A New-Comer's First Impressions.

WEBFOOT LAND.
I've reached the land of mud and rain, I've struggled long to this land to gain, And now that I have reached the spot, I often wish that I had not.
Crows.
O webfoot land, wet webfoot land, As in my house I sadly stand, And gaze without, through open pane, And wonder when 'twill cease to rain, I sometimes wish that I could fly, To lands where it is sometimes dry.
It rains at noon, there's no reprieve, Day by day it's just the same, I wonder why I ever came.

You wish to go and see a friend, It always rains—on that depend, And if e'er you go to town, You'll have to wear a rubber gown.
Sometimes the mud is rather wet, And so you think "a cab I'll get," But when you'd rode a mile or two, You wish you'd walked, indeed you do.

The people ride about in hacks, With green moss growing on their back, And with umbrellas o'er their nose, And rubber coats down to their toes.
And on their feet so I've been told, Perchance 'tis true, perchance I'm sold, But I have heard between their toes, A sort of webby substance grows.

I'm tired—I'm sick and I'm cross, I hate the sight of mud and moss, My bones ache, my joints they swell, 'Tis rheumatism, I know full well.
If ever I do get the cash, For eastern lands I'll make a dash, I'll live where I the sun can view, And have my clothes look dry and new.

Another Steamer for Coos Bay Run.

Owing to the delays which the steamer Alliance has experienced during the past few weeks, the California & Oregon Coast Steamship Company has decided to put on another vessel to relieve the congested freight situation at the end of the line.

F. B. Baumgartner, the local agent of the line, received a telegram from San Francisco this morning stating that the steam schooner Navarro will sail from that city tonight for Portland by way of Coos Bay, and that she would be kept on the run so long as the business justified it. She is expected to arrive here Thursday evening, and an effort will be made to have her ready to sail for Coos Bay not later than Saturday night. At present the dock is crowded with enough freight to fill two steamers.

The capacity of the Navarro amounts to 232 gross tons. She is 126 feet in length, has a beam of 32 feet and the depth of her hold is 10 1/2 feet. The vessel was built at San Francisco in 1887.—Portland Journal.

Moody's Serious Trouble.

Portland, Or., Oct. 29.—Malcolm A. Moody, ex-Representative in Congress from the second district for Oregon, was indicted yesterday by the grand jury. The charge against him is that of extracting by false representation a letter from the postoffice and withholding it from the person to whom it was addressed.

The indictment sets forth that Mr. Moody extracted or embezzled the letter and sought to secrete or destroy it, and attempted to destroy a valuable receipt, and that he practiced deception upon the postmaster to enable him to secure the missive. The letter in question was one addressed to Mrs. Margaret L. Conroy, and the offense is alleged to have been committed at The Dalles. The alleged document was from the Controller of the Currency, and was in reference to a final dividend in The Dalles National Bank.

Murderer of Deputy Sheriff's Captured.

Winnemucca, Nev. Oct. 28.—Jack Frost, alias Egbert, the fugitive murderer of John G. Saxton and Jack West, Harney county deputy sheriffs, was captured Monday at American Falls, Idaho, by Constable McCoy of Elko, Nevada.

Frost will be taken back to Burns, Oregon, for trial and will pay with his life the double crime. In March, 1901, Frost was sent to the penitentiary for a year from Lane county for larceny.

A Startling Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt, of No. Melhoopany, Pa., made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes, "a patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 14 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and Kidney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at R. S. Knowlton.

Will Advise Oregon.

Scarcely a week passes but one sees in some of the Oregon newspapers announcements to the effect that John Doe or Richard Roe has returned from visits in the east, and that at Doersville, or Rosville, or some other place of equal importance in New York, Rhode Island or possibly the wilds of upper Wisconsin, he learns that the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition to be given in Portland in 1905 has not yet been heralded as among the great attractions for the edification and entertainment of the American people within the next two years. Whenever such mention is made we are always told that one hears enough about the world's fair at St. Louis, but of Lewis and Clark show Dame Rumor has not taken the matter seriously in hand, and what little tongue-wagging she has bestowed on the subject has not developed beyond the whispering stage.

One cannot read these statements without being conscious of the element of criticism which pervades them. Doubtless their appearance from time to time gives rise to a feeling of dissatisfaction in the mind of many people who are well meaning enough. They hear of the great St. Louis event, and they know that through the medium of advertising its prospective splendor and glory is becoming the neighborhood talk of every hamlet in the land. In view of this, and with the knowledge that advertising of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition has been going on something more than a year, it is difficult for these people to understand the apparent policy of delay on the part of the Lewis and Clark management.

A careful survey of the situation will, The Telegram believes, lead to the conclusions which will confirm the wisdom of this waiting policy in the advertisement of the Lewis and Clark Fair. But until the St. Louis Exposition is closed that great event will completely fill the public eye and engage public attention. To begin extensive advertising of the 1905 Fair now, or any time prior to that mentioned, will mean simply to engage in hopeless competition with an undertaking of overshadowing magnitude, wherein energy and money both would be wasted. It would be found that available funds for publicity purposes would become exhausted before the time arrived when the public would be free to turn its attention to the proposed exposition in the Pacific West. The more effective course lies in husbanding all resources for advertising the fair itself until the St. Louis event has passed off the stage and there is a free field, especially in the section west of the Rocky Mountains, where an intelligent and persistent bid may be made for public favor.

In the meantime, let the local fair management concern itself principally with advertising Oregon and the Pacific Northwest. It is altogether probable that this will be done. The St. Louis Fair should be made the center of this propaganda, and by the time it comes to a close people from all sections of the world should have ample opportunity of knowing what manner of country there is in these Pacific States. It is understood that in line with this idea the Lewis and Clark management has arranged for the publication of 500,000 booklets, containing ninety-six pages each, well illustrated, which will deal with the climate, resources, opportunities, scenery and general character of the domain which was included in the original discovery of Lewis and Clark. It is a commendable idea that until next Fall, at the earliest, all literature sent out, except that which pertains directly to the local exposition, should be such as will turn public attention to the entire Pacific West.

When the St. Louis Fair closes it will be time to take up the matter of systematic advertising by including on the exposition mailing list the 8000 or more journals or all classes that are published in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, British Columbia, Utah, Nevada, California, Arizona and New Mexico. Let the programme be carried out as at present outlined, by adding to these dailies, county-seat weeklies and class publications which are published between the Rocky Mountains and the Mississippi and the dailies and class publications east of the Mississippi River. There can be little doubt of the wisdom of formulating and carrying out a publicity policy of this character. It bears the impress of an intelligent appreciation of the problems involved in the situation, and should receive the heartiest indorsement of every person who desires the best attainable results from the means at hand.—Portland Evening Telegram.

Special Session Necessary.

Salem, Or., Oct. 31.—The Supreme Court today affirmed the decision of the Circuit court of Multnomah County in the case of Flanders vs. the County Clerk, thus holding that a tax levy cannot be made under existing laws next January. This means that a special session of the Legislature must be held before January to pass a law which will authorize such a levy, or that state, county, city and school district warrants must be indorsed "not paid for want of funds." Governor Chamberlain has said that he will not call a special session unless the public finances require it, but seems unquestioned that a special session will now be necessary.

The average yield of potatoes in the United States per acre is from 60 to 90 bushels. This is the result of plain, ordinary methods of culture, where land is plenty and the potato patch can cover as much ground as the farmer cares to give it. In the Island of Jersey, which contains only about 28,000 acres, of which only about 19,000 are arable, the farms are necessarily small. Many of them contain less than three, and the largest not more than fifty acres. Necessity finds a powerful ally there in intensified farming, with the result that the average yield of potatoes on the "tight little Island" is 333 bushels per acre. Such methods applied to the arable lands of the United States would feed the population of the world, were it many times as large as it now is. Intensive agriculture, as practiced in Jersey, will not be necessary in this country for some centuries perhaps, but the results there prove that large farms are not necessary in order that the people may be fed, while with us large farms, the surfaces of which are scarcely more than scratched and the yields of which are meager show that much land may easily prove a disadvantage and a disappointment. "Ten acres enough," has been laughed at as an absurd proposition, but it has many times been satisfactorily worked out—Oregonian.

A Sure Thing.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all long and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. VanMeters of Shepherdstown, W. Va., says "I had a severe case of Bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for Croup, Whooping Cough, Grip, Pneumonia and Consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by R. S. Knowlton, Druggist. Trial bottle free. Reg. sizes 50c, $1.00.

The Thrice-a-Week New York World.

The Thrice-a-Week World long ago established itself in public favor, and it is now recognized as the strongest publication of its kind in the United States. Advertisers and publishers seeking clubbing combinations—and they know best—universally testify to this. It is widely circulated in every State and Territory of the Union, and even in remote South Africa and on the gold fields in the deserts of Australia. These are the things that tell.

Next year we have the Presidential campaign, in which all Americans are deeply interested. Already the issues are being discussed and the two great parties are preparing for the first moves. You will not want to miss any details, and if you subscribe now your year's subscription will cover the campaign from beginning to end.

The Thrice-a-Week World is absolutely fair in its political news. Partisan bias is never allowed to affect its news columns, and Democrat and Republican alike can obtain in its pages truthful accounts of all the great political contests.

In addition to all the news, the Thrice-a-Week World furnishes the best serial fiction, elaborate market reports and other features of interest.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Herald together one year for $2.15.

The regular subscription price of the papers is $2.50.

Human curiosity and free advertisement are the chief factors in Prophet Dowie's New York revenue scheme.

Russia will find that the United States will not evacuate the concessions which China has granted this country in Manchuria.

As the Canadian commissioners intend to return to their own country we cannot blame them for refusing to sign the Alaskan award.

The freedom of the city of Waterford, Ireland, has been granted to Andrew Carnegie. The most munificent gift the world has known.

If we would furnish the cash, a Carnegie presidential boom might be started. It would at least help him to die poor.

Will it help Mayor Low that Prophet Dowie congratulated him on the way he ran the city government in New York?

There is great difficulty in Maryland in teaching illiterate voters to distinguish between the words, "Republican" and "Democrat" on the ballot.

Speaker-to-be Cannon is receiving lots of advice but that does not render any easier his task of choosing the chairman of the House committees.

Dowie says that Chicago is ahead of New York in manners by half a century. But in Billingsgate rhetoric Mr. Dowie beats Devere and the band.

We paid $20,000,000 for the Philippines and now the Joint Army and Navy Board has estimated that it will cost $50,000,000 to fortify and defend them.

As Senator Gorman insists that President Roosevelt is interfering in the Maryland campaign, why does he not challenge him for a debate on the state issue?

In the dispute over Manchuria between Russia and Japan, China occupies somewhat the same position as Canada in the arrangement of the Alaskan boundary.

Japan explains that she will not draw chests out of the Manchurian fire for England and the United States. She failed to name China among the nations interested in Manchuria.

In the coming Congress there will be 118 new recruits (new members) in the House. Before the session is over much unsuspected talent may be discovered. Also much provincial mediocrity.

Hon. Richard Olney argues against the Republican party on the ground that long and unbroken tenure of power by one political party is inevitably demoralizing and fatal to its usefulness. This argument would make good stock in trade for whichever party is "out."

Many people assign the arrogance of the officers as the cause of the frequent desertions in the army. But in China when the armies of the Nations were assembled the semi-familiar relations of officers with the common soldier were thought by European critics to be subversive of discipline.
