AT WASHINGTON.

Political Note and Comment at the National Capital.

THE PRESIDENTIAL SITUATION.

The Prohibition Question in the District of Columbia—Mary Walker Makes a Speech—Other Measures.

Special Correspondence. WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The battle has begun. The first gun was fired by Mr. Blaine when he wrote to Chairman Jones of the republican national committee, announcing that his name would not be presented to the republican nomination. The gun was loaded with a dynamite shell, which exploded when the letter was published, and although it was a week ago, the reverberation may still be heard and the echoes will be heard for months to come from all sections. The first question asked was, what will be the result of the letter? The answer depended entirely on whom you ask. It opposed to Blaine it would be emphatically insisted that the letter had completely removed Mr. Blaine from the field, but if you asked a Blaine man, he would promptly reply that the letter had insured the nomination of Blaine by acclamation, that his friends did not propose to allow him to have any say whatever in the matter. They were going right ahead to nominate and elect him president, as a small compensation for his accidental defeat in 1884.

So there you are. These two classes represent the opinions of all republicans. You can take your choice. But it is only fair to say that the proportion of opponents to Blaine compared with his supporters is only about one to ten.

One direct result of the Blaine letter is to show how much really good presidential material the republican party contains. There are Allison, Sherman, Sheridan, Cutler, Ingalls, Edmunds, Hawley, Harrison, Gresham, Hiseock, Everts, Frye and others yet. Is it not an imposing array of brains and ability? Not a man in the list that would not make a good president.

The house has instructed the committee on manufactures to report on Mr. Millikin's resolutions directing the secretary of the treasury to investigate the sugar trust in New York, on Friday next a lively fight is expected over this matter.

Having passed the Senate, the Blair educational bill is now before the house, where its fate is enveloped in much doubt.

Saturday was given up by the senate committee on the District of Columbia to a hearing on the Piatt bill prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in this district. There was quite a large crowd present, mostly ladies, and the hearing of the same old arguments on both sides of the question had grown somewhat monotonous when the slender figure of Dr. Mary Walker arose from a back seat. With a silk hat in hand she made her way through the crowd to the front of the table around which the committee sat, and asked for five minutes time. She started out by saying she was opposed to the bill. This created great surprise among the lady prohibitionists present, as many of them remembered that many years ago the doctor had asked congress to pass a law almost identical with this bill. She said her reason for opposing the bill was that such a law could not be enforced. She said congress might as well attempt to pass a bill forbidding women wearing hoops, bustles, corsets and trains, or to compel them to dress like Dr. Mary Walker. She concluded her remarks by saying that tobacco was more injurious to the human race than alcohol. The ladies, who do not sympathize with Dr. Mary of late did not resist the episode.

WARLIKE MOVEMENTS. Steamer Chartered to Carry Mexican Troops to San Benito.

GUAYMAS, (Mex.) Feb. 26.—Great excitement prevails here over the news that the Mexican Government has chartered the Alejandro for two trips to take troops from Mazatlan to San Benito, where Guatemalan insurgents are invading Mexican soil. The steamship Topeka is not expected to return on her usual Mexican coastwise trade, and this region has been left without coast steamers for two months. For this reason prices of sugar, soap, lard and other national products which come by steamers from Manzanillo have already raised. The supply must come, therefore, from the States.

The sloops-of-war Demerata, Mexico and Juarez, will also take troops from Acapulco and other ports. The impression here is that the Guatemalans will not be easily checked.

COLORADO WOOL GROWERS.

A Petition Against a Reduction of the Tariff.

DENVER, February 23.—The convention of Wool-Growers in Colorado met at the Chamber of Commerce today. After a disposal of routine business, the convention adopted a resolution, which was addressed to Colorado's Senators and Representatives at Washington and the Senate and House committees, asking them to use every upright means to prevent a further reduction of the wool tariff, and to restore the tariff rate on wool to the rate that existed prior to the reduction of March 3, 1883.

THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTY. A Safe Arrival at Washington After an Enjoyable Visit to the Coast.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A special train, bearing President and Mrs. Cleveland, Secretary and Mrs. Whitney and Colonel and Mrs. Belmont from their southern tour, reached Sixth Street station at 3:30 this morning. The party had not retired, and were at once driven to their respective homes.

They were all well, but fatigued by their five-days' journey. The baggage car was loaded down with floral offerings. The journey was a perfect success and evidently afforded as much pleasure to the people of the towns visited as to the visitors.

MADE HIS OWN COFFIN. A Millionaire's Preparations for Death.

There is a millionaire in Connecticut, who has now passed his three score and ten, who has made his own coffin and who has arranged all the details of his funeral. His name is Richardson and is said to be the richest man in Connecticut. He is a good business man and has increased a fortune which his father left him. He is a crank on the subject of elm timber for coffins, and it is now forty years since he sent to England for elm sapling. While it was growing he told his friends that he intended to be finally buried within it. That he hoped to have enough wood from it to furnish coffins for all his friends. A few years ago the tree, then over thirty years old, was cut down and enough material got out of it to make three coffins. He put one of these away in his garage for himself, braising his name into the top and sides with iron. He said that an engraved plate would be so expensive, and his directions for his funeral provide that the simplest ceremony should be used. Enough of the wood for another coffin he sent to Dr. Dix, the rector of Trinity Church New York, and the other planks he presented to his only brother, Dr. Dix is said to have had a coffin made from the wood, but the brother, though he has sent his thanks for the present, has not cared to do so.

An Early San Francisco Anecdote. The second toll-gate was about where Eighth Street is, and there was a marsh here, over which a long bridge was built. There was a quicksand at the margin of this marsh, one day when out driving with my father, my mother stopped to pick some flowers here. While doing so, she found her elf sinking in the quicksand. She called to my father and he rushing to her assistance found himself unable to get her out without the help of some passer-by who labored for a while to extricate them both from their perilous position.

When years afterwards this marsh was filled, it seemed to take immense amount of sand to fill up the place. For a long time no perceptible effect was produced by this using-in process, but at last the work was completed and the marsh was a big of the past. Howard and Johnson Streets were not then cut through. This immense amount of sand necessary to move brought into action the steam Paddy, as it was called, without which the grading of San Francisco would have been very slow process. An Irishman, gazing with mingled feelings of admiration and envy, exclaimed as he looked at it, Well, there is one thing you can't do,—you can't vote the Democrat ticket."—Charles J. King in March Overland.

Peace on Earth. Awaits that countless army of martyrs, whose ranks are constantly recruited from the victims of nervousness and nervous diseases. The price of the boon is a systematic course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest and most genial of tonic nervines, pursued with reasonable persistence. Easier, pleasanter and safer than those with pseudo-tonics, alcoholic or the reverse, beef extracts, nerve foods, narcotics, sedatives and poisons in disguise. "Tired Nature's sweet restored, balmy sleep," is the providential recipient of weak nerves, and the glorious franchise being usually the consequences of sound digestion and increased vigor, the great stomachic which insures both is productively also of repose at the required time. Not unrefreshed awakens the individual who uses it, but vigorous, clear headed and tranquil. Use the Bitters also in fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney troubles, constipation and biliousness.

Sore Throat. is particularly favorable to the contraction of Diphtheria. Heed the warning, and use Darby's Prophylactic Fluid. It at once allays the inflammation of the throat, reduces the pain and gives permanent relief. It promptly and effectually destroys all contagious and diphtheritic germs. It is a specific against Diphtheria, and a shoo-fly on the most distressing symptoms of sore throat as a gargle.

GENERAL NEWS.

Terrible Steamer Explosion on the Sacramento River.

LARGE NUMBER OF LIVES LOST

The Mills Tariff Bill—Change in the Homestead Laws Recommended—Under an Avalanche.

The Herald's Special Dispatches. SOUTH VALLEJO, Feb. 27.—The steamer Julia was blown up this morning and burned to the water's edge. The vessel was plying between Vallejo Junction and South Vallejo. There were on board fifty and sixty persons on board at the time. It is known that seven were killed and five bodies have been recovered so far, they are those of Michael Bronnelly, Albert Madison, Oliff Nelson, and two burned beyond recognition. The body of John Olives was recovered alive but died from injuries. It is believed that ten bodies still remain on the steamer. Captain Gedger and most of the crew escaped with slight injuries. Among the missing are: Edward and James Rule, John Hampton, Timothy Hurley, Jas. Williams, William Connelly, John Hodgkins, Mack Cardolan, William Lamar, G. C. McDonald and a colored porter named Clark.

LATER.—It is believed that there were sixty-seven people on board, of whom only seventeen have been accounted for, and fears are now entertained that the calamity is much more serious than at first thought, indicating that forty persons were killed. The disaster was due to the explosion of one of the petroleum tanks and within a few minutes after the explosion the steamer sank in mud and water, which now covers her upper deck and all that can be seen of her is her flagstaff. The wharf caught fire and is still burning. The telegraph office was also destroyed. The full scope of the disaster cannot be known for several days.

THE TARIFF BILL. More Bills Upon the Same Subject Soon to Follow.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The Mills tariff bill has been completed practically and will be laid before the full committee on ways and means to-morrow. It is expected that the bill will be reported to the house after the meeting to-morrow morning and ordered printed and recommitted to the committee. A final report to the house will likely be made within a week or ten days. It is expected that the Randall and republican bills will appear shortly after.

PUBLIC LANDS. The Committee Agree Upon a Report.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The senate committee on public lands has substantially though not formally agreed upon the public land bill, to repeal timber culture, preemption laws, amend homestead laws, etc. It is similar in memorial features to the senate bill of last session. The meeting of the committee will be held next Saturday, at which it is expected that a formal action will be taken.

ITALIAN VILLAGE BURIED. The Deadly Avalanche Gets in its Work.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 27.—The village of Valloria in the north of Italy has been buried by avalanches. Many houses were wrecked and their occupants buried in the ruins. Troops have arrived from Bergamo to help in disintering the buried. Twenty-three corpses have been recovered and several persons extricated alive although more or less injured.

THE PANAMA CANAL. French Estimates of the Expenses of the Great Ditch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The Post reprints an article from the Economist, Franceise Canal estimates, on the authority of Paul Leroy Beaulieu. He says the lowest figure that would pay interest charges and expenses and allow 5 per cent on the stock would be 215,000,000 francs per year; that in 1886 that Suez Canal, seventeen years after it was opened, had total receipts of less than 60,000,000 francs, and therefore it is ridiculous to claim that the Panama Canal could be reasonable expected to pay, or possible could pay 200,000,000 francs. He estimates that the Pacific coast could furnish tonnage approximately of 2,500,000 and that the commerce of Asia and China would add 500,000 tons. He estimates the probable income from the lock canal between 30,000,000 and 35,000,000 francs. He thinks it possible, however, by heroic reductions in expenses that the lock canal could be completed for 1,100,000,000 francs and proposes as part of the scheme that America, England, Germany and France shall provide a collective guaranty of 3 per cent interest for the money yet to be borrowed. The amount to be guaranteed would be from 30,500,000 to 35,000,000 francs.
