Rev. Adolph Haberly has been preparing an outline study of the life of Christ, at the request of a number of his congregation. He will take up the life and work of Christ on earth in its chronological order, following Christ from place to place and considering his words and miracles in the order in which they occurred. Anyone wishing to take this course of study can do so, and are welcome; pencil, book and a bible being the only requisites. The first meeting will be held about Tuesday, Feb. 24th, at 7:30 p. m.
The little differences between the railroad management and train hands having been amicably settled, locomotive No. 2 brought over a long train of cars of various kinds on Friday afternoon, the first train to this place since the high water. There was a large quantity of freight which was very much needed, while a portion was of a perishable nature and should have been used at once. We understand that the track is in such shape that it is not likely there will be any more trouble this spring between this place and the bay, while the damage above here amounts to but little, till the North Fork bridge is reached where a long trestle is somewhat disarranged, but will not require a great while for repairs.
