The presence of sewer gas in a room may be detected by the following method: Unglazed paper is saturated with a solution of acetate of lead in rain water, one ounce of lead salt being dissolved in eight ounces of the liquid. Allow the paper to partially dry and then expose it in the room which is suspected of containing the deleterious gas. Any considerable quantity of the gas turns the paper black.

TRANSFERRED TO THE U. S. COURT

The Case of G. W. Hunt Against the Oregon Pacific Again.

G. W. Hunt, through his attorneys, Messrs. Williams & Wood, has commenced suit in the U. S. circuit court against the Oregon Pacific railroad company to recover $50,000 for work performed for defendant, and $50,000 as damages for being obliged to abandon his contract on the road of said company by the actings and doings of defendant. The complaint sets forth at length his contract with the Oregon Pacific company, and alleges that he had performed work to the value of $50,000, and was compelled to quit said work by the fraud and misrepresentations of defendant and violations of said contract, whereby plaintiff sustained damages in the sum of $80,000.

Mr. Hunt commenced this suit against the O. P. company in the state circuit court at Albany some time ago, but since that time he has removed to Ohio, and now being a resident of that state has removed the suit to the U. S. court.

THE CALIFORNIA BOOM.

The Opinion of Mr. G. F. Wells on Booms and Also Cleveland's Tariff Policy.

Mr. George F. Wells an old Oregonian, who has spent the past winter in Alameda and is visiting other portions of California, returned to Portland a few days since. In answer to an inquiry of a reporter Mr. Wells stated that the boom in Southern California was slightly on the wane. At Los Angeles, while desirable business and residence property in the city still commanded good prices and had not depreciated in value, just the opposite state affairs prevailed with regard to outside property. For miles around Los Angeles are innumerable suburban tracts which were sold at fabulous prices by means of brass bands and other boom schemes a few months ago. Lots in most of these tracts have depreciated noticeably in value the Eastern immigrants having learned by experience that climate and boom alone will not afford them a living. The large immigration to the southern portion of California has, in a measure, decreased, and much larger proportion of the arrivals are now going into the central and northern portion of the state. A great deal of inquiry is being made about Oregon and the Northwest.

During the conversation Mr. Wells advanced a striking fact in connection with President Cleveland's tariff policy. Mr. Wells is the owner of a large sheep ranch in Eastern Oregon. He says in case of Cleveland's reelection and the enforcement of the democratic tariff policy, he will be forced to go out of wool raising, as it will kill the profits of the business. He will fatten his sheep and sell them for mutton. "The effect of this tariff policy," said Mr. Wells, "will be to raise the price of a poor man's mutton. Mutton is essentially the meat of the poor. When there ceases to be a profit in raising wool the natural result will be that the industry will cease, and with it the raising of mutton."

Full of Snags and Stumps.

In the course of an article on river improvement, the Oregonian says: "As no work was done along the upper Willamette last year, the channel is reported by pilots to be in a very bad condition for safe navigation. Snags, stumps, drifts and shoals are very numerous, and steamboatmen are required to use constant precaution and vigilance to avoid serious trouble. If the river and harbor bill becomes a law, and the appropriation is available, it is the purpose of Major Jones to make a very lively campaign against these troublesome and dangerous obstructions along the upper river. For this, he will receive the devout benedictions of all the pilots and shippers."

The Firemen's Tournament.

The following taken from the Oregonian shows that the Portland boys do not propose letting any of the prize money or laurels leave Portland at the coming tournament, and if our boys expect to win any of either they had better soon begin active practice: Tuesday night the team began training in earnest. When the weather permits they run races to get "wind" and next week they will begin training with their hose cart. They are having made a practice cart which will weigh about 175 pounds. The cart which they will use in the tournament is also being made. It will cost $175. The wheels for it have been telegraphed for and are expected daily.

In Peaceful Possession.

It is learned that Jo Ben Lane, agent at the Siletz Indian reservation, is again in peaceful possession of affairs at the reservation. A special agent accompanied him on his return, after being driven off by the Indians, and a peace has been patched up, and things are again moving along quietly without danger of any further disturbance on the part of the Indians.

A Salem paper advises the Albany printers to give an excursion to that city on the last Saturday in June, so as to participate in the four day exercises. If they did they would be able to four weeks to get as late as occurs on June 1st.

A Card.

Having been appointed assistant commissioner to the Australian exposition, I should like to see the state of Oregon, in which I have resided nineteen years, properly represented there. Our goods, our woods, and the furniture of our native woods should certainly be exhibited. Anything confided to my care will be properly placed to good advantage. And now that advertising to gain immigration is in vogue, I know of no better place to make a showing for Oregon than in the great south continent. Country papers please copy and oblige their old fellow laborer, Thos. B. Merry.

OBITUARY.

Died, April 26th, at Spokane Falls, W. T., of spinal meningitis, after an illness of eight days, Nella C., youngest daughter of A. J. and Flora Clifton, aged seven years and thirteen days.

Put away the little dresses. That our darling used to wear. She will need them on earth never. She has climbed the golden stair.

Put away the little playthings. Wet with mother's dewy tears—How we shall miss our little Nella. All the weary coming years.

Kiss the little shining tresses. Cut from her about brown hair. Do the angels kiss our darling. In the world so bright and fair?

A Philosopher's Advice.

Well suppose you did have you were not going to be injured by an accident, will that save you? Now let me advise you what to do, remembering that one in eight of the adult male population of the United States meet with fatal or disabling injuries each year, think the matter well over and decide whether you can afford to carry this risk yourself, thereby inconveniencing yourself and perhaps those dependent upon you, should you receive an injury. Having decided that you cannot for the paltry sum it costs lose no time in placing an application with C. B. Hart, agent for the Travelers, of Portland, the original accident company, having a surplus of two and a half million of dollars.

Brace Up.

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are bothered with headache, you are nervous, and generally out of sorts, and want to brace up. Brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines, or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap, bad whisky, and which stimulate you for an hour, and then leave you in a worse condition than before. What you want is an alternative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of the liver and kidneys, restore your vitality, and give renewed energy to your system. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only 50 cents a bottle at Foshay & Mason's Drug Store.

Who is Your Best Friend?

Your stomach, of course. Why? Because if it is out of order you are one of the most miserable creatures living. Give it a fair, honorable chance and see if it is not the best friend you have in the end. Don't smoke in the morning. Don't drink in the morning. If you must smoke and drink wait until your stomach is through with breakfast. You can drink more and smoke more in the evening and it will harm you less. If your food ferments and does not digest right—if you are troubled with heartburn, dizziness of the head, coming up of the food after eating, Billiousness, indigestion, or any other trouble of the stomach, you had best use Green's August Flower, as no person can use it without immediate relief.
