

There is only one way to get all the news of the Grove country. That is in The Sentinel.

Within a 15 mile circle around IMPERIAL there are now several hundred prosperous farmers raising enormous crops of wheat, rye, barley, oats, potatoes, vegetables, etc. Poultry raising is also highly successful. Three large stock ranches, owning several thousand horses and cattle are also in this circle. IMPERIAL is now the trading point and will soon be the shipping point (the railroads are now building) for the products from thousands of acres surrounding it.

WILSON MESSAGE ON THE CURRENCY

President Urges Congress to Pass New Law. ASKS FOR ACTION AT ONCE

Chief Executive Appears in Person Before Congress to Tell the Need of Immediate Changes in the Banking Laws—He Declares That the Revision of the Tariff Will Not Be Complete Without Further Legislation Which Will Enable Business Men to Take Advantage of the Changed Conditions.

Address of the president of the United States, delivered at a joint session of the two houses of congress June 23, 1913:

Mr. Speaker, Mr. President, Gentlemen of the Congress—It is under the compulsion of what seems to me a clear and imperative duty that I have a second time this session sought the privilege of addressing you in person. I know, of course, that the heated season of the year is upon us, that work in these chambers and in the committee rooms is likely to become a burden as the season lengthens and that every consideration of personal convenience and personal comfort, perhaps, in the cases of some of us, considerations of personal health even, dictate an early conclusion of the deliberations of the session. But there are occasions of public duty when these things which touch us privately seem very small, when the work to be done is so pressing and so fraught with big consequences that we know that we are not at liberty to weigh against it any point of personal sacrifice. We are now in the presence of such an occasion. It is absolutely imperative that we should give the business men of this country a banking and currency system by means of which they can make use of the freedom of enterprise and of individual initiative which we are about to bestow upon them.

Must Leave Tools of Action.
We are about to set them free. We must not leave them without the tools of action when they are free. We are about to set them free by removing the trammels of the protective tariff. Ever since the civil war they have waited for this emancipation and for the free opportunities it will bring with it. It has been reserved for us to give it to them. Some fell in love, indeed, with the slothful security of their dependence upon the government; some took advantage of the shelter of the nursery to set up a mimic mastery of their own within its walls. Now both the tonic and discipline of liberty and maturity are to ensue. There will be some readjustments of purpose and point of view. There will follow a period of expansion and new enterprise, freshly conceived. It is for us to determine now whether it shall be rapid and facile and of easy accomplishment. This it cannot be unless the resourceful business men who are to deal with the new circumstances are to have at hand and ready for use the instrumentalities and conveniences of free enterprise which independent men need when acting on their own initiative.

Constructive Statesmanship.
It is not enough to strike the shackles from business. The duty of statesmanship is not negative merely. It is constructive also. We must show that we understand what business needs and that we know how to supply it. No man, however casual and superficial his observation of the conditions now prevailing in the country, can fail to see that one of the chief things business needs now and will need increasingly as it gains in scope and vigor in the years immediately ahead of us is the proper means by which readily to vitalize its credit, corporate and individual, and its origination brains.

What will it profit us to be free if we are not to have the best and most accessible instrumentalities of commerce and enterprise? What will it profit us to be quit of one kind of monopoly if we are to remain in the grip of another and more effective kind? How are we to gain and keep the confidence of the business community unless we show that we know how both to aid and to protect it? What shall we say if we make fresh enterprises necessary and also make it very difficult by leaving all else except the tariff just as we found it? The tyrannies of business, big and little, lie within the field of credit. We know that. Shall we not act upon the knowledge? Do we not know how to act upon it? If a man cannot make his assets available at pleasure, his assets of capacity and character and resource, what satisfaction is it to him to see opportunity beckoning to him on every hand when others have the keys of credit in their pockets and treat them as all but their own private possession? It is perfectly clear that it is our duty to supply the new banking and currency system the country needs and that it will immediately need it more than ever.

Need of Currency Changes.
The only question is, When shall we supply it—now or later, after the demands shall have become reproaches that we were so dull and so slow? Shall we hasten to change the tariff laws and then be lagged about making it possible and easy for the country to take advantage of the change? There can be only one answer to that question. We must act now, at whatever sacrifice to ourselves. It is a duty which the circumstances forbid us to postpone. I should be recreant to my deepest convictions of public obligations did I not press it upon you with solemn and urgent insistence.

The principles upon which we should act are also clear. The country has sought and seen its path in this matter within the last few years—sees it more clearly now than it ever saw it before—much more clearly than when the last legislative proposals on the subject were made. We must have a currency, not rigid, as now, but readily, elastically responsive to sound credit, the expanding and contracting ebbs and flows of personal and corporate dealings. Our banking laws must mobilize reserves, must not permit the concentration anywhere in a few hands of the monetary resources of the country or their use for speculative purposes in such volume as to hinder or impede or stand in the way of other more legitimate, more fruitful uses. And the control of the system of banking and of issue which our new laws are to set up must be public, not private; must be vested in the government itself, so that the banks may be the instruments, not the masters, of business and of individual enterprise and initiative.

Committee Ready to Report.
The committees of the congress to which legislation of this character is referred have devoted careful and dispassionate study to the means of accomplishing these objects. They have honored me by consulting me. I have come to you, as the head of the government and the responsible leader of the party in power, to urge action now, while there is time to serve the country deliberately and as we should, in a clear air of common counsel.

I appeal to you with a deep conviction of duty. I believe that you share this conviction. I therefore appeal to you with confidence. I am at your service without reserve to play my part in any way you may call upon me to play it in this great enterprise of exigent reform which it will dignify and distinguish us to perform and discredit us to neglect.

The Busy Beaver.
Enos A. Mills, the author of "In Beaver World," sums up the beaver's character thus:

As an animal life goes, that of the beaver stands among the best. His life is full of industry and is rich in repose. He is home loving and avoids fighting. His lot is cast in poetic places. He is practical, peaceful and industrious. He builds a permanent house and keeps it clean and in repair. Beside it he stores food for the long winter. He is thoughtful for the morrow. These and other commendable characteristics give him a place of honor among the herds of homeless, hand to mouth folk of the wild. During the winter he has but little to do except bathe and eat his two or three meals a day from the food he has stored in autumn. Toward spring when his wild neighbors are lean, hungry and cold, he is fat and comfortable. In the spring he emerges from the house, but then his only work is occasionally to cut a twig for food. In the summer he plays tourist. He visits other colonies and wanders up and down streams, going miles from home. In the late summer or early autumn he returns, makes repairs and harvests his food for the winter.

Sheridan's Double Marriage.
It was in 1857 that the Gretas Green marriages were made illegal. A glance at its registers may yet inspire the novelist of the future. One entry will be sure to puzzle. Twice within a few days occurs the record of the marriage of Richard Brinsley Sheridan to Miss Grant. There was only one R. B. S., only one bride for the same gentleman. The double entries are not the result of any blunder on the part of the Rev. Mr. Vulcan. The parties were really twice married at Gretas Green. Arriving on a Sunday they were duly wedded and sped away to Edinburgh. There, however, Sheridan chanced to glance at a newspaper in which appeared the lucubrations of a lawyer. In these plainly stated was the fact that no contract executed on a Sunday is binding. Clearly, then, their wedding was not legal. Back to Gretas Green they hurried, to be remarried on a week day and leave the dual record to perplex later generations.—St. James Gazette.

FEDERAL ATTORNEY SENDS RESIGNATION

Charges United States Attorney General With Interfering in Important Cases.

San Francisco, Cal.—In sensational telegrams to President Wilson and United States Attorney General James C. McKeynolds, in which he charges the latter with having interfered with his administration of justice in two important cases, John L. McNab has resigned as United States attorney for the northern district of California. Delay ordered by the attorney general in the prosecution of Drew Caminetti and Maury Diggs, under the Mann white slave act, and of directors of the Western Fuel company on charges of conspiracy in defrauding the government in coal weighing frauds were given by McNab as the causes of his resignation, which was telegraphed to Washington.

Drew Caminetti is a son of former State Senator A. Caminetti of Amador, recently appointed United States commissioner general of immigration by President Wilson. McNab was first ordered to delay until autumn the prosecution of Caminetti and Diggs. On this account he had intended to resign after the conclusion of the Western Fuel cases, but when he received a telegram from McKeynolds, ordering him to postpone indefinitely the trial of Robert Bruce and Sidney V. Smith, indicted with six other Western Fuel directors, he decided to wait no longer.

Washington.—It developed that the trials of Drew Caminetti and Maury I. Diggs were postponed by Attorney General McKeynolds at the request of Secretary of Labor Wilson, who has taken upon himself the responsibility for the postponement of the trials because he wanted young Caminetti's father to come here and familiarize himself with his new duties as commissioner general of immigration, caused the president to take an interest in the controversy.

President Wilson announced that he intends personally to investigate the circumstances of the resignation of John L. McNab, United States district attorney for the northern district of California. He said he had called for all papers in the case. Representative Kahn of California introduced in the house two resolutions demanding that the attorney general produce all the documents and orders referring to the postponement of the Diggs and Caminetti and the Western Fuel trust trials, which resulted in the resignation of United States District Attorney J. L. McNab of San Francisco. The resolutions are broad enough to cover every paper in the department of justice referring to the case.

ARREST WOMAN AUTO ROBBER

Chicago Police Think Mystery of Daring Holdups is Solved.

Chicago.—Mrs. Irene Brunner, of 2317 South Dearborn street, was arrested in connection with the hold-up and robbery of the dry goods store of Mrs. Elizabeth Foley, 756 East Forty-seventh street, Saturday night. Mrs. Brunner was identified by Mrs. Foley and Miss Mary Pollane, a clerk, as the woman who held a revolver in their faces and rifled the cash drawer of the store Saturday night, after buying a five-cent handkerchief.

Mrs. Brunner, who is the wife of Joseph J. Brunner, owner of a garage at 1448 South Wabash avenue, was taken into custody at her husband's garage three hours after the robbery had taken place.

In the arrest of Mrs. Brunner, the police believe they have the woman who has perpetrated several daring holdups on the south side.

Crack in Canal Alarms.

Panama.—Numerous alarming rumors of damage have gained currency as a result of the crack that recently developed in the cutoff wall of the northwest wing of the Miraflores locks of the Panama canal. One report had it that the gates had pulled away some portions of their supporting masonry and that the cost to demolish and rebuild the damaged structure would be $1,000,000.

Suffragists Avoid Violence Question.

Budapest.—Thanks to the tactful leadership of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the president, the Congress of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance closed without becoming entangled in a controversy over the question of militant methods in the advancement of the cause.

Peikay Goes Free on Jury's Verdict.

Calgary, Alberta.—Arthur Polkey, the pugilist, was acquitted of a manslaughter charge which was placed against him as a result of the death of Luther McCarty, who died in the first round of a scheduled ten-round bout at the Burns arena here, May 24 last. It was charged by the government that McCarty died from a blow administered by Polkey.

Take Plenty of Time to Eat

There is a saying that "rapid eating is slow suicide." If you have the habit of eating too rapidly you are most likely suffering from indigestion or constipation, which will result eventually in serious illness unless corrected. Digestion begins in the mouth. Food should be thoroughly masticated and insalivated. Then when you feel a fullness of the stomach or feel drowsy and stupid after eating, take one or two Chamberlain's Tablets. Many cases of stomach trouble and constipation have been cured by the use of these tablets. They are easy to take and most agreeable in effect. Sold by all dealers.
