NOTICES ABOUT TOWN.

Election to-morrow. Look out for those principles. Ice cream at the city restaurant to-day. H. B. Derrick has started an axe factory at Crawfordville.

CLOSE OF THE CANVASS.

The Candidates Conclude the Campaign at the Court House Yesterday.

Yesterday the candidates assembled at the court house in this city for their final wordy contest, and in the best of feeling went at the work.

The Juvenile band discoursed fine music to call them together. On motion of Mr. Myers Hon. R. A. Irvine was made chairman of the occasion, announced the programme.

T. P. Goodman, who was acting for Mr. Denny, discussed the wickedness of the old parties, and exhorted for converts to the third party eloquently, but without apparent aggregation to a forlorn hope.

Judge J. J. Whitney made a lengthy review of his official record, and fully showed up the wickedness of Marion county officials in squandering the public money of that county, but disclaimed any intention of claiming credit for the honestly administered affairs of the clerk and sheriff's offices of Linn county.

Judge D. R. N. Blackburn followed with a very short address, in which he showed the perfect consistency of the county judge, inquiring as to the constitutionality of a law requiring the expenditure of money before a needless expense is made.

Mr. Taylor made a good temperance talk from his prohibition party standpoint, and urged the necessity of voting for the temperance cause. Mr. Jeff Myers followed with several well meant statements of what he would work for if elected representative.

O. H. Irvine presented a synopsis of all that had been said, and failed to discover anything bordering upon the promiscuous "political" uses of the day, and followed in a very few well chosen words to present the real issues between the republican and democratic parties.

Mr. Joseph Miller, candidate up on the prohibition ticket for county judge, took but a few minutes, and exhibited his view of the question. J. B. R. Morelock followed and gave his side of the tariff, looking through dramatic spectacles, but evidently did what he did not intend to when he said that his party were in favor of raising the requisite revenue by placing a tariff upon what the working people consumed.

Hon. W. W. Richardson followed giving a succinct statement of the working of the Linn county legislative delegation during the last session, and correcting the impression that Mr. Morelock created that the lower house was democratic, by stating that both houses had working republican majorities, showing good Linn county work.

The candidates for county school superintendent closed the discussion. The remarks of each being gentlemanly and well chosen, and each submitting to the votes of the people with the promise of perfect satisfaction and acquiescence with the results. Mr. Williams decidedly had the advantage in matters of experience and left the impression of being an able man, and well qualified for the position.

VALUABLE PROPERTY SOLD.

The St. Charles Hotel and Other Property Sold at Ridiculously Low Prices.

In pursuance of an order of the county court, John A. Crawford, administrator of the estate of Honck & Meyer, sold yesterday at public auction, through the person of Geo. Humphrey, deputy sheriff, the valuable property recently advertised in the HERALD.

The St. Charles hotel and two lots was sold to Earl Race for $1000. The premises occupied by Mrs. C. Honck and two lots was also sold to the same person for $900.

The brick store building occupied by C. H. Spencer was sold to Mrs. C. Honck for $600. The fair ground lots, containing 6 1/2 acres, were also sold to Mrs. Honck for $250.

One-half lot near the hotel was sold to Ashby Pearce for $50. The price paid is no indication of the value of the property, as it is in litigation. The title cannot be secured until the sale is confirmed by the probate court, which may not be done, at the prices at which the property sold.

Notice to the Public.

By mutual consent of Messrs Thomas Jones and L. Vereck, arrangements have been made whereby the latter has purchased the barber shop of Daniel Sutton, and will again go into business in this city.

THOMAS JONES. LOUIS VERECK.

W. F. Reed proposes to give away a fine and recent gold and silver watch, the very best thing and best made white shirt in the market. The price is as low or lower than any equally as good shirt in the market.

THESE PLEDGES.

Jeff Myers and R. C. Miller Endorse Some Very Quar Principles.

Certain pledges have, during the present canvass of this county, been circulated among the candidates for the legislature and among them are found one in the following language: "If elected to the legislature I will vote for no candidate for United States senator who will not pledge himself to support a law to enable farmers to obtain loans from the government on landed security at a rate of interest not to exceed three per cent. per annum."

It is well known that Myers, of Scio, and Miller, of Lebanon, both democrats, have by letter accepted these pledges and given their pledged faith that, if elected to the legislature, they will adopt them as their pillar of cloud by day and pillar of fire by night. Both of these gentlemen attempted on the canvass to evade their position on these questions, but afterwards admitted to agreeing to them.

Is it wisdom, or even expedient, that either of these pledges should be fulfilled? The object of the first would seem to be to enable farmers to get money at a cheap rate of interest, which is all right so far, if it could be done through the ordinary course of business. But for the government to constitute itself a vast loan association and adopt the machinery necessary to safely loan and protect the funds, would work disaster to the public welfare. It could not be a paying measure for the government. It would increase the civil service, and require more officers and agents to keep the funds loaned and collect the interest and principal when due than is required now to collect all the revenues of the government. The three per cent. derived from the investment could never pay the expenses of management. It would be a centralization of power never before equalled. The iron heel of despotism would take advantage of the machinery and compel every man indebted to the government to obey its behests, and the funds would henceforth be diverted to the corruption of politics and not to the benefit of anybody except government officials and the party in power.

In the course of time the government would own immense tracts of land through foreclosures, which must again be sold, and the amount that would be realized could never be so great as the cost. The government borrows at 4 and 4 1/2 per cent., and to loan at 3 per cent. would be poor policy, to say the least. The evils that would be entailed by such a measure could never be recounted within a government of sixty-five millions of people.

The second pledge demands that the people's adoption, the state constitution, be subjected to the will and caprice of the legislative assembly. It is the duty of the courts to decide the law, and when a statute passed by the legislature is in conflict with the constitution adopted by the people, it is the duty of the court to decide that the constitution is law, not the statute. The doctrine is pernicious and at once breaks down every safeguard vouchsafed to the people by the constitution. The legislative department and the judiciary are two distinct but coordinate branches of the government. The legislature is called together for the purpose of making laws and providing for the welfare of the commonwealth, but this body must look to it that in the discharge of their solemn duties they do not transgress the fundamental law of the land, that constitution which the people in their sovereign capacity have long since adopted. It is the province of the judiciary to expound the constitution, and all laws in conflict therewith they must reject as not good law, and treat them as of no force and effect against the people's sovereign will, and therefore unconstitutional. The principle is so simple that the who runs may read. A law which is unconstitutional. By-laws made in conflict therewith are not binding, and hence can have no effect. A charter is granted a city. Ordinances adopted beyond the powers granted by the charter, or in conflict with the terms thereof, are null and void. Just so with the state constitution and laws enacted thereunder, and for the legislature to pass a law to prohibit the courts of the state from annulling or suspending the operation of any law passed by the legislative assembly, whether constitutional or not, would be to wipe out entirely all constitutional limitations and overrule the people's safeguard. It would at once do away with the constitution, by less, solemn forms than was required for its adoption. It would make the act of the legislature higher than that of the people, and render the legislature absolutely supreme. It would be anarchy pure and simple. The people will not suffer their rights invaded by such pernicious and revolutionary measures.

O. H. Irvine has denounced these pledges from the stump in this county, and W. R. Kirk and W. W. Richardson, the two other candidates for the legislature on the republican ticket, are equally sound in their views upon these questions. But one question remains, in whose hands will the people place the law-making power, in the hands of representatives pledged to these measures, or in the hands of men opposed to them? These questions are not new; they have been openly proclaimed upon the canvass and openly denounced as above stated, and it behooves voters to carefully consider their full force.

THE TICKET.

It Is a Penitentiary Offense Under the State Law to Counterfeit a Ballot.

Mr. Walter Ketchum, chairman of the Linn county republican central committee, has filed in the county clerk's office the republican county ticket, as adopted by the republican convention, and to be used at the election on Monday next.

There is a provision in Hill's annotated laws of Oregon, section No. 2509, which makes it a punishable offense to counterfeit the same. The penalty is a fine not exceeding $100, or imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term not longer than one year.

An exact fac simile of the republican ticket for the state and for Linn county, as the same will appear on next Monday when offered at the polls, appears in the HERALD to-day. This is the identical form from which the ticket is being printed; only in our reproduction of it the candidates for the precinct officers, different in each precinct, are necessarily left off. The law provides that any political party or committee of any party or organization may adopt an inscription or vignette for their ticket and may file the same with the county clerk. It is not likely that any attempt will be made to counterfeit it in Linn county.

TO ADVERTISE ALBANY.

A Talk with Supt. McElroy Concerning the National Teachers Convention.

Hon. E. B. McElroy, superintendent of public instruction for Oregon, is in this city, arranging for the participation of this city and county in the National Teachers' Association, which meets in San Francisco on July 16. The Board of Trade of this city has donated $25 towards defraying the expenses of the Oregon headquarters for the purpose of advertising the state, and 2000 copies of a pamphlet setting forth the resources of Albany and Linn county will doubtless be printed and forwarded by this city. People from all parts of the United States will be there, and it will be a grand opportunity to advertise Oregon. Samples of fruits and grains will be on exhibition, and it will offer a practical demonstration of Oregon's productiveness.

The matter of printing the descriptive pamphlet referred to has been delegated to a committee appointed by the Board of Trade, and it is likely that this important matter will be attended to. Very low rates of travel have been made over the different transportation lines, and an immense attendance will be present.

THE VEIN OVER.

Messrs Hearing & Donaca have discovered a coal vein 10 miles above Sweet Home, which they think is valuable. The vein is from 17 to 24 inches thick and widens as it deepens. They will ask the Board of Trade of this city to assist them in attracting the attention of capitalists to it. It is known that coal exists in that region, and it is hoped that this will prove what the owners expect.

Real Estate Transfer.

Curran & Montiehl sold yesterday to Andrew Skaar, lot 27 containing 9 acres in Dr. Maston's Waverly Fruit Farm. Consideration $2000. Mr. Skaar, who is a painter by trade, intends to improve the tract by putting out fruit trees, and having a residence put up on it, and making the place his future home.

Jetty at Yaquina.

It is stated that the recent full tides have increased the damage to the government tramway at Yaquina Bay already noted. There has been over 3,000 bags of sand placed in position to prevent the wash of the sea, but this would be of little service, if it were high tides and rough sea come together as they may in June. The damage is very serious, both on account of the expense necessary to rebuild, and on account of the delay, making it impossible to do but little in the way of extension this season, if the present appropriation should fare no better than the last one.

Capt. Powell's New Position.

Captain Charles F. Powell, of the corps of United States engineers, who was formerly attached to the office in Portland, reported duty at St. Louis on Sunday last. Capt. Powell is now secretary of the Mississippi river commission.

Burglary at Turner.

Some time Wednesday evening some vandals broke into the section house above Turner and took therefrom three revolvers and a lot of cheap clothing from the Chinese section heads. The boss and Chinese men were out on the road at the time. There is no clue to the burglars.

Labor day was not observed in this city yesterday. A well-to-do farmer said that it was a day in which all the tramps and loafers of the county were required to put in one honest day's work in the year, he thought it would be a most desirable adjunct to legal holidays.

The ladies of the M. E. church and congregation have in preparation an entertainment consisting of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, tableaux and pantomimes, which promises to be enjoyable and instructive. It will be given on June 15th.

In this issue is published some comments on certain pledges which have been made by two of the nominees on the representative ticket. It is needless to say that the people do not want men pledged to such principles.
