turns up, it is of more consequence than as a retail dealer in the tittle-tattle of the world. Yet we have seen that a bad editorial page is what kills; that water on the brain, especially dishwater, is a deadly malady in newspaper offices; and also that while a hasty prosperity may be gained with a hodge-podge of reported events, yet if the editorial page fails to acquire an intellectual hold upon the public mind that success is without stability. All of which seems to imply that the people want more than the chronicle of small beer.

The Minneapolis Tribune is opposed to ice palaces and winter carnivals on the ground that they give the country at large the impression that the climate of Minnesota is like that of Siberia, and that the city of St. Paul is close to the limits of perpetual snow. It goes on to say that the carnival pictures 'have represented human beings thereabouts in the garb of Esquimaux; and it will be hard to disabuse the minds of millions of people who have seen these pictures and read the lurid accounts of the encounters of the 'fire king' and the 'ice king,' that St. Paul is not the capital city of a race of Northmen who have winter for ten months instead of about fourteen weeks.'

The dispatches say that Gen. Sheridan positively declines to be a candidate for the presidency. If that be true he probably occupies the same position in the matter that Blaine does. Gen. Sheridan would make an unexceptionally strong candidate before the people, but if he won't he won't and that's the end on't, which is one of the strongest characteristics of the doughty hero of the ride down to Winchester town.

The earthquake record scores a tremble that enumerates two thousand victims in the province of Yunnan, China. Floods and earthquakes are rough on the Chinese this season.

It is reported that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad company have invested heavily in real estate in Oakland, California, and will build their railroad through to that city.

The new treaty with Great Britain relative to the fisheries trouble, it is said will settle all difficulties and relieve the situation. The treaty will be discussed in congress this week.
