Presbyterian Church.

There were two additions to this church at the morning service last Sunday. The young people's choir organized with fourteen members on Saturday evening, and several more will join it next week. This new choir rendered its first selection at the evening service last Sunday. This new service promises to help make the evening services more helpful and to largely increase the attendance. All services were well attended last Sunday. A cordial welcome to all. PASTOR.

C. C. A. Notes.

The Commercial Department was increased this week by the addition of two members. It now numbers eleven, one more than it numbered at any time last year.

Work has already been taken up vigorously in all departments. There are exceptions to all rules, but, as a body, I have never seen a more earnest, industrious set of students.

Complaint has been made that some of our young men find too much time to loaf around town. We are glad to say that such is not true of those who take the regular course. Some are taking special courses. They get it in their heads that it needn't require all their time! This is a serious mistake which in after years they will regret. We have no place for such students in any department of this school. Their room is better than their money. So, if any student values his time no more than this, the sooner they sever their connection with the school the better. We will not retain such after the second admonition—a hint to the wise is sufficient.

We are now planning to have our contest one week from Friday night. It will consist chiefly of the recitations and declamations of the contestants, and songs, comic and otherwise.

Our class in American Literature commenced the study of "The Courtship of Miles Standish" this week. We expect to dramatize the story when we finish the study. The work of the class on the "Bi-ography of Franklin" is being prepared for the Educational exhibit at St. Louis next year.

We again assure our friends that our "latch-string" is out and that we are glad to receive visitors at any time.

I believe we mentioned last week that the primary department was thrown out last week for want of support, not a sufficient number in it to pay for the services of a teacher.
