

A Consolidation.

This week ushers in a new feature in the newspaper business in Coquille City. J. J. Stanley, having concluded to follow other pursuits, has withdrawn from the field, and the Bulletin is absorbed by the Herald.

We give the following kind words from Mr. Stanley's pen as he "withdraws in good order" from the field and turns over to us the business and plant of the Bulletin:

ADIEU.

With this issue, the undersigned severs his connection with the BULLETIN. While this is of our own choosing, yet it is not without deep regrets that we quit the field of newspaper work.

D. F. Dean, who succeeds to our interest in the business, needs no introduction to newspaper readers of Coos county, having been identified with the Herald since its inception over twenty years ago.

Mr. Dean intends to combine the BULLETIN and the Herald and issue a semi-weekly newspaper, thus giving to our readers a twice-a-week service instead of a weekly.

Thanking our many friends and patrons for their patronage and hearty support in the past, and bespeaking for our successor a continuation of the same, and wishing all, both patrons and paper, unbounded success, we bid you all a fond adieu.

J. J. STANLEY.

It is exceptional to find a family where there are no domestic ruptures occasionally, but these can be lessened by having Dr. King's New Life Pills around.

In several counties of Oregon the drouth of Summer is seriously affecting the promise of a hop crop. Well the hop counties, generally, voted for what was called "local option," preparatory to prohibition, which in most of them is to be tried later.
