PICKLED PARAGRAPHS.

THE BACHELOR'S INQUIRY.

A solemn owl sat on a tree,
And looked as wise as wise can be.
And as he blinked with great round eyes,
He seemed to see with great surprise,
What woful ignorance he found
Where means of learning so abound;
And as he blinked, more grave he grew,
And softly sighed, "To-woe, to-woe."

Said I, "Good owl, deny me not,
But think on my unhappy lot,
Tell me one joy which I may have;
Which me from lonely grief may save.
Tell me, I pray, the proper way
To turn life's winter into May;
What are the means—I ask of you?"
The owl replied, "To-woe, to-woe."

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

The Rush to the New Kootenai Mining District.

The Cour d'Alene Herald hastens to place before its readers the very latest facts in regard to the great Kootenai mining district, obtained from O. Hall, one of the lucky men and a prospector of many years experience in the gold and silver mines of Nevada, California and Arizona, who was met on the train while on his return to the north of us. Although it is quite early prospectors and mining men are crowding into the district twenty to twenty-five a day leaving Kootenai station for that section, and "always more to follow" if conveyance could be had; and as Harry Baldwin and other parties talking of putting a stage line from Sand Point to Bunker's Ferry, there will soon be ample accommodation for all who desire to visit the great discovery of the century.

The Kootenai Bonanza is a big property. The vein is 500 feet wide and croppings have assayed from 28 to 600 and even 700 ounces of silver per ton. The vein can be traced at irregular intervals on the surface for a distance of 300 feet, the croppings being solid and well defined. This property is owned by Hall & Oakes. Two tons of ore which were started out on a boat last fall and sunk in the river will average 500 ounces in silver and very high in copper, though no less have been made for the latter mineral.

The Inguis vein is fifteen feet wide, and test after test showed mineral to the value of 700 ounces per ton.

The American flag has an eight foot vein which carries 500 ounces of silver per ton. The croppings have been traced 500 feet on the surface.

Yet the great lead of that region is the Silver King, which shows a solid vein thirty-one feet wide between well defined walls, and has been traced 1200 feet on the surface. One test shows the remarkable assay of $91,900 in gold and $600 in silver per ton, the largest assay ever reported.

The rush to the Kootenai country has already commenced, and many are stopping off at Sand Point and outfitting there for the gold fields, for that place there are two general merchandise stores and ample hotel accommodations.

The wonderful richness of the Kootenai district is the topic of conversation at Spokane Falls, Cour d'Alene and other towns in the Northwest, and there seems to be a general agreement to visit that locality and see the sights, each for himself.

"No girl under 20," says a wise woman, "has any business to think of marriage." Bless you, no. We know that. At that age no girl thinks of marriage as a "business." She just tumbles head over heels in love and marries the dear fellow just because she would cry her eyes out without him. It is when she is no longer what you would call a "girl," when she is rising 35 and has cut her last new teeth, full set, that she begins to make a "business" of it.

Indications of Weather.

A rhyming signal-service officer has formulated the flag code for weather predictions in the following easily memorized lines:

A sun of red is weather warm,
A sun of blue is general storm,
A crescent red is weather cold,
A crescent blue is fair foretold,
A star of red is large implies,
A blue star local stormy skies,
A square of black on flag of white,
A cold wave comes in all its might.

England syndicate, Wisconsin.....	110,000
Albion-Hunter of London.....	600,000
A Scotch syndicate in Florida.....	50,000
A. Boysen, Danish consul.....	50,000
Missouri Land Co. of Edinburgh.....	165,000
Total.....	20,647,000

These 20,000,000 acres of land are in the hands of a few individuals. The land barons who own them will rarely visit this country. They will draw their dividends from profits from stock growing and other purposes to which the land may be devoted, while the poor man may seek in vain a quarter section upon which to place ailing for a homestead for his family. To these syndicates nothing should be added the following, a report of which was finally forced from the Secretary of the Interior, much of the land being held by foreign syndicates:

The Arkansas Valley Company in Colorado, a foreign corporation, whose inclosures embrace upward of 1,000,000 acres; the prairie cattle company (Scottish) in Colorado, upward of 1,000,000 acres; H. H. Metcalf, River Bend, Col., 200,000 acres; John W. Powers, Colorado, 200,000 acres; McDaniel & Davis, Colorado, 75,000 acres; Routsider & Lamb, Colorado, 40,000 acres; J. W. Frank, Colorado, 40,000 acres; Garnett & Langford, Colorado, 30,000 acres; E. C. Lane, Colorado, 50,000 acres; Leivesy Brothers, Colorado, 150,000 acres; Votoman & McBine, Colorado, 30,000 acres; Beatty Brothers, Colorado, 40,000 acres; Child, Brown & Co., Colorado, 30,000 acres; Reynolds Cattle Co., Colorado, 50,000 acres; several other cases in Colorado, embracing from 10,000 to 30,000 acres; Coe & Carter, Nebraska, fifty miles of fence; J. W. Wilson, Nebraska, forty miles fence; J. W. Boster, Nevada, thirty miles; Nelson & Son, Nevada, twenty-two miles; Kennebec Ranch, Nebraska, from 20,000 to 50,000 acres.

Many of the cattle companies have gone onto the public lands and fenced them in without so much as asking the permission of a tender-hearted and complaisant Secretary of the Interior. They have shut up United States mail-routes and inclosed the homes of the settlers, and the squatters have been powerless in defense of their rights of free ingress and egress to and from the lands claimed in 160-acre tracts of them. The assaults the squatters have received in many instances from the spurred and booted cowboys in the employ of these wealthy syndicates, and quite a chapter to a long catalogue of privations and hardships endured by the pioneers.

The Marvelous Graphophone.

The instrument will be leased at $60 a year each. Leased, mark you. No person will be allowed to own an instrument outright. There seemed reason for leasing a telephone instrument, for it was merely a part of a connected system and was useless when disconnected. But the graphophone instrument is complete in itself, and seems so. Perhaps the wax cylinders, which are its chief feature, will have to be supplied periodically from a central office, and in that way a sort of connected graphophone system be established. Or there may be some other way. Anyhow, the instruments will be leased.

The graphophone is an instrument smaller than the ordinary typewriter. It makes a permanent record of every sound transmitted to it, and can repeat the sound at any subsequent period as many times as one pleases. Mr. Levy, the cornet player, for instance, played "Home, Sweet Home," in four octaves to a graphophone over at Mr. Lombard's office, and now every stockholder or other individual who is allowed to see the graphophone at work is favored with "Home, Sweet Home," in four octaves as aforesaid. All Mr. Lombard has to do when he wants a tune is to take out whatever wax cylinder happens to be in the instrument, at the moment and insert in its place the wax cylinder that was there when Mr. Levy was playing. You just press a button and the brass band begins to play. In this way one of Patti's $1,000 songs can be repeated 500 times at pleasure. Five hundred is about the limit. After that the wax gets to chip, and the graphophone gets hoarse. And Patti's songs can thus be handed down to future generations.—New York Sun.
