Mining in The Sixes Country.

Some of the mining prospects in the Poverty Gulch mining district in the vicinity of the Devilbiss quartz mill are giving satisfactory result under a mill test. There are some mines near Rusty Butte and down on South Sixes near Thomson flat that are showing up well for the amount of development work done, more especially the Wild Man claim on South Sixes near Thomson flat. There has been already this season a considerable amount of capital expended in the way of development work and improvements at the mines in Poverty Gulch, and also at Rusty Butte and at the Wild Man on South Sixes, and so far the prospects are considered sufficient to justify a still greater outlay of capital at all of these places by those engaged in the enterprise. There is also an immense body of cinnabar on the South Sixes that is attracting considerable attention from Eastern capitalists. Taken together the outlook for the mining interests of this section of Oregon is really encouraging. Neither is this all. There is another enterprise of more gigantic proportions, which, when all the resources and facilities are taken into consideration, may not altogether prove to be an idle speculation. That is a line of railroad through from Myrtle Point to Port Orford via Eckley.

The route of this line of road would naturally be up the south fork of Coquille river and around up by Cass Hermann place, thence through a gap, (not over 1200 feet, altitude possibly less) on the divide, between the Hermann place and Eckley, thence around down to Eckley and thence on down to Port Orford.

A railroad on this route would pass through an immense body of the finest timber in Oregon and also in close proximity to extensive gold mining interests which are being developed, also valuable coal deposits near Eckley, and terminate at Port Orford where there is safe anchorage in 52 feet of water for the largest vessels that float on the sea, in all ordinary weather. Port Orford has the only deep water anchorage between San Francisco and Portland which is an important item from a railroad point of view. If this line of railroad were built it would be a part of a continuous coast line of railroad from Humboldt Bay north. If a trans-continental railroad should wish to reach deep water anchorage between San Francisco and Portland, Port Orford is the place and the only place, and via Humboldt Bay would be the most practicable route. If Eastern capitalists who are engaged in railroad building should send their engineers and make a preliminary examination of this proposed route between Myrtle Point and Port Orford they would readily see the utility of building the railroad. The natural resources and facilities would amply justify it.

A Question.

There is something I would like to have explained to me, and that is how the Coos Bay Wagon Road Company came by the land of which they are disposing to the Great Central. The grant says they shall sell so many acres of land for every ten miles of road built, and not more than 160 acres to one man. Now, I would like to know how they can sell all that land to one party. It looks to me that the land must be sold in 160 acre tracts at $2.50 per acre as the grant states, and at the time the grant was made the government reserved all mineral lands. Large tracts of this road land is coal land. Is there no way of making them comply with the grant. An effort to do so will be made, if the matter has to be taken before the president of the United States, for I am satisfied he will read the grant and interpret it as it was meant, and do what is right and proper toward the home maker.

A Homesteader.

One of the attractions at the State Fair this year will be the Missouri giantess, standing 8 feet 4 inches in her stocking feet. She is direct from Missouri and will have to be shown! Don't fail to see her. A visit to the live stock exhibit at the State Fair will be worth many times the price of admission. No state in the Union will have a better livestock show, and every farmer should make an effort to see the biggest show ever held this side of the Rocky Mountains.

A naturalist has been making some calculations in regard to the engineering feats of ants which dwarf into insignificance the efforts of man in that direction. The obstacles which these little creatures will surmount prove an inspiring example.

MURDERER LANDIS WAS IN GILROY.

Committed a Series of Cold Blooded Murders in the State of Oregon. Wanted by Detectives.

The following excerpt from a Californian paper was handed us by our townsmen, O. L. Noster. Information has been received by Chief of Police Wittman of San Francisco that indicates the probable presence in that city last week of M. D. Landis the real estate agent of Coquille, Or., who is accused of having perpetrated a series of coldblooded murders in Oregon last year and has thus far escaped apprehension, although sought for by the authorities of every state in the union.

A telegram from Gilroy reached police headquarters early last week, stating that Landis had visited his wife at that place and had then left for San Francisco, followed by Mrs. Landis who had presumably come to join him. As soon as this news arrived both Landis and his wife were sought for by the detectives and the latter was soon located in a house on Russ street, where she remained a couple of days. During this time both she and the house were shadowed night and day, but Landis did not appear at any time. When she left for Gilroy, however, she was accompanied by a man who was shadowed to Gilroy, where it was discovered that he was her brother. No trace of Landis was found, and the police believe that if he was in Gilroy he returned from there to the middle west, where they have believed him to be for some time, merely passing through San Francisco en route.

Spray Osborn, who has been in ill health for some time past, took passage on the steamer Mandalay last Sunday for San Francisco, with the intention of entering a hospital for treatment.

Amongst the other articles of commerce comprised in the Mandalay's cargo on her departure from here for San Francisco, she carried away 160 tins of matches from the Bandone match factory. This is the second shipment made, the first being a lot of 34 tins sent the preceding trip.

Free Sights in Carnival.

There are several free open-air attractions in the Portland Elks' Carnival, which is to be held the first two weeks in September. Besides the diversions of the giddy, gay midway—which everybody will visit more than once this year on account of the presence of the dancing girls of the Moorish palace—there will be sensational outdoor acts for all to see. These are the Austin sisters, aerialists, who perform on the flying and the revolving trapeze; Mile, Aimee, who walks head downward, as a fly would on the ceiling; Charles A. Bigney, who holds the record for high diving in this country.

John Curran and Clyde Gage took a spin out into the valley last week with a view to looking up new business locations. Mr. Curran thinks he will close a deal for a hotel property at Cottage Grove, but Mr. Gage found nothing to suit him.

Benj. F. Parsons, the well known optician, will be at the Hotel Coquille about Aug. 27th and remain a few days. All parties having defective eyes should see him. Willie Croy who accompanied Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Dryden as far as Roseburg on their way to Oregon City, returned last week. He may go up that way a little later in the season. However, his father is coming home right away, and he may conclude to stay. A recent letter from Mr. and Mrs. Dryden tells us that they are well, but suffered intensely from heat. They were in Portland at last accounts.

Mrs. Hardy Mast, of whom we made mention last week as having her arm broken in an accident near Norway, was returning homeward from attendances at an Eastern Star meeting at Myrtle Point and it being very dark, the team wagon and occupants and all went over the grade falling about ten or twelve feet, she being the only one hurt except Grandmother Mast receiving quite a bruise in the breast. Mrs. Mast is getting along nicely under the treatment of Dr. Culin.

James McGuffin, who was operating the wood saw in Lyons' mill at this place, was hurt on Thursday by the rope breaking which pulls the saw frame back and allowing the saw to swing out and strike him. His left hand received quite a cut between the thumb and first finger, and the saw also struck him along the thigh and right side making a wound some fourteen inches or more in length, but fortunately not deep enough to be serious. He is able to be up today but somewhat stiff. He got off extremely lucky.

The report of a very peculiar shooting affair reached this city yesterday. It seems that Wm. Arnold, of the North Carolina settlement, and Miss Lulu Gray were out buggy riding and enjoying shooting digger squirrels with a 25-20 rifle when Miss Gray noticed a mosquito alight on Mr. Arnold's face. She told him she was going to shoot it off and he told her to fire away, thinking the gun was not loaded, to which she responded all right, aiming the gun and pulling the trigger. This proved Mr. Arnold's mistake, as there was a shell in the gun which sent a ball crashing through his lower jaw bone, entering near the corner of his mouth, ranging back and lodging in the back of his neck. It was first reported that there was no show for his recovery, but today word comes that he is doing well and is quite jubilant. He has written a complete vindication on the part of the girl, as well as making some fun in regard to the wound, telling the doctor that he ought to oil the bones as they do not work smoothly.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves pleases at once. Beware of counterfeits. R. S. Knowlton.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon McCloskey and son—brother-in-law, sister and nephew of Jas. Stewart, and near relatives of the McCanna families, are visiting their relatives here. Mr. McCloskey lives at Norway Oregon, where he keeps a general store and near which place he owns a ranch. He is also interested, with his sons, in a line of steamboats playing on the river between Norway and Myrtle Point, in Coos county. He and Mr. Stewart has not met for 36 years until one day last week Landlord Forrest met Jim on the street, just after the train came in, and told him there was an Iowa man at the hotel who wished to see him. Jim went over and met the "Iowa man" but failing to recognize him although the latter claimed to have had several business dealings with him, began to suspect that a confidence game was being worked on him, when he chanced to notice that they intended visiting him, and after 36 years separation it was indeed a glad surprise. Mr. McCloskey is highly pleased with this country and thinks of investing in farm property here before continuing on his journey to Rochester Minn., to visit other relatives.—The Cando N.
