Municipal Employment Bureaus.

Referring once more to the subject of employment agencies, a notice was brought to the public notice a few weeks ago since by the exposure of fraudulent practices in the conduct of that business in Portland, we would call attention to a system that has been in successful operation in a number of the large cities of the East for some time. The plan involves a municipal employment bureau. Its most recent adoption is noticed in Detroit, Mich., where its results have been eminently satisfactory to all concerned, its operation affording a dual benefit, the one to the community in ridding the city of undesirable characters who are not looking for work, and the other affecting the fortunes of the individual laborer who simply registers at the municipal office, giving his address and the labor he is competent to perform. The registration is at all times open to those who are seeking the services of others, with the added advantage of no expense to either party.

It has been found where this system has been adopted that men and women as well, who desire work find little or no difficulty in securing employment that will afford the means of a livelihood; while, on the other hand, the police authorities have a somewhat freer hand with the idle who bear the stamp of the dissolute. It should be borne in mind that as a city grows in population a certain percentage of the latter will be of a floating character, and the difficulty in bringing the man and the job in conjunction increases under the methods that are now in vogue. It is always the fact that the greater portion of this floating population is respectable, but failure to find work for any considerable length of time tends to subvert respectability, and it follows that any movement that will remove this difficulty cannot be otherwise than a direct benefit to the municipality where it obtains.—Telegram.

The Quarterly of the Oregon Historical Society, for March, has been laid upon our table. Mr. Clarence B. Bagley, an Oregon pioneer of 1852, who lived in Marion county up to about 1860, but who, for most of the time since then has been identified with the Puget Sound press, gives a history of the "Mercer Immigration"—two cargoes of girls to make happy the lives of Puget Sound bachelors in 1865. Mr. Thomas W. Prosch, another pioneer Puget Sound journalist, gives the evolution of Stevens and Whitman counties, Washington. T. W. Davenport, father of "our Homer," the cartoonist, gives a chapter on his "Recollections of an Indian Agent." The stalwart old pioneer of 1844, John Minto, gives a paper of striking interest on the "Antecedents of the Oregon Pioneer, and the Lights These Throw upon Their Motives." The closing pages of the Quarterly give a portion of the "Recollections and Opinions of an Old Pioneer," by Peter H. Burnett, an Oregon pioneer of 1843, and in 1850 the first governor of California. In subsequent numbers of the Quarterly all of Governor Burnett's "Recollections" of his experiences in the "Oregon Country" will be published, thus making accessible a most valuable chapter in the early history of our commonwealth.

For further information about the Quarterly, address,
Geo. H. Himes,
Asst. Secy., Oregon Historical Society,
City Hall, Portland, Oregon.

Shocks Explained.

Dynamite not earthquake caused the shocks that could be distinctly felt in various parts of town yesterday and today. The dynamite was used in the work of reconstructing the Morrison street bridge. Many people in Portland yesterday believed that an earthquake had visited the city. At intervals of an hour or more, charges of five pounds each are set off at the bed of the Willamette river for the purpose of removing an old stone and timber pier that has held up the bridge for nearly a score of years.

Officers of the Pacific Construction Company, which has the contract for rebuilding the bridge, explain the phenomenon.—Portland Journal.

Big Strike Called.

New York, June 21.—A strike of 50,000 persons employed here in the clothing trades has been called, to take effect at once. Most of the tailors involved are employed by middlemen or contractors. Strikes of similar character are an annual feature among the local garment-workers, but the present one involves opposition to the "open shop" declaration of the Manufacturers' National Association.

A Chance to Boom The Country.

Is afforded by cash prizes amounting to $500, offered by Orange Judd Farmer of Chicago, for the best answers to the question, what are the advantages of this section? Begin by telling when you settled in your present home, how much land you own, rent or work. Give the value per acre of improved and unimproved land now and ten years ago. Tell whether the land is timber. Give an idea of the character of the soil, whether it is sandy loam or clay. Tell what kind of crops you raise, how much and what kinds of live stock, the social, school and church advantages, whether or not fruit does well, and the kinds most commonly grown. Is dairying carried on to any extent, and if so, what and any other items which would interest prospective settlers or people looking for homes, including a brief statement of how you started and have prospered, if you wish to do this later, though it is not essential.

The contest is open to everyone of this locality. Its purpose is to ascertain the truth about this section from the actual experience of practical farmers. It is part of a comprehensive plan undertaken by the journal named to promote the development of this region and increase the demand for and value of farm property. The answers should be expressed in not to exceed 500 words and should be sent in to Orange Judd Farmer, Chicago, Ill., as soon as possible. If a large number of replies are forwarded, it is possible that Orange Judd Farmer's special commissions to land experts may make a personal investigation of this region, preparatory to setting forth its advantages through the columns of that widely circulated periodical.

Little Squaw Laid Out.

Hood River, Or., June 15.—Two Yakama squaws fought savagely on the streets of Hood River this afternoon. It appears that one had stolen the affections of the other's handsome brave "buck." The dusky maiden who considered herself thus aggrieved sought bodily injury upon her rival. Blows rained thick and fast for a few minutes. The aggressor was the larger of the two, and with a well-directed blow over the eye stretched the smaller one on the grass.

As she lay there, apparently stunned from the knock-out, the larger squaw, in a furious rage, grabbed the little one by the hair of the head and flung her with terrific force against a telephone pole. Before bystanders could interfere the larger one, with a blood-curdling yell, jumped high in the air and landed with both feet on the prostrate body of her vanquished rival.

Then came the city marshal.

Noted Ship to Be Preserved.

Secretary McCody has directed that the historic ship Constitution shall be retained at the navy yard at Boston, and from time to time repaired so that she may be preserved indefinitely. The Constitution will be made into a naval museum, the nucleus of which is now at the Boston yard. The secretary has also decided to name the next battleship Constitution, in order that the name may be preserved in the navy.

Another American newspaper man has been sacrificed for news in the Far East. In this instance the reporter was executed as a spy by Russians. That a war correspondent should be killed in this fashion is an outrage, because very little investigation would have given complete reassurance of his business. By this death, the public will be reminded that the path of the war correspondent is not an easy one. For a man to do his full duty necessitates the taking of risks, which sometimes end in death.—Telegram.

A Strong Heart

Is assured by perfect digestion. Indigestion swells the stomach and puffs it up against the heart. This causes shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and general weakness. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures indigestion, relieves the stomach, takes the strain off the heart and restores it to a full performance of its function naturally. Kodol increases the strength by enabling the stomach and digestive organs to digest, assimilate and appropriate to the blood and tissues all of the food nutrient. Tones the stomach and digestive organs. Sold by R. S. Knowlton.

It seems that Elias Dowie the prophet has no honor in England, his native country. There they profanely call him "proft" Dowie and he has fled to France.

Southern Oregon Gold Find.

The story of a marvelously rich gold strike in southern Oregon is interesting not only to the persons who thus stumbled upon it, but to all people of Oregon. It is a piece of great good luck to the finders, but it is also a lucky and valuable incident for Oregon. It will attract wide attention to this state, and to Southern Oregon in particular. Since one such ledge has been found, may there not be others? True, such a discovery always starts out a large number of prospectors, most of whom are doomed to disappointment, but the general result will be good; it will mean more work, more effort consumption of products, more faith in Oregon's mineral wealth, and doubtless, more Oregon gold.

Some people insist dogmatically that there is no such thing in the world as luck or chance; that every person gets ultimately just what he plans and works rightly for and deserves. But the truth of this fine theory is not discernible in such an occurrence as this. For many years placer gold was extracted in large quantities from the beds of streams in this vicinity, on both sides of this ridge, and it was known that there must be a rich ledge, from which the placer gold came. Doubtless the region has been prospected by many a more or less hopeful miner; doubtless weeks in the aggregate of tramping through those hills has gone unrewarded; and yet at last a boy, out hunting, and with no thought of finding gold, discovers it in quantities cropping out of the surface, so abundant and easy to obtain that it is said one family of seven persons mortgaged out $25,000 in a week. One need not call this luck or chance, if he is determined that there is no such thing; but certainly the chief beneficiaries did not plan and work for this result.

This incident shows that Oregon has not as yet been diligently and thoroughly prospected. If the stories told concerning this ledge are true, it may produce millions, and there may be, and no doubt are, other ledges as rich yet to be discovered. Oregon's mineral wealth is as yet mostly undiscovered. It may be reasonably expected that its gold production, already much larger than it is given credit for, will steadily increase for many years.—Portland Journal.

Oregon at St. Louis.

On behalf of the state of Oregon the management of her share of the Exposition at St. Louis is entitled to an expression of thanks. Modest good sense and an appreciation of the eternal fitness of things, combined with ideas that are original and out of the beaten path of exposition conduct, have won the day and have placed the state, its people and resources before the American public in no unenviable light.

Oregon day was a success in every sense of the word. The attendance was large. There was lively interest manifested in the exercises, and the character and historic significance of the Oregon building elicited universal praise and admiration. Added to all this was the element of Oregon hospitality, of the old-fashioned and substantial character, that made every visitor feel at home—nothing of ostentation, but a hearty, homely cheer that bespoke the greater worthiness of the people that, collectively speaking, presided as host.

Not alone the residents of this state, but the people of this section of the Pacific Coast generally, may entertain a justifiable pride in the outcome of Oregon's dedication at St. Louis. It has been demonstrated that inordinate expenditure of money is not absolutely essential in an event of this character; that people throughout the country generally are interested in the facts pertaining to the old Oregon country, and that there was wisdom in giving them an historical and practical presentation. It required sound judgment and business acumen of no mean order to bring about these results as happily as they have been realized. A fortunate selection of gentlemen who were competent for the task is the origin of cause for congratulation. And it goes without the saying, that to these men the people of Oregon will be further indebted.—Portland Telegram.

Sued by His Doctor

"A doctor here has sued me for $12,500, which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coachella, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never is. Sold by R. S. Knowlton.

Note and Comment.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is purchasing uncultivated lands in Pennsylvania and are planting trees for the purpose of supplying ties. Over 50,000 trees have been planted near Conewago, Pa.

The vast population of the Great Mississippi valley doesn't thus far appear to take much interest in the World's Fair. Up to date the visitors at the St. Louis Exhibition have averaged but 38,000 a day and corn planting has been over for some time.

There are 226 men in the departments at Washington over 70 years of age. They have had salaries of $4 a day for a generation but having spent all their money, they think they should now be kept on the rolls indefinitely. The taxpayers will see about it.

The Western Union Telegraph Company reports the falling off for the quarter ending in June of earnings amounting to $157,698. There is no special reason for this, except that people are not sending as many messages as heretofore. Perhaps the telephone has something to do with it.

A "sane" Fourth of July celebration is one in which the mortars, sharpel, machine guns and 13-inch rifled cannons are fired at stipulated time and place by an adult selected for the purpose, so that the little boys who delight to honor Revolutionary heroes need not be suddenly blown into the presence of the herebefore mentioned Revolutionary heroes.—Ex.

Perdicaris, prisoner of the bandit, seems to have liberal post office privileges. He writes a letter every day or two to somebody and declares Raisouli to be one of the nicest gentlemen he ever met. He shares the hours with wheat, cucumbers, and seven up. When the brigand gets his money, Perdicaris will probably win it back at poker. His lecture tour in America is not yet announced.

Nearly 60,000 acres of government timber land will be thrown open for purchase in the Grand Ronde Indian reservation to the highest bidder on August 1. Each purchase is limited to 160 acres and includes all lands in the reservation excepting those allotted to the Indians in severalty. There are two whole townships and some fractional tracts in this body of land.

The shipment of white pine to England from Idaho, via New York, shows the demand for this particular class of material, which will stand an Atlantic seaboard rail haul of about 4000 miles, to which is added the steamer charges for another 3000-mile jaunt. Five years ago no one would have dreamed Idaho lumber would have been sold in Europe. Eastward the star of Coast lumber takes its way.

Nan Patterson has been indicted for murdering her paramour in a New York cab, but she will hardly be convicted. It was not prudent to kill him in such a public place—his room at the hotel would have been safer. She ought to have known that any woman in America can deliberately kill any man with entire impunity if she makes her way to his presence when he is alone. Then she will say hysterically to the jury that he assaulted her and she killed him in defense of her honor and they will pretend to believe it.

The antarctic explorer bearing the name of Carstein Borchgrevink declares that a continent lies around the south pole "about twice the size of Europe." He says it is covered with "newpeople." He arrives at these facts by deduction; if there were not a vast continent of land over the south polar regions, he asks, how would the earth keep its balance? It doesn't seem to occur to him that a vast continent of ice there would maintain the equilibrium quite as well as land. He thinks there are sixty million people there and he is going to make their acquaintance.

Governor James H. Peabody and General M. Bell of Colorado declare that in expelling Union miners they are breaking up a gang of assassins, dynamiters, and anarchists, many of whom would have been lynched before this time if the military had not prevented it; that since August 38 non-union miners have been murdered by this gang; that fifteen men have been dropped 1,400 feet to their death, and "picked up in little pieces;" that they have proof sufficient to hang twelve of the federation leaders now in prison, and send twice as many to the penitentiary, that they are going to "fumigate the district and clean it up," and that "they have no apologies to make. Meantime the Western Federation of Miners denounce them as unqualified despots. Evidently the end is not yet.

The plan now is to have Beavers, of Post Office Fraud notoriety, carried from Brooklyn to Washington for trial.

With less than 40,000 visitors per day at the St. Louis Fair a man and his wife need not find it difficult to get lodging.

A clergyman in Brooklyn complains of a "lack of public decency." Decency at home is the parent of decency in public.

Vegetarians say that meat is unwholesome and the beef trust has made it unprocurable. These opposing forces work together.

Professor Langley is reported as saying that if he had $50,000 he could fly to Canada. Perhaps that is why Congress did not give him that amount.

Gentlemen of the American Medical Association at a meeting in Atlantic City, N. J., claimed that civilization is the cause of bald heads. This is a high compliment to the bald headed row in the front seats of theatres.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets Eater than a Doctor's Prescription.

Mrs. J. W. Turner, of Truhart, Va., says that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done him more good than anything he could get from the doctor. If any physician in this county was able to compound a medicine that would produce such gratifying results in cases of stomach troubles, biliousness or constipation, his whole time would be used in preparing this one medicine. For sale by R. S. Knowlton.
