The Leas and Bras of Bandon.

The Scotch can sing of Bonnie Doons, Or Erin's sons—the Lads, Italian maids—the brilliant morris, But Bandon's been for me.

Where e'er our footsteps chance to stray 'Long by the great flowery lea, Fresh beauties rise o'er beach and brae 'Round Bandon by the sea.

The heather hills can't perfume breathe, Or fill the heart with glee, Like those which capture, ravish, wreath 'Round Bandon by the sea.

Go, search this land, our empire o'er, Where e'er such health can see A that which reigns near ocean's roar And Bandon's scented lea.

When Sol is hid 'neath ocean's depths And stillness reigns o'er sea, Some trusting vow is often kept 'Round Bandon's groves and lea.

There heart meets heart in love's embrace, Fond hearts enjoy a spree, Next, William weds his charming Grace 'Round Bandon's healthful lea.

Load of flowers, fair Flora's home, A poet's love to thee; Oh! ne'er again we'll wish to roam From Bandon's beach and sea.

Then fill your goblets to the brim, And quaff full bumpers three To ladies all with grace and vim 'Fair Nymphs of Bandon's lea.

H. H. B.
Sen Sosei, Bandon by the Sea, March 17, 1903.

Great Influx of Settlers into Oregon.

It is my opinion that at least 50,000 people will come to Oregon within the next four months. They will come in at the rate of between 200 and 300 a day.

The above is the statement of William Westerlund, of William Westerlund & Co., Chicago, land and immigration agents of the Harman system. Mr. Westerlund, who is accompanied by his brother, came to the Coast in charge of 120 immigrants, whom he will help to locate somewhere in Oregon. Some of these he has already located in Baker and other counties of Eastern Oregon. The rest he will endeavor to find homes for in the Willamette Valley. Mr. Westerlund and party arrived last night, and will leave tomorrow morning for Southern Oregon.

"Since February 15, when the excursion season started," said Mr. Westerlund, "we have sent out to Oregon between 200 and 300 settlers a day. The persons we send and bring here are of the hardy settler variety, who have a little money to invest in property, and who are not afraid to work. These come from the Middle West—from the states of Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska."

"How do you get up a party to go West?" was asked.

"We round them up. We have agents all through the Middle West, who talk of nothing but Oregon and Eastern Washington. Then we send out at the rate of between 3,000 and 4,000 pieces of literature to settlers every day."

"Everything in the Middle West is for the West," continued Mr. Westerlund. "The sole topic of conversation among the farmers there is about the West. The people looked mostly for improved property. They want farms that they can go to work on at once. Yes, sir; we expect to bring many thousands of people to Oregon by June 5, when the excursion season ends."

Mr. Westerlund not only acts for Oregon, but for Eastern Wash. as well, but he states that the people are mostly interested in Oregon, and not in Washington. Mr. Westerlund has had considerable experience in immigration work, having for ten years been conducting parties to the South. Since February 15 he has been connected with the Pacific Coast movement. He expects to come to the coast every month in charge of parties of settlers. He states that more people would come to the Pacific Coast this season, but that they cannot sell the property which they own at the present time. As soon as they can get rid of their property there will be a rush of settlers into Oregon.—Oregon Daily Journal.

A Queer Congressional Blunder.

What seems to be an instance of gross carelessness in connection with important legislation is revealed by the discovery that the new immigration law has been framed so that it applies to all territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, as well as to the country itself.

The executive officials of the Government, including Secretary Shaw, who advised as to the law in regard to the new act, are said to have been ignorant of the clause bringing the Philippines, Hawaii and Porto Rico within the scope of its operations. As conditions within each of these islands differ widely from those prevailing in the United States, it is evident that its strict enforcement is likely to be difficult and that it may work much hardship.

There seems to be no reason for supposing that Congress knew what it was doing when it made the provisions of the law so sweeping. The country has often been assured that the committees having measure of moment in their charge scrutinized them with such painstaking care that exhaustive debate upon them was unnecessary. In this instance, at least, this theory is apparently disapproved.

The blunder may be rectified at the next session of Congress, but that does not alter the fact that it may cause a good deal of inconvenience and possibly injustice in the meantime.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Beyond all Comparisons.

One of the many factors contributing to the remarkably rapid and solid growth of St. Louis is the marvelous development of the Southwest and other territory tributary to that city in all lines of trade. In 1904 there will be held the greatest World's Fair in the world. The presidential campaign will also take place. To keep informed with the whole world you should subscribe at once for that peer of newspapers, The Twice-a-week St. Louis Republic. It is indispensable to the farmer, merchant or professional man. Its telegraphic and cable service excels that of any other paper. It prints the news fully; not imaginative occurrences, but domestic and worldwide facts. It is democratic in politics, but distinctly a national newspaper and family journal. The subscription price of $1.00 gives you two papers each week, 104 papers a year.

Washington Gives $50,000 for 1905 Fair.

Olympia, Wash., March 12.—The House this afternoon receded from its amendment cutting down the appropriation for the Lewis and Clark Centennial to $25,000 and the bill carrying an appropriation of $50,000 now lacks only the Governor's signature to make it a law. As the Governor in his message advocated such an appropriation as the Legislature should deem proper, there is but little doubt of the bill meeting his approval.

Why Sailors Are Scarce.

In existing conditions it is much easier to set afloat enormous sea monsters than it is to obtain the necessary quotas of disciplined seamen for the naval service. When intelligent and spirited American youths see that there is no prospect of promotion in the navy save for select few they prefer the merchant marine, in which there is no bar to their advancement.—Philadelphia Record.

The teacher of physical culture in Wellesley College—a teacher in a woman's college—says that the practice of playing basketball is very injurious to girls, who engage in it, or to many of them. She is no doubt correct; not that playing the game occasionally in a moderate, reasonably mild way is harmful, but as soon as contesting teams engage in a game it is not thus played, but extravagantly, recklessly, rudely, exhaustively, and to the physical and often the mental and moral injury of those who engage in it. At least such is believed to be the tenacity of these contents, and it is doubtful if they should be encouraged or even permitted. Football among grown-up boys is bad enough, and there is a general sentiment throughout the country in favor of its repression or regulation, but for girls to practice a similar game under another name is not long to be tolerated. Exercise is good for girls, as well as for boys, but these games appear to be something more, and sometimes a great deal worse than proper exercise.—Telegram.

Did you ever think how great is the progress in the development of ocean navigation in this new century? One day recently the largest vessel now afloat made fast to a dock in New York harbor; it was the Cedric, belonging to the White Star line. This immense floating palace is 700 feet long, has a breadth of 75 feet, is 49½ feet in depth. She can accommodate 3,000 passengers, 21,000 tonnage capacity, and nine decks. This vessel is used on the Atlantic ocean, between New York and Liverpool. Most all the great steamships are in use on that ocean, but it won't be many months when even larger ships will be plying the Pacific between the Northwest coast and the Orient, as Jim Hill, of the Great Northern Railroad company, is having such floaters built for the Puget Sound-Oriental trade.

Aberdeen, Washington, March 5

—A party of about 25 Aberdeen residents, guests of William Hepfinger, went out to the old Drummond ranch in West Aberdeen one fine day last week to witness the felling of the giant spruce tree, which is to be used in Mr. Hepfinger's unique scheme of advertising the resources of Washington. The tree was originally 270 feet in height, but 40 feet had been broken from the top. It was 118 feet to the first limb, and free from knot or blemish. It measured 11½ feet in diameter at the point where it was cut, and was found to be 440 years old. Nine feet will be sawed off and taken to the St. Louis Fair to be made into an office. The rest will be used in Mr. Hepfinger's exhibit.

The fact that 700 men out of five cavalry and infantry regiments and sixty artillerymen recently expressed a desire to remain in the Philippines when ordered home is a clear refutation of the old-time assertion that a white man cannot live comfortably or healthfully in the tropical climate of these islands. The climate and the environment must have considerable attractions to captivate nearly 800 American soldiers so strongly that they prefer to remain rather than to return home. Doubtless reckless living is more dangerous in the tropics than in the temperate zones, but American officers of sound constitutions who live temperately find the climate of Luzon both healthful and agreeable.—Oregonian.

Miss Emma Kellogg, of Colorado, wants to be a game warden in that state. Her petition for appointment is backed by the statement that she is skilled in woodcraft, has successfully hunted mountain lion, deer and elk, and—crowning achievement—that she once lassoed a young bear and took it home alive. She should be called upon to prove that she did not hunt deer and elk out of season, and that she did not sell her luckless captive to a fakir to aid in advertising a patent medicine, or to a saloonkeeper to be trained as an attraction for his saloon through the cruel devices by which such training is accomplished.—Oregonian.

Since the state of Massachusetts adopted a few years ago the policy of roadbuilding as an objection for local communities, it has expended between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 on this work. The mileage of state road thus built has been more than duplicated by towns and counties which have taken the lesson to heart and made a permanent investment for their citizens in this improvement. For several years the annual appropriation for this purpose has averaged $500,000, and this is the amount decided upon by the legislative committee on roads and bridges for the current year.—Oregonian.

It has recently come to light that the framework of the new elevator in the White House is made from wood taken from the historic Old South Church at Boston. A few years ago the trustees of the church decided to replace the roof, which had covered the church for 170 years, with one that was entirely safe. Steel trusses were substituted for the old English oak beams, which had become as hard as iron during their years of service. These beams have been carefully stored in Worcester, and enough were secured for the White House elevator.—Ex.

Danger of Colds and Grip.

The greatest danger from colds and grip is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure a cold or an attack of the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by R. S. Knowlton.

Speaker-to-be Cannon and other members of the committee have selected the site for the new Congressional office building, facing northward on Capital Park and between the west end of the Capitol and the library.
