CALIFORNIA CURE

HAVE YOU A COLD in the head which do not get better? Have you an excessive secretion of mucus or matter in the nasal passages which either must be blown from the nose or drop back behind the palate, or hawked or snuffed back toward the throat? Are you troubled by heaving, spitting, weak and inflamed eyes, frequent soreness of the throat, sneezing or roaring in the ears, more or less impairment of the hearing, loss of smell, memory impaired, dullness or heaviness of the head, dryness or heat of nose? Have you lost all sense of smell? Have you a hacking cough? Have you dyspepsia? Is your breath foul? If so you have the CATARRH. Some have all these symptoms, others only a part. The leading symptom of ordinary catarrh is increased secretion of mucus of yellow or greenish color matter. Foul breath is caused by the decomposing secretions exhaled from festering ulcers far back in the head; sometimes the membrane covering the bones is eaten away and the bones themselves gradually decay. Such cases are in dead objects of pity, as stench from corroding sores reveals the corruption within. As every breath drawn into the lungs must pass over and become polluted by the secretion in the nasal passages, it must necessarily follow that poisoning of the whole system gradually takes place, while the morbid matter that is swallowed during the sleep passes into the stomach, enfeebles digestion, and often produces dyspepsia, and finally great debility, nervousness and consumption.

DO NOT PROCRASTINATE.

If you have experienced any of the above symptoms do not delay, but try CALIFORNIA CATARRH CURE at once. We positively guarantee a few applications to relieve, and a thorough treatment to cure. Six months treatment for $1.00; rent by mail $1.10.

GENERAL NEWS.

A Shocking Story of Crime From New York.

SIMPLY A HORRIBLE BUTCHERY

The Mills Tariff Bill Reported to the House—Its Amendments—The Late Chief Justice Waite's Fortune.

The Herald's Special Dispatch.—New York, April 2.—Just at present murder is rampant in this city. Just before daybreak this morning an Italian named Guanhio Conti was found lying dead on the floor of his room in a tenement. Two gashes on his temple showed the manner of his death.

Carrie Heme, aged 47, was found senseless upon the flagstone of the back yard at 166 East Third street this morning. Her skull was fractured by a fall or blow.

A razor was the weapon with which the wife murder was committed by Patrick Packerham in a tenement house on Twenty-seventh street this morning. The woman was slashed across the throat by her drunken husband, severing her jugular vein and she had only time to run into a neighbor's room, where she fell dead. They were married twenty years ago, and had lived for the past two years with their six children in the rooms in which the murder was committed.

The Mills Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Chairman Mills to-day reported the Mills tariff bill to the house and it was referred to the committee of the whole. McKinley submitted the minority report which was ordered printed. The bill was amended in the committee by the addition of provisions slightly increasing sugar duties so as to equal the reduction of 20 per cent. in existing duty, authorizing the secretary of the treasury to classify as woolens worsted cloths, and guarding against interference with existing treaties. The republican minority report presented and leave given to file.

A Foolish Story.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The civil service commissioner, Edgerson, is very indignant over a published report that the family of the late Chief Justice Waite is in great financial distress. The Post this morning publishes an interview with him on the subject in which he says that while the reports are absurd, he fears that they may be believed by unthinking people. He says that Judge Waite's sons are both well-to-do, and whatever their father's estate may have been the family is not likely want for anything.

A Pathetic Death.

A death occurred in New York the 17th of March which the World of that city denominates "the most pathetic one for years." It was the result of suicide, and the victim of self destruction was a blind news-daler.

A good, honest workman, Tom Donohue lost his eyes twenty years ago. He was young then, and the terrible misfortune did not appal him. Unable to pursue a more active vocation, he established a little newspaper stand, and there, day after day, he patiently drove the traffic that gave him every thing but light. He grew so expert in the business that he could tell his newspapers by the touch and he made change with a skill that was wonderful. Such devotion to a humble calling was rewarded by a degree of prosperity, and Tom married a girl, blind from her birth. In their affliction they were happy and as contented, perhaps, as most people. A month ago the wife fell ill and was sent to the hospital. Blind Tom struggled on. He had saved about $200, which he hid in the stove pipe in his room. The blizzard worried and depressed him. Then somebody built a fire in his room when he was absent and the fortune in the stovepipe vanished. Poor Tom, lonely, discouraged and awfully, took the strap which had so often served him in carrying his newspapers, tied it about his neck, and suspending himself to a transom, passed out into the darkness beyond the land of sorrow. A stricken wife and a poor little dog which used to lead him back and forth from the news stand are disconsolate.

Poor Tom! Though overcome at last by the discouragements of his darkened lot, his life for years was a shame to the strong, able bodied man who prates of discouragement, inability to find work and "ill luck" generally, and seeks to drown his "troubles" in whisky or end them by suicide.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla was the first successful blood medicine ever offered to the public. This preparation is still held in the highest public estimation both at home and abroad. Its miraculous cures and immense sales show this. Ask your druggist for it.

Our already large stock of fresh salable groceries is receiving daily additions. Brownell & Stanard.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Salt mackerel should be soaked in milk all night before cooking. Cream toast is an appetizing and economical supper dish, as it uses up stray slices of bread.

Boiled cabbage should be drained in a colander fifteen minutes and then put in the oven for five minutes to heat again.

Boiled meat is much more juicy and sweet if it is allowed to grow cold in the water in which it was cooked.

Green tomatoes cut in half and put down in brine make a very acceptable substitute for genuine cucumber pickles.

Stewed chicken is made better by being served on toast, or make a pan of biscuit, break them apart, hot, and pour the gravy over them.

Pour boiling water upon onions before peeling them and you will avoid the smarting eyes occasioned by the volatile oil in the juice of the onions.

Pickled oysters are delicious. Care must be taken, however, not to have the spiced vinegar too strong or to leave the oysters in it more than twenty-four hours.

The "pickings" of roast turkey, duck or chicken may be chopped fine, and when covered with salad dressing make a very pleasant side-dish for dinner.

Whole cloves are now used to exterminate the merciless and industrious moth. It is said they are more effectual as a destroying agent than either tobacco, camphor, or cedar shavings.

Boil fish in salt water. A good way is to wrap the fish in a napkin. Salmon and all dark-flesh fish require more cooking than lighter flesh fish. Salmon requires ten minutes to the pound, while cod only requires three minutes.

Soak a ham twelve hours before boiling it. Then let it cool half an hour in the liquor in which it was cooked. The next day remove the skin and put the ham, covered with bread crumbs, in the oven a half hour before dinner; it is a most delicious dish.

A good relish for supper may be made in this fashion: Put chopped beef, smoked or dried, on the stove in a frying-pan with cold water and let it boil. Then thicken it with flour to the consistency of gravy and add pepper and butter. This makes a delicious dish and uses up the remnants of dried beef at the same time.

Breaded potatoes are prepared in this way: Boil potatoes in their skins until done, but not too soft. Peel them, cut them in thick slices, dip them in beaten egg and roll them in fine bread or sweetbait crumbs. Fry the slices in hot butter or drippings until they are a golden brown, and serve.

More patents are granted by the United States in a week than are granted in either France or Germany in six months, and more patents are yearly taken out in this country than all the rest of the world. The money exacted by the patent office from inventors, $35 on every patent granted, has created a surplus fund that amounts to millions of dollars. But, notwithstanding this enormous tax on inventive genius, it is impossible, owing to the mismanagement of the patent office, to have prompt and fair examination of their applications for patents.

It is notorious that the examiners refuse to allow patents, rejecting applications on the flimsiest pretenses, keeping all the while a list of the names and addresses of applicants, then opening office as patent attorneys, they write to the wronged inventors, offering to secure patents on the very applications they have dishonestly rejected.

Several bills to abate this swindle have been introduced in Congress making ex-patent office examiners ineligible as attorneys until two years have elapsed from the date of their resignation, but the examiners have, in every instance, been able to prevent the bill becoming a law.

There are a number of ex-examiners acting as patent agents now who have set up on no other capital than the names and addresses of inventors whose applications they rejected as examiners in order that they might secure retainers in the same applications as attorneys.

The new Secretary, Mr. Vilas, has issued a very stringent order forbidding gossip, letter writing, newspaper reading, etc., by employees of the patent office during office hours, and there is at present an onward show of work. But all the examiners sit behind closed doors and mammoth desks. The outward show of work is deceitful in too many instances.

Senator Gorman, of Maryland, has introduced a bill to remodel the patent office and establish therein a court of patent appeals, there are indications that Congress is becoming awakened to the wretchedness that has characterized the recent maladministration of the office.

AT WASHINGTON.

The Patent Office Affairs Not Satisfactory.

EXAMINERS OF PATENTS UNFAIR

A Thorough Renovating of the Office Desirable—More Fairness Wanted—National Capital Notes.

Special Correspondence.] WASHINGTON, March 26.—Mr. Vilas, late postmaster general was appointed to the place vacated by Mr. Lamar when the latter took his seat on the supreme bench. The new Secretary found the business of the patent office in a deplorably slipshod condition. The work was very much behind, the workmen, examiners of inventions were demoralized from habits of idleness and lack of supervision; the office was in fact, without a head in a far too literal sense.

The first commissioner of patents appointed by Mr. Cleveland was a criminal lawyer. Conscious of his ignorance of patent law and practice, he was naturally dependent upon his subordinates whose action he affirmed with automatic certainty, thus depriving applicants for patents of the benefit of appeal, and resolving the patent office into twenty-nine Star Chamber Courts where as many examiners gossiped, joked, read papers and rejected applications for patents with a nonchalance bred of knowledge that the commissioner of patent, the nominal head, was only the tail of their hydra.

The commissioner of patents was finally made Judge of the Washington Criminal Court, and all patentdom rejoiced. Surely the President would now appoint a real commissioner of patents and not mere figure head.

It was an excellent opportunity to apply the civil service legend. There was at least a dozen men in the patent office of first rate ability and ripe experience, they were acquainted with the office from actual service in every branch. But no political end could be attained by such appointments. They were all republicans.

Mr. Cleveland appointed an ex-member of Congress from Iowa, who has signaled his brief engagement by a series of contradictory rulings and decisions, which have quite thrown the complicated practice of the patent office on its ears and made thousands of applicants for patents weep, pray, and swear.

It is not every one who knows the extent of the patent system of the United States. In a recent speech a member of Congress remarked that we were born on patent beds, rocked in patent cradles and laid to rest in patent coffins, and that in the journey from the cradle to the grave we seldom touched anything that was not patented or made by patent process.

More patents are granted by the United States in a week than are granted in either France or Germany in six months, and more patents are yearly taken out in this country than all the rest of the world. The money exacted by the patent office from inventors, $35 on every patent granted, has created a surplus fund that amounts to millions of dollars.
