What About Good Roads?

Several of our friends have called our attention of late to the absolute necessity of a radical change in the manner of conducting our road building and maintaining roads after they are once opened. This county will be obliged in the very near future to inaugurate some plan of making and keeping roads which may be traveled at all seasons of the year, and the County Court who makes the first move in this direction will ever be remembered as long as the records of our county stand.

The North Fork road projected several years ago and on which $800 or $1000 of county money has been spent besides hundreds of days' work donated, yet there is a gap of only a quarter of a mile uncompleted and yet it stands year after year in that condition, when its completion would shorten the road to market for a large number of people upwards of 12 miles.

There is also complaint right here in town that the necessary efforts have not been made to keep our roads passable. The planking taken from one of our suburban bridges was allowed to lie in a pile when it should have been put on some of the worst places so as to make it possibly to pass over them.

It has been suggested that our candidates for office be asked to declare themselves for or against roads and the people will be able to make a choice intelligently. County portable sawmills are an absolute necessety and we must have them. There is hardly a community in the county which would not plank thur roads if the mill were furnished.

New Use for Telephone.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Officers of the Illinois Central Railway experimented last night with a telephone designed to supplant the telegraph instrument in the transacting of railway business The test was made between Chicago and Kankankee, 59 miles of what is said to be the worst line along the road. The telephoning is done over an ordinary telegraph wire and without interrupting the telegraphic messages.

The tests lasted an hour, and were declared satisfactory, despite the weather.

Sixty Perished in A Snowslide.

Telluride, Colo., Feb 28.—Between 60 and 70 men are reported dead beneath a snowslide which wrecked the Liberty Bell mine shafthouse. The slide came down at 7:30 o'clock this morning. It is reported there were between 60 and 70 men in the bunkhouse at the time it was carried down into the gulch below. Communication with the mine is shut off, and the names of the victims cannot be ascertained.

Fred Clemmon, boss of the boarding-house, and Charles Hall, a well-known miner, were killed. The present storm is the worst since 1895, and slides are xpected any minute at Ophir and other place.

Telluride, Colo., Feb. 28 (2:30 P. M.)—Another snowslide occured on the Smuggler mountain this afternoon, burying about 40 men who were engaged in rescuing the men buried in the first slide.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon a powerful glass was directed toward the trail leading up to the Liberty Bell. Squads of miners, carrying bodies of their unfortunate companions, could be seen coming down. It required from two to four men to convey each body, and the descent is necessarily slow. Every now and then one of the men assisting in this gruesome task could be seen to lose his footing, stumble and fall, carrying those near him down. It was a scene never to be forgotten by those who witnessed it the risking of life to bring to their desolated homes the bodies of those who, a few hours before, had been full of life and and hope.
