruit trees," volunteered a well known official of the postoffice department to a Star reporter. "It is simple, inexpensive and, as far as I could observe, practical. It consists in hanging a small mirror on the top limbs of the tree. There should be at least six inches of string to the mirror, so that it can swing about as it is blown by the wind. The flash of the mirror, it appears, scares the birds away. One or two 5-cent mirrors hung on a tree is sufficient, though, of course, three or four would be that much better. I was told that this method had worked in the Philippines successfully for many years and that the birds do not grow familiar with it as they do with a scarecrow. Since my return here I find that the mirror scare is not unknown here and that it has been in use by Michigan fruit growers for many years. I have tried it myself in a small way and it is amusing what a stir it creates among the birds."—Washington Star.

Root Suffocation.

It is difficult to get people to understand that trees can die from drowning just as animals can. Trees feed primarly by the roots, but there must be a certain amount of oxygen in the soil to enable them to make use of the food. Standing water prevents the action of the life-giving oxygen. A Boston correspondent refers to two large horse chestnuts which were moved last spring with the greatest skill, but they died. In the fall an examination was made and the holes found to be full of water within one foot of the surface of the ground.

The holes were really flower pots without the necessary holes in the bottom to allow the water to escape. There can be no better lesson in gardening than to be continually remembering why it is necessary to have a hole in a flower pot.—Mehan's Monthly.

Remarkable Cure of Croup—A Little Boy's Life Saved.

I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It saved my little boy's life and I cannot praise it enough. I bought a bottle of it from A. E. Steere of Goodwin, S. D., and when I Got home with it the poor baby could hardly breathe. I gave the medicine as directed every ten minutes until he "threw up" and then I thought sure he was going to choke to death. We had to pull the phlegm out of his mouth in great long strings. I am positive that if I had not got that bottle of cough medicine, my boy would not be on earth today.—Joel Demont, Inwood, Iowa. The Dairy Calf.

Now, suppose this is a heifer calf descended from a good dam and a better sire, and we place it in the hands of the dairyman who can make out of it all that nature intended it to be. It should never be stunted for a moment from the time it is dropped until it goes into the dairy. A few hours after it is born, if it cannot stand, gently support and proceed to give it its first milk. Nature has provided that the first taken from the mother is the best food for it, but we must be the judge of quantity. A safe way is to take a pint of milk and an equal quality of water, and never give this at a temperature less than 98 degrees. I will not take time to tell how to teach the calf to drink, only put two fingers into its mouth instead of one, as the milk will flow more freely between them; and bring to bear all your good nature and some of your Jobbike patience, and success will be the result. The reason why water is added to the milk is because by high breeding we have increased the quality of Guernsy and Jersey milk until it is not safe to feed to the young calf. I am of the opinion that nine-tenths, perhaps all, of the cases of calf cholera are caused by bad management, and not epidemic, as many say. Some of the farmers around home, we among the number, have lost many calves from this disease simply from the lack of knowledge of proper treatment. I feel safe in saying that there will be no trouble if the milk is not given cooler than 100 or 98 degrees, and the calf is not overfed. Like the human family, more harm is caused by overfeeding than vice versa. Don't let the calf become chilled and the bowels congested. When the cow's milk is fit for use the calf can be fed on skim milk and a small portion of cake meal.

The fat calf is not the calf to make the dairy cow, hence the cake meal with the skim milk makes the best food. Four to five pounds of food daily for the first week is a safe quantity. The second week increase as the calf can take safely. The bucket should be thoroughly cleaned after each feed—clean enough for a person to drink out of.

The calf's compartments should be well littered and well ventilated, and there should be plenty of light and sun. The caretaker should be able to see the condition of the calf readily at any moment. To prevent the little calf from getting sore and scabby around the mouth and nose, squeeze or clean the milk off when it is through drinking.—(E. B. Sharpless, in The National Stockman.

Pigs and Cows.

The dairyman of today is of necessity a breeder of swine. The two go together, so thoroughly that it would be a waste of good mactrial and opportunity to neglect either. There can be no doubt that nature intended that the pigs should be the companions of the cows in the clover field, says A. B. Barrett, in the American Cultivator. But more than that, the swine should be fed on the skim milk that comes from the dairy. Pigs and shoats will thrive on skim milk as on nothing else. The milk fed in this way will yield a larger profit than if sold in the ordinary market, where only a few cents a quart can be obtained, and often not that. The waste of time and material in trying to find a good market for skim milk is the most discouraging feature of the dairy business. Many a man has been induced to leave the business entirely on account of this. After settling up his accounts for the year he has found that he was actually no gainer for the year's work.

The only actual sure way of making money is to have a well-organized dairy and pig farm. Enough of the latter should be kept at all times to consume the skim milk. By rapid growing and selling, turning the money over quickly, a good profit can be made for every quart of skim milk fed, superinduced by heavy corn and grain feeding. We cannot stamp the disease out unless we change the diet. Let that be skim milk and green clover and grass from the first of June until the end of September, and any man can raise as fine a flock of clean, healthy swine as any market man could ask, and the market for such animals is always ready with prices far more constant than for most farm products.—Pacific Homestead.

One thing that takes away a good deal of the pleasure for women in camping out where you sleep on the ground is that there is no chance to look for a man under the bed.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours,
