What aul I to Do?

The symptoms of biliousness are unhappily but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events. The digestive system is wholly out of order and diarrhea or constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower, it costs but a trifle and thousands attest its efficacy.

An Excellent Medicine.

"My wife and myself were in bad health for some fifteen years. I chanced to be looking over one of Simmons Liver Regulator Almanacs and saw A. H. Steven's and Bishop Pierce's names to testimonials. I then obtained some the Regulator, and can heartily recommend the Liver Regulator to my friends as an excellent medicine."

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

FAULTLESS FAMILY MEDICINE

"I have used Simmons Liver Regulator for many years, having made it my only Family Medicine. My mother before me was very partial to it. It is a safe, good and reliable medicine for any disorder of the system, and if used in time is a great preventive of sickness. I often recommend it to my friends, and shall continue to do so.

"Rev. James M. Rollins,
Pastor M. E. Church, So. Fairfield, Va."

TIME AND DOCTORS' BILLS SAVED by always keeping Simmons Liver Regulator in the house.

"I have found Simmons Liver Regulator the best family medicine I ever used for anything that may happen, have used it in Indigestion, Colic, Diarrhœa, Biliousness, and found it to relieve immediately. After eating a hearty supper, if, on going to bed, I take about a teaspoonful, I never feel the effects of the supper eaten.

Raising a large proportion of my seed enables me to warrant its freshness and purity, as see my Vegetable and Flower Seed Catalogue for 1888, FREE for every son and daughter of Adam. It is liberally illustrated with engravings made directly from photographs of vegetables grown on my seed farms. FIVE OLD THINGS IN AMERICA.

Paragraphs Which Disprove Assertions About Relics.

New York Press.

An ancient Japenese coat of mail was recently unearthed in the vicinity of Victoria, British Columbia. Some workman engaged in digging a well came upon this interesting relic four feet below the surface. It was a complete piece of chain armour, composed of thousands of links of diminutive iron rings the diameter of a common pencil. When worn the coat covered the breast, back and the right side, leaving the left side. where it was fastened, to be protected by the shield. The right sleeve extended to the elbow. From the neck to the waist of the skirt the length is twenty one and one half inches. In the side of the coat, below the arm, is a gash two inches long. resembling a cut from a heavy weapon. which has been repaired by what appears to be a piece of native silver. The armour was made by the Japanese two or three hundred years ago. It is impossible to explain how this interesting object came here, but there are no other evidences of early Japanese occupancy in the surrounding section. A few years ago a large number of ancient Japanese coins were found in cerns or stone graves in the neighborhood of Victoria.

Probably the oldest coin in the United States is owned by Rev. W. M. Beachamp of Baldwinsville, N. Y. It was found in the ruins of Glastonbury Abbey, which was dissolved in 1538. It was brought to this country seventy-five years ago, and antiquaries who have examined it are of the opinion that it dates back to the twelfth century. Be this as it may, it is a very interesting relic. It differs somewhat in form from the modern violin, being longer in the body and having C-shaped instead of S shaped openings. It has seven keys instead of four—three on one side and four on the other—and the end of the handle is carved in the shape of a female head. The neck is hollow, and at the base of the finger board is a gilded osette. The body is inlaid above and below with a darker wood. Even now it can be played in the ordinary manner by using four strings, and its tone is said to be full and sweet.

The venerable American Philosophical Society of Philadelphia still possesses the chair in which Thomas Jefferson sat when he wrote the Declaration of Independence. It has a broad leaf arm. In one of its rooms may also be seen the chair in which Benjamin Franklin, its first President, presided when the meetings of the society were held in his own house, where he was confined by the affirmities of old age. A library ladder is attatched and folded under the seat. David Rittenhouse's clock, which was made 1754 for the observation of the transit of Venus. is also a treasured memento. Among other valuable possessions of the society are several genuine tribute rolls of Montezuma, Emperor of Mexico, which are painted on maguey paper, and a Roman tombstone from Carthage, which bears the symbols of Osiris' worship and is ascribed to the third century, A. D.

An ancient land tortoise was recently found in Schuylkill county Pa. A gentleman and his neice, while strolling through the forest on the property of Rueben Beale, discovered a pair of tortoises close together. On the under part of the male the following inscription was deciphered: "H. Deiber, 1717." The name proved to be that of a man who owned and cleared the land in the vicinity in the early colonial times. On the shell of the tortoise were signs of great age, part of the lettering almost obliterated. There could be no reasonable doubt that the animal, which was still living, was upward of 170 years of age.

E. S. Thompson of Mifflintown, Pa., is in possession of a spinit which is beleived to have been brought from Scotland by Colonel James Burd of the Revolution, who fought the Indians at Fort Augusta, which he built. The instrument is almost triangier in shape, the keyboard occupying almost one entire side.

Peace on Earth

Awaits that countless army of martyrs, whose ranks are constantly recruited from the victims of nervousness and nervous diseases. The price of the boon is a systematic course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest and most genial of tonic nerviness, pursued with reasonable persistence. Easier, pleasanter and safer this than to swash the victualling department with pseudo-tonics, alcoholic or the reverse, beef extracts, nerve foods, narcotics, sedatives and poisons in disguise. "Tired Nature's sweet restored, balmy sleep," is the providential recuperant of weak nerves, and this glorious franchise being usually the consequences of sound digestion and increased vigor, the great stomachic which insures both is productive also of repose at the required time. Not unrefreshed awakens the individual who uses it, but vigorous, clear headed and tranquil. Use the Bitters also in fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney troubles, constipation and billiousness,

GENERAL NEWS.

W. W. Corcoran, the Washington Philanthropist, Dead.

FAVORABLY FOR PENSION BILL.

Cleveland's Southern Trip—The President Shakes Hands with Many People —A Gladstone Victory.

The HERALD's Special Dispatches.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—W. W. Corcoran died this morning. He was born at Georgetown December 27, 1798. He laid the basis of his great fortune under the firm name of Corcoran & Riggs, bankers, by floating government bonds during the Mexican war. He is best known as a public benefactor and philanthropist. In 1847 he purchased a site at Oak Hill cemetery, near Georgetown, and after expending about $12,000 in improving it presented it to his native town. The Corcoran gallery of art he established in 1867, spending about $300,000 in fitting it up. In addition he established an endowment fund of nearly a million dollars for its benefit and transferred to it his entire collection of paintings, statuary and works of art. Another of his gifts is Louise Home, founded in memory of his wife, and is intended as a home for aged women of refinement and education, who by reverses of fortune had been reduced from affluence to poverty. The building cost about $200,000, with an endowment fund of about $300,000. Corcoran also made large gifts to the Washington Orphans' Asylum, Columbia University and many institutions in the south. He also gave $100,000 to the Church of Ascension of this city. To the University of Virginia he made gifts amounting to $200,000, besides about 4000 volumes.

ENGLISH ELECTION.

The Liberal Unionists Score a Victory and are Jubilant.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The parliamentary election in the Doncaster division of Yorkshire to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Walter S. Shirley, liberal, was held to-day and resulted in a victory for the liberal unionists. Their candidate, Hon. W. H. Fitzwilliam, received 5634 votes against 5423 for Spencer Balfour. The Gladstone candidate's victory was a surprise. The liberal unionists are very jubilant.

ANOTHER FAMILY WAR.

The Betrayed Girl's Family Fighting the Betrayer's People.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—A Times, Columbus, South Carolina special says: At Blythewood in this State, a local war exists between two families of Hogan and Hoffman, promient people of that town. The origin of the trouble was the betrayel of Hattie Hogan, an 18-year old girl, by Thomas Hoffman. Miss. Hogan's father, at the point of a pistol, made Hoffman promise to marry the girl but on the day of the wedding the proposed groom disappeared. Hogan searched for his daughter's betrayer for two weeks, and then returned to Blythewood to hold the other Hoffman boys responsible, one of these brothers being Mayor of the town.

Yesterday Hogan held a pistol at Mayor Hoffman's head, while he horsewhipped him. He then proceeded five miles to a mill, where another brother, was found, and while a friend of Hogan coverered Hoffman with a rifle, the enraged father wore out a whip on him.

By this time the Hoffmans were aroused, and two of the brothers, including the Mayor, went gunnig for Hogan and surrounded his house. Citizens telegraphed to Winnesboro for aid, and the Sheriff and a posse were sent to Blythewood. In the meantime Judge Winnesboro telegraphed to Mayor Hoffman, not knowing he was engaged in the riot, to preserve peace at all hazards. The Sheriff's posse arrived in time to arrest the Mayor and take him to jail.

Mothers and nurses may give Simmons Liver Regulator to children and to the most delicate home bound invalid with the utmost confidence in its safety and efficacy. It saves no end of doctors' bills. Always keep it in the house, for it is a household remedy, and there are many ailments that the Regulator will cure. It is safe to take in any condition of the system. No fear from exposure after taking this medicine.

A FAVORABLE REPORT.

Pensions for the Boys in Blue Likely to be Increased.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The house committee on invalid pensions have decided to report favorably on the ex-prisoners of war pension bill. It grants pensions at a rate fixed by law to all who were thirty days or more confined in confederate prisons, and gives them $2 a day outright for each day more than thirty that they were so imprisoned. Favorable reports were also made on the bills to increase the pension for total inabilities to $30 per month, and limiting the fee for examining surgeon to $2 for each case.

Prince Louis Napoleon Resigns.

GHASTLY CAVES.

Eight Skeletons Found in a Japanese Cavern.

Nichi Nichi Shimbun.

A few days ago while taking a trip throughout the counrry I visited a couple of ancient caves at Osawamura, Tamagori, Musashi province. These caves were first discovered by a resident of that village named Minewa Yasutaro, a few years ago while he was hunting foxes. Both caves face the southeast. One is about twelve feet square and about nine feet in height, and the other consists of two rooms about equal in size. The entrance to them was so low I could scarcely get inside. When he first examined them, Mr. Minewa told me, he found two skeletons in one and six in the other, one also containing a sword. These he buried in this vicinity, he and his neighbor constructing a tomb with stones taken from the cave. Mr. Minewa has in his possession a tooth taken from one of the skeletons; it is a little larger than the ordinary teeth of human beings.

Female Labor in Germany and Here.

London Times.

It appears from comparative statistics, just compiled on this subject, that in the Potsdam District of Germany the employment of female labor amounts to 35 per cent, in the Kingdom of Saxony it is 33, in Upper Swabia 31, and in the Breslau district a little over 30. These figures do not differ greatly from the American statistics, which give 37 per cent for New Hampshire, 33 for Rhode Island, 32 for Massachusetts and 31 for Maryland. The states just cited, however, include a smaller proportion of the total population of the United States, and there is no other American State with a percentage of female labor of oven 27. The agricultural districts of Germany, as might be expected, show a much larger proportion than similar districts in the United States. Particular industries also show a higher percentage of female labor in Germany than in the United States. For example, the percentage in the textile mills of the Black Forest district is 73, while in Reuss, a small principality south of Leipsic, it actually rises as high as 90 per cent.
