ABLETINE MED. CO. OROVILLE, CAL.
HAVE YOU A GOLD IN THE HEAD WHICH DOES NOT GET BETTER? Have you an excessive secretion of mucus or matter in the nasal passages which either must be blown from the nose or drop back behind the palate, or hawked or sniffed backward to the throat? Are you troubled by hawking, sneezing, weak and inflamed eyes, frequent soreness of the throat, ringing or roaring in the ears, more or less impairment of the hearing, loss of smell, memory impaired, dullness or haziness of the head, dizziness or heat of nose? Have you a hacking cough? Have you dyspepsia? Is your breath foul? If so you have the CATARRH. Some have all these symptoms, others only a part. The leading symptom of ordinary catarrh is increased secretion of mucus of yellow or greenish colored matter. Foul breath is caused by the decomposing secretions exhaled from festering ulcers far back in the head; sometimes the membrane covering the bones is eaten away and the bones themselves gradually decay. Such cases are in decided objects of pity, as stench from corroding secretions cause the corruption within. As every breath drawn into the lungs must pass over and become polluted by the secretions in the nasal passages, it must necessarily follow that poisoning of the whole system gradually takes place, while the morbid matter that is swallowed during the sleep passes into the stomach, enfeebles digestion, and often produces dyspepsia, and finally great debility, nervousness and consumption.
DO NOT PROCRASTINATE.
If you have experienced any of the above symptoms do not delay, but try CALIFORNIA CATARRH CURE at once. We positively guarantee a few applications to relieve, and a thorough treatment to cure. Six months treatment for $1.00; sent by mail $1.10.

A TOOTHLESS TIGER.

He Pays the Penalty of a Fatal Stroke.

Cassell's Malady.
In the household of Rajah Kalinarain of Decca there was a full-grown tiger which used to go about loose on the premises. When this poor creature was quite young chloroform had been recently introduced into India, and possibly by way of a crucial experiment of the strength of chloroform, a doctor, who was really one of the most kind-hearted in the profession, extracted all the teeth and claws of this young tiger under chloroform. The animal thenceforth was treated as a big cat, and was petted and played with during the day while at night he was chained up outside the entrance of the ladies' apartment in case any one should wish unauthorizedly to enter or emerge from that part of the house. This tiger had, of course, to be fed on soft food; boiled goat's flesh and rice and vegetables were the "chief of his diet." In an evil hour the men who had to feed the tiger thought to amuse themselves by letting him kill the goats which were brought for his food, and this he was easily able to do by a blow from his huge fore paws, though deprived of their claws. Having thus learned how to kill a live being, he unhappily one night jumped on a small boy who had come within reach of his chain, and with one stroke broke the child's neck. He was found in the morning apparently very sorry and surprised at what he had done. But of course he had to pay the penalty of his crime, and was immediately shot by the Rajah's orders.

A COSMOPOLITAN WOMAN.

She went around and asked subscriptions for the Boston Book Egyptians and the Terra del Fuegos. She did.

For the tribes round Athabasca, and the men of Malagascar. And the poor souls of Alaska. So she did.

She loaned, she said, to buy Jellyvake, and jam, and pie for the Athropopis. So she did.

Her heart pined for Austrialians and the Lo-ahooli-Guilians, and the poor, de- Ambaragar, Yes, it did.

And she loved the black Nardidian, and the elon Abyssinian, and the charral-colored Guinean, Oh, she did.

And she'd shed eyes the seas, with a ship o' brass and cheese for the east-riving Chimpanzeen, Sure, she did.

How she loved the cold Norwegian and the poor, hot-melted Feejian, and the dear Molucca Islander. She did.

She sent pie and canned tomato to the tribes beyond the Equator, but her hand eat poison, So he did.

The poor, help, homeless thing (My voice lingers as I sing, Tied his clothes up with a string, Yes, he did. —The Judge.

SCIENTIFIC SCRAPS.

A curious speculation has been made concerning what would happen should the earth's rotation cease. The equatorial diameter being twenty-six miles more than the polar diameter, the earth would present an equatorial zone of solid ground miles high above sea level, the water all being drawn to the poles. This land zone would then be like our Arctic regions, and be banded by a ring of permanent ice and snow.

The influence of the moon upon vegetation is an interesting problem awaiting solution. A recent writer upon the subject mentions that woodcutters in Cape Colony and India insist that timber is full of sap and up to be cut at full moon. Another observation of lunar influence in Cape Colony is rapid spoiling of meats and other provisions when exposed to moonlight, though this may be due to the fact that the light serves as a guide to insects.

Cheap telegraphy is claimed by the inventor of a silicized copper wire, which, having less electrical resistance than other wire used in telegraphy, will do the same service at least, in connection with an automatic machine. The machine, some form of which is already in use, takes a ribbon which has been perforated with cut with gold and lines (like the Morse alphabet) and, being started up, communicates over the wires the symbols for letters as fast as a man can turn a crank.

There is, as Professor Thompson remarks, no assignable "velocity of electricity," as this must vary with the current and the conductor. Wheatstone, in 1833, seemed to show a transmission velocity of 183,000 miles a second through copper wire, but in late experiments signals were sent over ordinary telegraph wires on poles, and had a rate of only 14,000 to 16,000 miles. With wires near the earth, the velocity was 12,000 miles, but reached 24,000 on very high wires.

The Oregon Pacific.
The Portland Telegram is responsible for the following. The Oregon Pacific railway borrowed $15,000,000 in a month to build its line from Albany to Boise City, and also some branch lines and first class steamers. It is rumored that it is the intention of both the Chicago & Northwestern and the Manitoba (Jim Hill) roads to build to Boise City and there join the Oregon Pacific, sending their San Francisco business via Yaquina bay, and reaching Portland by fast steamer on the Willamette from Albany until they can build a line through the Molalla, Clackamas, and Eagle Creek section to terminal grounds in East Portland. It looks like these two roads were furnishing the money to the Oregon Pacific, and it is surmised that it is their intention to absorb the narrow gauge system. This will not only furnish a new outlet for Eastern Oregon, but the Chicago & Northwestern and the Jim Hill roads would then have the cream of the Willamette valley business. A short line from Boise City through a rich country would also tap the Cœur d'Alene mines.

Gilhooley hired a pony the other day to take a little exercise on. He got all the exercise he wanted, and as he limped to the edge of the pavement to rest himself after taking so much exercise, a kind friend asked him: "What did you come down so quick for?" "What did I come down so quick for?" "Did you see anything up in the air for me to hold on to?"

A blind man was sitting in company with some visitors, when one of the company left the room. "What white teeth that lady has!" said the blind man. "Why," said a friend, in great surprise, "how can you tell?" "Because," answered the blind man, "for the last hour she has done nothing but laugh."

GENERAL NEWS.

A Shocking Domestic Tragedy Enacted in New York.

SUICIDE TO PREVENT STARVATION

Boscoe Conkling's Illness—A Somewhat Warlike Outlook in the Old World —News East of the Rockies.

The Herald's Special Dispatches.]
NEW YORK, April 7.—Hans Stockeey, and his wife Fanny, a handsome woman of 21 years, took a dose of poison early this morning and died within an hour of each other after being removed to the hospital. The husband was a Polish Jew and had been out of work for some time. His wife was compelled to pawn almost everything she had of any value. Finally, the father, mother and five months' old baby had to live on hard crusts of bread picked from the streets' refuse barrels.

Jacob Sharp's Funeral.
NEW YORK, April 7.—Nothing definite can be learned as to when the funeral of Jacob Sharp will take place. The family refuse to give any information on the subject, and even the undertaker in charge is as ignorant on the matter as the public. He has merely been told to have everything in readiness to hold the funeral at any hour he might be called upon. It is thought that the body will be taken from the house almost to-night, the relations hoping thus to avoid the obtrusion of curiosity seekers. Only the relatives and most intimate friends of the family are admitted to the house.

Quite Warlike.
LONDON, April 7.—The officials of the government are greatly concerned in regard to the Berlin crisis. They fear that the growing irritation in Germany against the empress and her mother, Queen Victoria, will extend to the British nation, resulting in the extinction of the friendly relations existing between the two empires. It is stated that Lord Salisbury has begged the queen to desist from an interference in the controversy over the marriage of the Prince Alexander and Princess Victoria.

Deaths of Irish Immigrants.
LONDON, April 7.—The Trans-Atlantic steamship companies are stopping the booking of Irish immigrants because the number of applicants for passage is greater than can be accommodated.

Roscoe Conkling's Condition.
NEW YORK, April 7.—Roscoe Conkling passed a comfortable night, and is reported very much better to-day. His physicians are Doctors Barker and Anderson, and he is attended by a professional nurse.

HUMOROUS DRIFT.

The change in a dog's eye as he goes from light to darkness, or vice-versa, occupies three seconds. This is the time when you want to jump the picket fence.

Mistress (to servant)—"Did you tell those ladies at the door I was not at home?" Servant—"Yes, mum." Mistress—"What did they say?" Servant—"How fortinit?"

Sorrowful Child (to the vicar)—"Mr. B., mother sent me to tell you that father is dead." Vicar—"Is he? Did you call a doctor?" Child—"No, sir; he just died of himself."
MOORE REVISED.

It was Moore who in anapest meter once wrote
This remark which it off pleases writers to quote:
"You may break, you may shatter the vase, if you will,
But the scent of the roses will hang round it still."
Genial Tom might have varied, and not been amiss.
His thought and his words to run something like this:
They will break, they will shatter a wealthy man's will,
And the scent of their noses will reach the last mill.

One of the teachers at a public school was engaged in explaining the Darwinian theory to his class, when he observed that they were not paying proper attention. "Boys," said the professor, "when I am endeavoring to explain to you the peculiarities of the monkey, I wish you would look right at me."

WOMAN'S SPHERE.
They talk about a woman's sphere as though it had a limit;
There's not a place in earth or heaven,
There's not a task to mankind given,
There's not a blessing or a woe,
There's not a whispered Yes or No,
There's not a life, or death, or birth,
That has a feather's weight of woe h,
Without a woman in it.

Successful Bribing—Little Nell
"I caught Sister Maud engaging herself to another young man last night, an' she hasn't sent off the first one yet." "Little Kitty—Ain't that nice! Did you tell (a ber?) Little Nell—"No, she buyed me off." "Little Kitty—"What did she do?" "Little Nell—"She said if I'd keep quiet she'd give me one of 'em when I grow up."

"Now, Mary Ann," said the teacher, addressing the foremost of the class in mythology, "who was it supported the world on his shoulders?" "It was Atlas, ma'am."

"And who supported Atlas?" "The book doesn't say, but I guess his wife supported him."
