TRAGEDY RUN DOWN AT LAST.

Surrounded in a Wheat Field He Commits Suicide.

Spokane, Aug. 6.—(Special to The Evening Telegram.)—Harry Tracey is dead. The notorious criminal, outlaw desperado and multi-murderer committed suicide last evening after being shot twice by his pursuers.

After defying for nearly two months all law, setting at naught all efforts of the authorities of two states to capture or kill him, baffling the best man hunters on the Pacific Coast and traveling across two states with impunity, this criminal wonder of the 20th century has at last been sent to his final resting place.

TO ORESTON MEN THE GLORY.

A party from Creston, Wash., had the honor of running to earth the notorious outlaw and are due to receive the rewards of $4,100 offered by the Governors of Oregon and Washington and by private individuals.

Proceeding in a southeasterly direction for about 11 miles, the pursuing party made all possible haste in getting near the ranch of L. B. Eddy, which is situated on Lake Creek, about three miles directly south of Fellows, on the Washington Central Railway, where the outlaw was said to be located.

They approached the place in safety, and when within some few hundred yards came across Farmer Eddy mowing in a field. The party went to him and while engaging him in conversation they saw a man issue from the barn, which could be seen plainly from where the party stood on a rise of ground.

"Is that Tracey?" asked one of the party.

"It surely is," laconically replied Eddy.

With this information in hand and the man so close to the hunters, there was naturally a great deal of excitement. The party separated and Lunter and Smith accompanied Eddy in the direction of the barn, while the other two men swung around to cut off any break for liberty in another direction.

Nearing the barn the two man-hunters stepped behind the barn on a slight eminence from which they could watch everything that went on, and the farmer continued up to the door. When he arrived there Tracey came from the barn again and began helping his host unhitch the horses. He carried no rifle, although he had his revolvers in place.

TRACY SIGHTS PURSUERS.

The fugitive saw the men carrying the rifles, and turning sharply on Farmer Eddy, said: "Who are those men?" "I don't see any men," said the host. Whereupon Tracey pointed out the two men on the hill, waiting to be sure of their man before they began shooting. Eddie informed his companion who the men were, and at that time the officers stepping a little closer, commanded: "Hold up your hands!"

At this juncture the outlaw jumped behind Eddy and placed both man and his horse between himself and the hunters. In this position he commanded the farmer to lead his horse to the barn, and remaining under this cover he moved toward the shelter. When nearly to the stable he broke and dashed inside. He did not linger long, but in the twinkling of an eye reappear-ed, rifle in hand, and started on a dead run down the valley. Turning on the two men looking for him, the desperado fired two shots, but without his usual precision. Neither bullet took effect, and without waiting for further fighting, Tracey took to his heels and made all possible haste down the valley leading south from the barn. The manhunters were off in pursuit, firing as rapidly as possible at the fleeing figure of their quarry. Pursued and pursuers engaged in a mad race of life and death toward the brush, and for a time it seemed as though the outlaw was going to add one more get-away to his long list.

HAND HAD LOST ITS CUNNING.

The fates had not so decreed, however. Coming to an immense immense rock, the outlaw saw a chance to get rid of his pursuers, and accordingly dodged behind it and resting the gun on the rock began a fusillade which he fondly imagined would end the struggle. Eight shots in all were fired by the outlaw, and these eight will take some effluence off the reputation of the Oregon convict as a dead shot. Not one landed on the advancing posse, and seeing he was not succeeding in his endeavors, he left his position behind the rock and made a dash for a wheat field not far distant. Just as he was entering the field he stumbled, and falling on his face crawled on into the field on his hands and knees.

This led the hunters to believe that they had at least wounded their man, and notwithstanding the fact that he had disappeared they felt quite confident that they had him where they wanted him, and waited quietly.

SUBROUNDED THE PLACE.

By the time Tracey had disappeared in the wheat field in getting dusk, and the pursuers did not dare to proceed as they did not know where the man was, nor how ready he was to take a "pot shot." Therefore, after holding a consultation, they decide to surround the place and wait for daylight.

In the meantime, Sheriff Gardner, with Police Constable Stauf and Gemmrig, of Spokane; Jack O'Ferrrell, of Davenport; and other reinforcements, had arrived on the scene and went into camp around the wheat field.

Edward VII Crowned in London.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—King Edward VII, after a seven weeks battle with death, was triumphantly crowned ruler of the world's mightiest empire at Westminster Abbey at 12:21 o'clock today, and as the crown was placed upon his head a signal was flashed from the Abbey to Hyde Park and the Tower. At these places artillery fired salute after salute, and the reports, joined with the ringing of the bells, made the whole city reverberate with acclamations of joy.

Teachers' Institute at Myrtle Point.

The Institute convened at Myrtle Point, in the school building, Monday afternoon, August 4th. After introductory remarks by our worthy superintendent, W. H. Bunch, Prof. D. A. Grout, of the Portland schools, was presented, who gave his introductory address on geography. His purpose was to explain the use of Frye's geography, now in use in the schools of this state. As Frye's text books are so radically different from our former geographers, teachers have had difficulty in teaching from his text book. In this and succeeding lectures Prof. Grout explained the great principles upon which Mr. Frye based his work. They are in substance:

1st. What is came from what was and the process is still going on.

2nd. Geography proper stops with raw material and its transportation.

3rd. The vital, political and commercial geography of the world grow out of and are dependent upon the physical geography of the world.

Supt. R. F. Robinson, of the Multnomah county schools began his series of lectures on reading which continued throughout the week. He outlined the proper course of training for the child throughout the grammar school.

Tuesday the same work was continued and other subjects were discussed.

State Superintendent Ackerman and Prof. E. D. Ressler, president of the Monmouth Normal arrived and addressed the institute. The former gave a "Heart to Heart Talk to Teachers," also a talk on the new course of study; the latter on "How to Improve the Teaching Profession." Professor Grout gave an excellent address on "Child Study," which will undoubtedly be of great assistance to teachers helping them to better understand the mental and physical development of the child.

Superintendent Robinson began his course of lectures on "Civil Government." He also gave a most helpful talk on "School Organization."

The committee on resolutions was appointed: C. H. Nusler, Miss Florence Twombly and Miss Gertrude Engle; the latter resigned and M. O. Hawkins was chosen in her place. A program committee composed of Mrs. Short and Misses Rich, James, McLosky, Dement and Walker and Mr. L. Brown prepared the following program for the evening session:

Vocal Solo..... Dr. Strange "Ship Ahoy." Recitation..... Mattie Hewling "Them's My Sentiments Tew." Drill..... Sixteen Little Girls Recitation..... Sarah Rose "The Color Guard." Vocal Solo..... Mr. Traver "I'd Like to Hear that Song Again." Lecture..... E. D. Ressler "Resources of a Cultured Mind."

The lecture was a plea against commercialism, and for a higher life. He considered the following pleasures which a cultured mind can enjoy: 1st. Books. 2nd. Art. 3rd. Music. 4th. Contact with other cultured minds. 5th. Thoughts.

After the program the Myrtle Point teachers banqueted the Institute at Adam's Hall.

Wednesday a vote as to where the next Institute should be held was taken. The vote was as follows: Bridge 1, Marshfield 4, Coquille 28, Bandon 37.

Prof. Grout and Robinson continued their subjects of geography and reading and civil government. The former also lectured on arithmetic and gave a talk on White's Art of Teaching, supplemented by his own experiences. Prof. Robinson gave a history talk and Superintendent Ackerman spoke about "The Teaching Profession."

Wednesday evening the following program was given:

Song..... Teachers "Come to the Greenwood." Vocal Solo..... Fanny Getty "Answer." Recitation..... Miss Wessala "The Clansman's Revenge." Vocal Solo..... Katherine Maddocks "For You." Recitation..... Mary Quick "A Girl's Conversation by Telephone." Vocal Solo..... Irma Lukens "Flight of Ages." Lecture..... Supt. Ackerman "What we have tried to do and are trying to do." Song..... Teachers "There's a Lonely Cottage by the Sea."

Thursday the lecturers completed their courses of lectures on the foregoing subjects. Prof. Grout gave as his last lecture a talk on "Methods of Teachers," and Prof. Robinson spoke on "The Responsibility of the Teachers."

A set of serio-comic resolutions was offered by the committee on resolutions. They caused considerable merriment but they were not accepted.

Good music was one of the interesting features of the day sessions. The singing was led on different occasions by Charles H. Jones, editor of the Oregon Teacher's Monthly, Prof. Robinson and Dr. Strange. The sessions closed Thursday evening with the following program: Songs..... Teachers (a) "Merrily Sings the Lark." (b) "Gaily and Brightly." Recitation..... Gussie Hamilton "The Little Hero." Vocal Solo..... Miss Logan "Drifting with the Tide." Recitation..... L. Brown "The Yarn of the Nancy Bell." Lecture..... D. A. Grout "The Public Schools." Song..... Teachers "Oregon." Recitation..... Ruth Todd "Cradle Song." Lecture..... R. F. Robinson "Expression." Closing Remarks..... Supt. Bunch Song..... Teachers "America."

After the program the teachers were all invited to a reception given in the parlors of the Guarini Hotel. A delightful evening was spent and dainty refreshments were served a la shingle.

The teachers were a unit in agreeing that this was the best Institute ever held in Coos County. They were well pleased with the treatment they received from the Myrtle Point citizens and hope to be invited there again in the near future.
