AN OLD LAND TRANSACTION.

Suit Against Wallis Nash for his Interest in the Yaquina Bay Wagon Road Grant

In the case of the Oregon agricultural company vs. Wallis Nash, Judge Deady Friday sustained a demurrer to the bill and allowed plaintiff twenty days to file a new bill, remarking that it was replete with needless repetitions and statements of irrelevant matter.

Nash was no party to this subsequent arrangement, nor did he ever agree that he should be excused from raising the $45,000 and putting it into the scheme, which they never did.

The court said it did not appear from the bill how he had any other interest in the land than a legal title to it if anything, and as it did not appear that the company had ever fulfilled their contract nor Nash ever excused them, the demurrer was sustained.

SURVEYORS IN THE FIELD.

Three Parties at Work on the Oregon Pacific Railroad Eastward of this City.

Chief Surveyor E. J. O'Conner, who has been surveying on the Oregon Pacific railway eastward of this city, returned last evening. He stated in a dispatch to the press that there are now three surveying parties on the line between this city and the summit, who are operating respectively near Mehama, Rock Creek and Hunt's old camp.

This indicates an early resumption of railroad construction, does it not," asked the reporter.

"If this surveying is not preparatory to resuming construction on the road, the work is all thrown away," he replied.

It is not likely that the company would put these three surveying parties in the field at this time unless railroad work is to be resumed this spring.

Educational Work.

Supt. E. B. McElroy is busily engaged in making preliminary preparations for the State Teachers' Association to be held in Salem, July 5th, 6th and 7th. Also, the National Teachers' Association to be held in San Francisco during the week beginning July 16th.

Very low rates have been secured from the Oregon Pacific and O. R. & N. companies to San Francisco and negotiations are now in progress with the Oregon & California regard to reduced rates to both of these associations.

It is expected that several leading educators from the eastern and western states will be present at the Oregon state association in July.

This list will include the following: Hon. F. H. K. Dawson, U. S. commissioner of education; Washington, D. C.; Hon. Henry Rubin, state superintendent of public instruction of the state of Iowa; Hon. John M. Bloss, state superintendent of public instruction of the state of Kansas; and formerly state superintendent of public instruction of the state of Indiana, Hon. Jesse E. Thayer, state superintendent of public instruction, Wisconsin; Hon. Harry W. LaFollett, state superintendent of public instruction of Indiana; Hon. Geo. C. H. R. Supt. of Public Instruction, Michigan; and many others.

It will be open that our own state association promises this year to be more interesting and attractive than ever before. All the teachers of the state and friends of education are cordially invited to attend—Salem Journal.

Lanching of the Telephone—Multnomah Democrats Make Nominations.

MULTNOMAH DEMOCRATS.

The Multnomah county democratic convention was held to-day in this city. After effecting an organization the following was unanimously adopted: That this convention fully endorse the platform adopted by the late democratic state convention recently held at Pendleton.

W. W. Page was nominated for district attorney; Henry Thompson, sheriff; G. M. Stroud, county clerk; C. J. Christie, clerk of the circuit court; W. L. Curry, county recorder.

Last of the Switchback.

The great switchback maintained by the Northern Pacific as a passenger advertisement was about to be abandoned. In a short time trains will run through tunnels on a much lower grade than at present traversed over the Cascade range.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

A basque as new as it is ugly has round points front and back, unrelieved by other position, pleat or opening, is bound to the last extremity, and reaches nothing at the hip.

With a lace slip of black, another of white, and silk petticoats of different colors, the economical dresser can outdo the caecleon in the matter of change, at a very trifling expense.

Most polonaises lap over to the left hip, and so one side differs in draping from the other, and the back if not bouffant, may have pretty well any other loop, fold, pleat or wrinkle under the sun.

White vests continue to rage. Now white serge in tuks or box-pleats is all the wear, but "when the roses bloom again" we are threatened with white pique ones, stiffer than coats of mail for wear with wash gowns.

India silks are a rage, and besides the familiar patterns of blocks, bars, stripes, flowers, interlaced rings come in huge branches designs that sprawl in the most intricate fashion over the delicately tinted grounds.

The summer wrap grows more and more a thing of beads and patches, and the greatest variant from last year's style is the ribbon half-belt, which, beginning under the arms, ties in a full bow at the back, thereby making less conspicuous the bustle's threatened absence.

A new draping stuff, that seems a cross between rice and gresadine, having large figures upon a fine close woven ground, has by reason of width and strength so won the feminine heart that, though it present it comes in black alone, we are promised it in the near future in all imaginable tints.

The spring hats have three marked characteristics. They are wide; they have a sharp, punched poke over the face, and are trimmed either with ribbons or with flowers, the tendency being to confine the trimming either to one or the other. It is of ribbon in nine cases out of ten it will be coarse. There is, with the rage for Gobelin blue, a fancy for straw hats of the same shade, and these are trimmed with masses of crisp loops of Gobelin blue ribbon, shaded through all the tones of that color and frequently edged with silver.

When the hat is trimmed with flowers they are some small blossoms—forget-me-nots, lily-of-the-valleys, lilies, and these are made up in long wreaths much paired with small, light foliage, and the hat is heavily covered with a mass of blossoms.

Detained.

Wm. Simpson has removed his stock of tinware, hardware and notions into the old Shane & Lonsway store, where he will keep up the full stock of goods and maintains the popular fixed-price counter arrangements he had adopted at his old stand. He will continue the sale of the Shane & Lonsway bankrupt stock at cost.

Save a Way.

W. F. Read proposes to give away a fine gold watch with his gold and silver prize shirt, the very best fitting and best made white shirt in the market. The price is as low or lower than any equally as good shirt in the market.

Gold Prize Shirt.

The Water Supply.

"You will never miss the water 'Till the well runs dry." If you want a well dug call on E. B. Davidson. He does prompt work at a reasonable price. Orders can be left at this office.

Wallace & Thompson's show window attracted so much attention and created so many comments that they were compelled to christen the picture "Charlie," everybody will recognize it by that name.
