dealer. It should not be hard to size him up by the very appearance of things; for instance if he be disposed to depreciate his competitors its pretty strong evidence he basn't much to offer for hit self. Or, if he advertises in a sensational, get something-for-nothing style, you may depend upon it, you'll carry the burden of the same later on. One may well have reason to suspicions of a dealer who promises very much more than is promised by other dealers in a like business. When you want a diamond, for example, go to a diamond dealer. (It's barely possible you might obtain one in a pawn shop, but the risk is too great) And when you want a piano the same rule applies, Select the dealer right and the good piano follows, The greatness of Allen & Gilbert-Ramaker Co. as a piono house is the logical outcome of a principle laid down years ago--that all business is valuable and should be earnestly sought; no matter whether it be a $20,00 organ or a $400,00 Grand. This true, it naturally follows that the profits will be uniform and just-no discounts for one to be offset by overcharges for another-the child and the expert trade exactly the same terms.
