Loss of Speed in Planet and Comet.
 Nature of the motion of planetary bodies perpetual? At first, everything seems to show that it is. The earth, which, with its mass of three thousand trillion tons, turns with a speed which enables the student to go bare-headed a good many miles without catching cold in the act of saluting a professor, for a long time defied all attempts to detect it in loss of speed, but with the friction of the tides continually at work such loss must take place, and now it is pretty certain from the calculation of Adams the astronomer, that the earth loses about an hour in 17,

GENERAL NEWS:
Judge Gresham Renders a Decision in the Wabash Case.
FREIGHTFUL RAILWAY DISASTER.
 What a Lady Passenger Suffered—The Loss Occasioned by the Storm will Reach Many Million Dollars.
 The Herald's Special Dispatches.

CHICAGO, March 14.—Judge Gresham this morning rendered a decision in the Wabash case. He said the Wabash was a common carrier, although the custody of the road, and as such was bound to afford equal facilities in exchange of traffic to all connecting railway lines, and that no more need be said on the question as the receiver has received his instruction, which discriminated against the petitioner and was no purpose or desire to deny the petitioner any of its legal rights, as to the complaint of the petitioner that the brotherhood engineers and Chief Arthur had interfered preventing the Wabash road from handling the Burlington traffic. The judge said: "The receiver made no such complaint, on the contrary he said the brotherhood had done nothing of the kind, it did not appear that the engineers had at any time offered any interference with the Wabash railway, and should they do so the court would protect the receiver of the Wabash road. Employees of the Wabash could not be compelled to remain in its employ if they do not choose to do so, but they could be punished for any conspiracy to injure its business. In conclusion the court said: "It is proper to state, however, in justice to the Wabash engineers that they do not desire to maintain an attitude in defiance to law, and that they are now willing to aid the receiver in the lawful and successful administration of his trusts."

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.
What a Lady Passenger Suffered in the Wreck.
NEW YORK, March 14.—One of the passengers on the Chicago express into which the Atlantic express ran at Dobbs ferry Monday, was Mrs. Dell, of California, on her way to Europe. She was wedged in between the seats and the side of the car and was extricated with great difficulty. Both of her legs were broken, each in three places. Six other passengers were injured, but not seriously.

A Terrible Loss.
NEW YORK, March 14.—The noon papers estimate the business loss contingent and the actual pecuniary outlay which the storm will occasion in New York City will not be less than seven million and a loss to the state of twenty million dollars.

Another Railway Disaster.
PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—A wreck is reported at Clifton, on the Philadelphia, Wellington and Baltimore road. A snowbound train was run into and a number of passengers injured and the conductor killed.

Settlers Want Protection.
LEBANON, March 13.—The state board of transportation has for some time past been in receipt of numerous complaints and petitions, setting forth that the Burlington & Missouri River railroad are employing incompetent engineers and firemen, and thereby endangering the lives and property of the public. The secretaries of the board have been instructed to investigate the matter and report the findings as quickly as possible.

A Moral Guide to the Stage.
 A Belgian manager, struck with the difficulty good fathers and mothers experience in choosing harmless performance for their children, has hit upon a novel way of informing the public of the character of the peices played at his theatre. He prints his bills in different colors, indicating the nature of his theatrical wares. For example, a red bill indicates that the play is pernicious; a white bill that it is moral, and a blue one, that it is half and half. By this system he says paterfamilias will be able to see at a glance whether he ought to take his sons and daughters or not. The same manager reserves yellow bills peices of the Dumas school, as a warning to husbands to beware of what may happen should they let their wives go.

Dedication Ball.
 The Lawson dancing academy will be dedicated with a grand ball and oyster supper Friday evening, March 16, 1888. A special train will run from Brownsville and connect with the Lebanon express. Round trip tickets from Brownsville, 50 cents; round trip from Lebanon Junction, 25 cents. Music by Crawford's orchestra. All are invited to attend. Tickets for ball including supper $1.50.

Kenton & Chase's Cascade honey will please all who want a really fine article.
 Do you want a nice flour? If you do see Thos. Brink. He has some fine ones cheap.

Mr. Brink has received the finest assortment of wicker rocking chairs to be found in the city. If you don't see them, call in and see for yourself.

600 years, and is coming to rest rather leisurely. So, also, the hurrying up of comets as they round the sun is possibly accounted for by a retarding action in space which makes it necessary for them to try and make up, as it were, for lost time; and, in fact, the general arguments in the present day are in favor of what Sir Isaac Newton believed—that the motions of all bodies in space are suffering retardation, and their velocity is becoming less and will ultimately cease.

Epigrams by a Popular Preacher.
 The Rev. Dr. C. H. Parkhurst, of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, is, perhaps, the most popular preacher in the city. His Church is always packed, and he owes his popularity very largely to his witty sayings, which flow from his pen as freely as from his tongue. In one article in the March Forum, on "What the Public Schools should Teach," came the following epigrammatic sayings: "People have to pay for being stupid. Money cannot make brains, but but brains can make money. Whether in a mill-pond or in the swim of life, it is a man's head that must be kept above water, if his whole body will be saved from drowning. Industrial ignorance is the mother of idleness, the grandmother of destitution and the great-grandmother of socialism and nihilism combined. A good deal of what we are pleased to call our goodness is only another name for methods of behaving that we have had drilled into us till they have become habits. We want to avenge ourselves of the offense of theistic motives, not for the sake of keeping the children out of hell by and by, but for the sake of keeping hell out of the children now. Furthermore, honesty and its associate virtues are no more hereditary than arithmetic and spelling, but have to be acquired by something that is more rational process, which must begin with the boy's beginning and grow with his growth, if it is to be in him an integral element."

An Indian Ghost.
INDIAN SPRING, Pa. to Co. Journal.
 Broad Poppie, a village lying eight miles north of this city, has been visited on three occasions lately by a strange apparition, and the occurrence are vouched for by some of the most worthy people in the village. About 9 o'clock on a recent night the apparition appeared in the form of a woman, gliding along the railroad tract to the edge of the river, and thence on the surface of the water to the middle of the stream, directly under the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago bridge. The persons who observed these movements were so frightened that they did not wait for further developments. This is where the wreck occurred in January, 1887, in which six men lost their lives. On different occasions before passers by have been disturbed by visitants, but on no occasion has the apparition been so visibly outlined in the darkness.

It Pays to be Generous.
ALBANY, OREGON.
 They tell down East of a poor fellow who owned a remarkably fat hog, and who also owned a rich man. The hog was about all the property the poor debor had worth levying on, and the law exempted a man's only pig. One day the creditor met the debtor and said: "You need another pig; let me send you a nice little one." The poor man was astonished. "Why, I owe you for the hog I've got now," he stammered. "Nonsense; you need another one, and I'll send it," and he did, and the little pig was put in the pen by the side of the fat one. In less than an hour the Constable came and attached the fat hog and took it away, and thus the law and the rich man were satisfied.

A Little Dynamic Cartridge.
 A twelve-year-old son of Dr. John Scott of Sherman, Tex., found a dynamite cartridge in his father's office, and the idea occurred to him that if he could get the contents out the shell would make a nice whistle. So he got a large needle and began to jab vigorously at the aforesaid contents, being under the impression that it would be hard work to get it out. He found he was mistaken. He discovered, in fact, that said contents was only waiting a starter, and that it was even anxious to come forth, and was not at all disposed to hang back to be pulled, pushed or boosted by anybody. It emerged in several different places and directions, and three or four of the boy's fingers didn't have to let go until they got clear across the room. The boy knows more than he did, has a different profile, and in time will wear a larger-sized smile. A new set of dining-room furniture has been ordered.
