CHRISTIANITY VS. ISLAMISM

Over the relative civilizing influence of Christianity and Mohammedanism there has been considerable discussion of late, growing out of Bishop Taylor's advocacy of the claims that the latter was pre-eminent in certain quarters. It has already been shown that the facts as given by the eminent divine, who seems to have became enamored of Mahomed, were not based upon sufficient grounds to make them entirely reliable. Malcolm MacColl, however, goes deeper into the subject. He shows that Islam can only raise to its own level tribes lower than itself in the scale of humanity; but this it does at the terrible cost of petrifying them at that level forever—the level, that is, of the barbarous Arabs of Mahomed's day. For, except in the matter of idolatry and infantacide, Islam, as we find it in Mecca, its metropolis, is not in advance of the social and intellectual condition of the Arabs of that time; and inasmuch as the Koran claims to be the last declaration of the Divine Will to man, it follows that any progress beyond the Koran is not only superfluous, but impious in addition. And the history of Islam all over the world proves to demonstration that what was antecedently to be expected has in fact occurred. The Musulman world contains no longer a single center from which radiates any intellectual light or any sign of material progress. There is not one Musulman state in the world which wields independent sway—which, in fact, does not exist solely by the sufferance of Christendom. A creeping paralysis has fastened upon Islam, and the shadow of the devouring eagles may even now be descried on its horizon. How stands the case of Christianity in comparison? Its pattern man is not only to the Christian, but to the great mass of intelligent and educated unbelievers, the highest and noblest ideal of humanity that history records or the human mind can conceive. His teaching and example are the most perfect exhibition of human virtue that the world has seen.

In view, indeed, of the relative conditions of the countries and nations that are respectively predominated by Christianity and Islamism, it certainly seems strange that so much prominence should have been given to the claim that the religion of the prophet contained any real and lasting, and progressive and verifying effect in it. The countries that still give allegiance to its tenets are the most unprogressive and effete on the globe, while on the contrary those countries and nations that were illustrated by the scenes upon Calvary are the only truly progressive nations of the earth.

IN THE INTEREST OF WORKINGMEN.

In an opinion rendered a few days ago the United States supreme court upheld a Kansas statute of a kind that ought to be found in every state of the union.

By the common law an employer is not liable in damages for an injury sustained by one employe through the negligence of another. Take a railroad accident, for instance, caused by the gross carelessness of a switchman or conductor. An action for damages may be maintained against the company for every passenger killed or injured, but it is not liable for the death or injury of any employe. That is a groundless distinction which has been a source of injustice to workingmen and their families.

The legislature of Kansas wisely abolished it by the enactment of a statute which makes railroad corporations liable for damages to their own servants on the same terms as they are liable to passengers. The Missouri Pacific claimed that this legislation was in violation of the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution, for the reason that it was directed against railroad companies specially and all employers generally. The supreme court overrules this objection and sustains the legislation.

FACTS FOR VOTERS TO CONSIDER.

ALBANY, May 5, 1888.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:

We are on the eve of an important election. The candidates are in the field, and they will soon be on the "stump" urging their respective claims to your suffrages and you should know something of these would-be public servants, before the day of election arrives. One particular disciple of economy is striving with all his powerful "demogogic eloquence" and bad grammar, and worse logic, to convince you that no man within your knowledge can administer the county matters as well as himself. Let us examine the records of the county a little add ascertain if these pretensions of economy are warranted. I don't ask you, fellow citizens, to accept unquestioned my assertions. I shall not only make assertions, but I shall furnish the proof as I proceed. In looking over the minutes of the county court for the April term and in the transaction of county business, I find that Mr. Ad Harmon was allowed at said term for his attendance as a witness at the March term of the circuit court, as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Ad Harmon, 3 days attendance and 36 miles travel | $ 9 60 |
| Ad Harmon, 2 days attendance and 36 miles travel | 7 60 |
| Ad Harmon, 3 days attendance before grand jury and 36 miles travel | 9 60 |
| Total | $27 80 |

You will observe, fellow citizens, that this was allowed for attendance at the same term of court and the sheriff informed me said witness was served with process in the city of Albany, and that this disciple of economy guaranteed the payment of his said claim for his said attendance as a witness before it was presented to the county court for allowance. You understand, fellow citizens, that the law makes no provision for the payment of such claims, only when the attendance has been as a witness only, and when the travel has been actual. Now, for the proof, your correspondent would refer you to the case of Crawford vs. Abram, found on page 163 of the second Oregon reports, where Wilson J., delivering the opinion of the supreme court of this state in 1866, says: "7th. In two or more cases between the same parties, at the same term, a witness would be allowed but single mileage attendance; and the attendance in each successive case would reach back only to the final disposition of the preceding case."

If such is the correct interpretation of the law of this state, and unless this ruling of the county court has changed the rule, we presume it is the rule which our courts will follow, unless we except our own court, which is a law unto itself, there has been an unwarranted waste of the public money. This is such a small matter that your correspondent would not consider it worthy of his notice, but for the high and mighty pretensions of this disciple of economy. Such are his anxieties on this subject that more than once he has rendered himself liable to the criticisms of some poor men who have served the public as supervisors, and when their accounts were presented they were reduced from twenty-five to seventy-five per cent. Again it is whispered that because this man Harmon is the proprietor of a rum mill, and his influence may be useful to the judge in this campaign, he has been allowed what is unlawful. Your correspondent does not make the assertion, he merely states the facts, and your readers can draw their own inferences.

Newton Self-Wringing Floor Cleaner!

THE OLD WAY | THE NEW WAY

Every housekeeper knows from experience the hard labor required to wash floors and wring the cloths by hand. By using the Newton self-wringing floor cleaner, wringing the cloth by hand is avoided, the hard labor is thereby lessened; the hands do not come in contact with the water, whereby you can use boiling and ammonia water. The Newton self-wringing floor cleaner is light, durable and simple in construction, and well merits the claim of being the best invented.
