Things We Think
 Things others think, and what we think of the things others think.

A crusty bachelor says he would be happy if he had a wife to do his cooking, mend his clothes and look after his personal comfort. So would some married men.

Most cooks are taxidermists in a way—they stuff animals.

A fool is sometimes the hardest to fool.

Oil and water won't mix—some men are so slippery we should think they would die of thirst.

For a little thing a hornet has an emphatic way of gaining attention.

Some folks will get Satan behind them and then deliberately turn around.

We have heard of a man who wants a divorce from his wife because she refuses to cook. Others having wives who do cook might be glad to trade.

Sometimes a man doesn't realize his own faults until elected to office.

Few leaders have ever gotten to the front by being called there.

A love affair is the only original elixir of youth.

Some folks like to see how close they can get to temptation without falling over the brink.

Never a copy of the most universally advertised book of history has ever been sold—the one written by the recording angel.

Every Fourth a few lives are sacrificed on the altar of human liberty.

Developing the brain is said to make weak bodies. If this is true there should be a tremendous number of physically perfect people.

Some women admire men with backbone enough to do what their wives tell them to regardless of what comment the world may make.

Most of us are good boosters for something someone else will have to pay for.

It is mostly always cheaper to prevent loss than to suffer it—so we learn after it is all over.

Old Adam may have had some troubles but he never had to jaw his wife about her hobbie skirts.

Most children imagine that when they grow up they will improve on the way their parents do things—and most parents hope they will.

An optimist is a man of 60 who thinks his 20-year-old wife married him for love.

The dreamer is not usually rated very high, but anyway he is not always telling a hard luck tale.

When bad news starts to travel it pays no attention to danger signals.

The powder trust is not backing the safe and sane Fourth propaganda.

Criticize not unless ye yourself welcome criticism.

You need not be large to be big.

It is not usually wise to do things on the spur of the moment, but we do not wish to advise too severely against such kind of action for fear of keeping some folks from doing anything.

Ever since the Savior was crucified on the cross the innocent have suffered for the sins of the guilty.

A little bad luck is a good thing once in awhile to test a man's mettle.

Three Wyoming men have died from the bite of a woodtick. Think of the wonderful resisting power of the genuine Minnesota lumberjack who sleeps with graybacks and grows fat.

Don't fight shy of honest advice. You'll be guided by it to your profit when you least expect it.

Notice of Final Account.
 Notice is hereby given that H. Eakin, the administrator of the estate of Jennie T. Sehlbrede, deceased, has filed his final account with the County Clerk, of Lane County, Oregon, and that Saturday, July 5, 1913, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., has been fixed as the time for passing upon the final account and all persons interested in the said estate are notified to file their objections, if any they have, to the final account with the said Clerk, on or before the said date.

Dated this 2nd day of June, 1913.
 HERBERT EAKIN,
 Administrator.

Sound Doctrine.
 Eugene Register: The Register fully agrees with Mr. Porter of Walker, who is quoted elsewhere in this issue, when he says: "It seems to me that on every point that comes up for the good of some town or city in our territory we should all join hands. What helps Walker also helps Cottage Grove, and what helps Cottage Grove in some degree helps Walker, and what helps Creswell helps both of us, so what reason is there except that of petty jealousy to keep us from joining hands on every proposition that comes up for the good of any one of us."

Mr. Porter is exactly right. What benefits one part of the Willamette valley benefits in some degree every other part. In helping some other town or some other community, we are indirectly helping ourselves, for we are all working to a common end—the further development of the country.

In some parts of the state the feeling between different communities is bitter, and there are incessant factional quarrels that hinder progress and stay development. Fortunately, this is not true of the Willamette valley; and the fact goes far toward explaining the enviable prosperity of this section.

What Shall We Do on the Fourth?
 Ed. Sentinel: May I have space in your paper to sow broadcast a few thoughts? How are we on the coming Fourth of July going to express our appreciation of the great principles of liberty that have made us a great nation? This is the 137th anniversary of our declaration of right, that first made such an impression on the world's great nations, and is still a beacon light placed in our hands to give liberty to the oppressed.

Are we holding these principles with the enthusiasm that our fathers did? Are we living out those principles in every detail? Have we as a nation ordained by our creator (See Romans 13:1-7) guarded and maintained those principles in full.

Have we said to the millionaire, sir, we appreciate your energy and the opportunities God has given (See Deut. 8:18) but you have enough, now help this government with your income to sustain the less fortunate, and to maintain benevolent enterprises, thus keeping your children on an equality with mine.

Are we holding the light so that it will show to all the world our religious right, the right to worship, as God has ordained.

Please watch and study the principles that will be advocated in the World's Christian Citizenship Conference at Portland and the World's Endeavor Convention at San Francisco to be held soon.

Beware fellow citizens how we hold the torch of liberty. There are lines for government to draw here as with the monied power, but remember that the first four of God's commands are not subjects of legislation.

Pardon, I am not here to criticize, only as one that loves our glorious principles of liberty, and wants to guard and show my appreciation of them.

I inclose a ballad we used to sing in our Fourth of July celebration, but I have not heard it in public for years. I would go a long way to hear it sung with the spirit and understanding of our fathers and mothers. I have forgotten part of the second verse so have supplied my thoughts.

I hope some of our pioneers or perhaps some of our youthful historians can produce the original in full.

Let us get together and rejoice on the coming Fourth of July.
 Hail! Our country's natal morn!
 Hail! Our spreading kindred borne!
 Hail! Our banner not yet torn,
 Waving o'er the free,
 While this day in festal throngs
 Millions swell our patriot song.
 Shall we our notes prolong,
 Hallowed Jubilee?

Dear to me the South's fair land;
 Dear the central mountain band;
 Dear New England's rocky strand;
 Dear the prairie West;
 Dear Pacific's border state;
 Dear Alaska cold but great;
 Dear our press and social state;
 Dear our liberty.

By our altar pure and free;
 By our law's deep rooted tree;
 By our past dead memory;
 By our Washington;
 By our common parent tongue;
 By our hope's bright buoyant young;
 By the ties of kindred strong;
 We will still be one.

430-Acre Farm Sold.
 A business deal of more than usual magnitude was completed Saturday night, whereby the Eugene & Great Western Land Company sold a 430-acre farm near Creswell to Joseph Clark and D. A. McCullough taking in the deal the St. Francis hotel equipment and building in Eugene. The farm sold to Messrs. Clark and McCullough is one of the first properties in this section purchased by Messrs. O. H. Skothen, John Baird and P. Aug. Peterson, the organizers of the Eugene & Great Western Land Co. It has a large orchard planting of pears, apples and walnuts.

Real Estate by Auction

RETIRING SALE OFFERS GREAT OPPORTUNITIES FOR INVESTMENT

AT 646 WILLAMETTE ST., EUGENE
JULY 1st, 2d, 3d

GEO. MELVIN MILLER, the pioneer realty dealer of Eugene will offer Eugene, Mapleton, Acme, Glenada, Florence and Ocean Beach property to the highest bidder. Terms 25% cash, balance long time at 6% interest. The railroad from Eugene into the midst of this Siuslaw property, now nearing completion, will hasten its development, making it a very attractive investment at this time. Mr. Miller has conducted many such auction sales during his long active business career in Eugene, and his methods are well known to be entirely satisfactory to his customers. Mr. Miller is closing up his business to retire permanently, hence this will be his last auction sale.

The value of a paper's advertising is gauged by the number of people it reaches. No other paper reaches more than a quarter as many Cottage Grove people as does The Sentinel.

 Surprisingly if you make it a rule to pay by check only and deposit all your cash at the Bank of Cottage Grove. Then you stop to think before you buy and in many cases thinking means refraining. Ambition to have a good balance prevents many a spending, and thus your deposits roll up.
