not get better? Have you an excessive secretion of mucus or matter in the nasal passages which either cannot be blown from the nose or drop back behind the palate, or hawked or snuffed back into the throat? Are you troubled by hoarseness, sore throat, weak and inflamed eyes, frequent soreness of the throat, ringing or roaring in the ears, nose or less impairment of the hearing, loss of smell, memory impaired, dullness or dizziness of the head, dryness or heat of nose? Have you lost all sense of smell? Have you a hacking cough? Have you dyspepsia? Is your breath foul? If so you have this California Cure. Some have all these symptoms, others only a part. The leading symptom of ordinary catarrh is increased secretion of mucus of yellow or greenish colored matter. Foul breath is caused by the decomposition of secretions exhaled from festering ulcers in the head; sometimes the membrane covering the bones is eaten away and the bones themselves gradually decay. Such cases are indicated objects of pity, as stench from cutting sores, even the scrofula within.

As every breath drawn into the lungs must pass over and become polluted by the secretion in the nasal passages, it must necessarily follow that poisoning of the whole system gradually takes place, while the morbid matter that is swallowed during the sleep passes into the stomach, enfeebls digestion, and often produces dyspepsia, and finally great debility, nervousness and consumption.

WETLESS FAMILY MEDICINE

"I have used Simmons' Liver Regulator for many years. Laying made it my only Family Medicine. My mother before me was very partial to it. It is a safe, good and reliable medicine for any disorder of the system, and if used in time is a great preventive of sickness. I often recommend it to my friends, and shall continue to do so."

GENERAL NEWS.

Discussion on the Tariff Bill Before Ways and Means Com.

WHOLESALE ARREST OF REBELS

A Man of War to the Scene—Boulangers Harmed in Ebby—Mews Items East of the Rockies.

The Albany Special Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The Ways and Means committee this morning, but to finally agree upon the tariff bill. Republican members asked that ten days of five hours each be set for the purpose of debate. Democratic members held that a shorter time would suffice if evening sessions were held.

MANY REBELS ARRESTED.

They Surrender and Prisons are Crowded with Them.

RICHMOND, April 23.—The rebelling peasants have been suppressed. Wholesale arrests have been made and the prisons are overflowing with prisoners, a majority of whom will be liberated. Enormous quantities of grain are being distributed among the starving peasantry by the military.

A Fierce Fight.

LONDON, April 23.—Advices from Morocco say that a number of the Sultan's troops attacked the north-west African company's department at Cape Judy, near Morocco. They killed the manager of the department and wounded others. Help is urgently needed.

Stanley Is with Emir Bey.

BERLIN, April 23.—Dr. Junker, an explorer, in a lecture before the German physical society, expressed his firm conviction that Stanley is now with Emir Bey. This is the opinion of all the leading German explorers.

Work Resumed.

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—Edgar Thompson's steel works at Braddock, Pennsylvania, resumed operations today. Several hundred non-union men are going to work. So far there has been no trouble.

Man-of-War Sails.

GBRAULTAR, April 23.—The British gunboat Falcon sailed today for Cape Suiy, in consequence of the attack by a body of the Sultan of Morocco's troops, upon the northwest African coast department at that place.

Died from His Wounds.

ST. HELENA (Cal.), April 23.—Bird Vann, who was shot by Charles Graham yesterday morning, died at 12 o'clock last night.

Is Much Improved.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—The condition of Pendleton, the American minister, much improved since yesterday.

Sanctifier (Entered in 1888).

PARIS, April 23.—Another anti-Boulangist demonstration was made in quarter main at midnight. A party of students burned Gen. Boulanger in effigy.

A LOT OF TALK.

Simple Gossip About the Presidential Nominations.

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—The Chronicle's telegraph today claims to have information of a bold scheme to control the republican presidential nomination. The plan is to stampede the convention or Blaine, with the expectation that if he does not refuse the nomination his declination will not be received until after the adjournment in the convention. In this event the national convention will be called upon to name the man.

Origin of Error.

By the way, talking of earrings says a writer for the Jeweler's Weekly, puts me in mind of an Eastern legend which I heard a short time ago about their escape. When Hagar ran away to escape the wrath of Abram's wife, so the story goes, Sarah vowed that if her husband ever returned she would cause her to be mutilated, thinking thus to destroy her beauty and prevent her causing any further domestic infelicity. Time, however, had the effect of so cooling Sarah's wrath that when Hagar came back and pleaded with her she decided to forgo her vengeance and restored her ex-lamamada in favor. But an oath was not a thing to be trifled with, and as Sarah had solemnly vowed to mutilate Hagar, she was in a quandary to know how to do this without injuring her or marrying her fair face. Finally she hit upon the expedient of piercing a small hole in each of Hagar's ears, and it is said that Abram, to offset the pretty handsomely punishment, presented her with two beautiful jewels suspended from the holes. Her appearance thus adorned excited the admiration of the other women of the tribe that the wear of earrings soon became general among them.

Hopeless.—Miss Chatty Lafite (showing her library to Boston friend)—"Yes, that's Browning. It's awfully good. I suppose, but I don't understand all of it. I like something lighter." Boston friend—"And you have Fraed?" Miss Lafite (flushing a little)—"Yes, I have. But it didn't do any good." Boston friend drops the subject.

AMERICAN SOCIETY IN 1848.

How the Universal Yankee Nation Looked Forty Years Ago.

The furniture of city houses especially, often costly, was almost without exception dreadful. The carpets of enormous patterns and discordant colors and the furniture of excessively varnished rosewood, or some like material, and always in "sets," were things to shudder at. The costumes of the women were in keeping with the houses.

Not only did the ladies wear long trousers of some white material that came so low that it was impossible for the wearers to walk without getting them in the dust or mire, but the smallest girl child was rigged out in the same preposterous garments, it being thought highly immoral for a tot of six to expose her ankles. The ladies' boots, made usually of cloth, where heelless, laced at the side, and came not quite to the ankle-bone, while the one-button gloves left the wrist entirely bare. The nearer the female forehead reached to the back of the head the lovelier, many even shaving the central portion to enhance their "chante." Any hair that was gone or yellow was thought almost a deformity, and a girl with stumpy tresses was looked upon as hideous, was taunted as a "red head" and used a lead comb or some wash to make her golden tresses conform as nearly as possible to the prevailing standard. All women plastered their hair in a hard, flat mass tight to the skull with bandoline or some other mucilaginous substance, as low down as the ears, and then had it twisted in stiff wirelike spirals or pulled out like bannisters.—Boston Herald.

LUCKY AND UNLUCKY MEN.

The Fortunate Man is Usually the Man Who Deserves Fortune.

The Spectator.

One of the unluckiest men we have ever known was even conscious of his ill luck, and declared that, somehow or another, the ill-chance always hit him. It was partly true; but the intimate friends who knew and loved him understood well that their was in him this awkwardness, this redundancy of angles presented to fate, in a very high degree, that, being at once a good man, a thoughtful man, and a highly cultivated one, he always in critical moments contrived to do precisely the wrong thing. This capability of being incapable is by no means unusual, and the first Rothschild was probably right from his point of view when he said that he never would employ an unlucky man. On the other hand, the lucky man is usually the man who mis his fortunes, who, whether apparently able or stupid, can do just what his special circumstances require him to do. Very stupid men are often ready men, armed with a readiness as of dogs when they wist from under a cartwheel unhurt. The "fool who makes a fortune" is usually a man with just the foresight, or the judgment, or the intuitive perception of the way things are going—a faculty like long sight or keen hearing, and independent of intellectual power—requisite to make large profits quick y. In fact, the fortunate man is usually the man who, in consequence of some hidden quality in his nature, deserves fortune. Nevertheless, there is a residuum of true personal good or ill luck of men to whom things happen unusual, and so little explicable by their acts or anything that either is or can be in themselves, that the world, despairing of interpretation, considers them either the favorites or the victims of fortune.

AT WASHINGTON.

The Political Situation at the National Capital.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES.

James G. Blaine Still the People's Choice—Demands of the Southern Democrats—The Oldest Senator.

Special Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Senator Morrill, of Vermont, who is the senior member of the United States Senate, celebrated his 75th birthday last Saturday evening by a reception at his residence in this city. The distinguished gentleman is a veteran in legislation, having served nearly thirty two consecutive years in Congress, and that he has lost none of the ability for which he has been famous for many years was fully proven by the able speech which he delivered last Wednesday on the tariff. Mr. Morrill has been a member of the Senate continuously for 21 years, one month and ten days, and no member of that distinguished body enjoys the confidence of the people and of his colleagues to a greater extent than he.

The House committee on invalid pensions have amended the dependent pension bill entirely out of its original shape. But it matters little what they do with it in committee, as the democrats of the House have fully decided that it shall not pass that body until a next session, and then they depend on Cleveland to veto it. As the election will be over by that time he will probably not disappoint them.

Another presidential candidate is out of the field. Mr. Chauncey Depew of New York has stated positively that he is not a candidate, and that he does not want the nomination. He is for Blaine, who he believes possesses elements of strength not found in any other candidate. That Mr. Depew's belief is shared by the masses of the republican party is a question that does not admit of a doubt.

Mr. Blaine's family physician in this city states that when Mr. Blaine left here his health was perfect. Senator Hale had a letter from his brother who is traveling abroad now in which the latter said he had just spent four or five days with the Blaine family in Italy, and that Mr. Blaine was looking splendidly and was in the best of spirits. Still these facts will not prevent the publication of sensational stories to the effect that Mr. Blaine is about to die from some dread disease or other. It is the fear of Blaine, which originates these stories. His health is good enough and unless present appearances are deceptive he will be nominated by President by the Chicago convention.

The latest demand of the Southern democrats—the nomination of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee of Virginia for Vice-President, this year—has created a regular panic among Cleveland's friends. They are moving heaven and earth to convince the Southerners that it will mean sure defeat to grant their demand. So far they persist in the demand, saying that they are expected to furnish 153 of the electoral votes and they are entitled to name part of the ticket. What the result will be is not apparent, but it is probable that the Southerners will compromise and take lavish promises of patronage under the next administration in lieu of the nomination for Vice President.

The Mills tariff bill will be taken up by the House to-morrow and is likely to monopolize the attention of the House, with the exception of the time devoted to regular appropriation bills, for the remainder of the session. What its final fate will be no man can tell at this time, but judging from present appearances it will be defeated. It will have served a good turn after all however, for the hundred or so speeches that will be made over it, will furnish the voters of the country much valuable information on the tariff question.

The abject surrender made by a majority of the democratic members of the House to the filibustering minority in the caucus last Wednesday night, has been the source of much an uneasiness among the republicans. The bill to refund the direct tax to the several states, which caused the ten days deadlock, goes over until next December. This is a great victory for the Southern democrats, although there was nothing in that. They have been running the democratic party for many years, and will continue to do so.

Hopeless.—Miss Chatty Lafite (showing her library to Boston friend)—"Yes, that's Browning. It's awfully good. I suppose, but I don't understand all of it. I like something lighter." Boston friend—"And you have Fraed?" Miss Lafite (flushing a little)—"Yes, I have. But it didn't do any good." Boston friend drops the subject.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.

BALTIMORE, MD.

"Isn't it strange?" said a Chicago girl; "they say the Czar of Russia eats pie with a knife."

"I don't see anything strange in a slice of pie," said a young fellow from St. Louis; "I've seen a Czar eat pie, and he has come into great favor, and they learn what is proper very quick."
