HAVE YOU A cough in the head which does not get better? Have you an excessive secretion of mucus or matter in the nasal passages which either must be blown from the nose or hawked from behind the palate, or hawked or snuffed backward to the throat? Are you troubled with sneezing, coughing, weak and inflamed eyes, frequent soreness of the throat ringing or roaring in the ears, more or less impairment of the hearing, loss of smell, memory impaired, dullness or dizziness of the head, dryness or heat of nose? Have you lost all sense of smell? Have you a hacking cough? Have you dyspepsia? Is your breath foul? IF SO YOU HAVE THE CATARRH. Some have all these symptoms, others only a part. The leading symptom of ordinary catarrh is increased secretion of mucus of yellow or greenish colored matter.

Foul breath is caused by the decomposing secretions exuded from festering ulcers far back in the head; sometimes the membrane covering the bones is eaten away and the bones themselves gradually decay. Such cases are indeed objects of pity, as stench from corroding sores reveal the corruption within.

As every breath drawn into the lungs must pass over and become polluted by the reflections in the nasal passages, it must necessarily follow that poisoning of the whole system gradually takes place, while the morbid matter that is swallowed during the night finds into the stomach, enfeebles digestion, and often produces dyspepsia, and finally pneumonia, nervousness and consumption.

DO NOT PROCRASTINATE.

If you have experienced any of the above symptoms do not delay, but try CALIFORNIA CAT-R-CURE at once. We positively guarantee a few applications relieve and a thorough treatment to cure. Six months treatment for $1.00; sent by mail

GENERAL NEWS.

A Small Civil War Threatened In Indian Territory.

U. S. TROOPS ORDERED OUT.

Sderidan's Mother Dead—A Bloody Chapter of Crime and Disaster—Eastern News.

The HERALD'S Special Dispatches.

GAINSVILLE, June 12.—Some time ago the cattlemen of Chickasaw nation of Indian territory, resisted the cattle tax of $16 per head on cattle grazing on Indian lands, and drove the collector and his deputies away with violence. The governor was notified, and through him and the United States government a peacable settlement was attempted but without result favorable to the Indians. The cowboys began to assume warlike demonstrations, and now about 500 are redezvoused in the southern part of the nation. Gov. Guy has ordered out the national militia, and about 100 Indians, and they are encamped now at Ardmore, preparatory to moving upon the cowboys. Captain McLish was put in command of the militia, and he has orders to move them at once. To-day the camp was astir getting ready for the campaign, and it is expected that the troops will be on the move to-morrow. They will move cautiously as it is feared that they are not strong enough to combat the cowboys, who are armed with Winchester rifles. Many of these men are citizens of the nation, and it is feared that this is the first outbreak of a civil war. The government troops at Fort Reno are prepared to take the field, in case the Chickasaws can not quell the disturbances.

A BLOODY FEUD.

Growing Out of a Bitter County Seat War.

TOPEKA (Kansas), June 12.—A telegram from Briogton to General Murray says: An alarming state of affairs exists in Stevens county, on the frontier, caused by railway elections. The towns of Woodsale and Hugoton are located about two miles apart and a bitter feeling has always existed between them, growing out of a county seat fight. P. L. Jones, deputy sheriff, who is constable of Woodsale township, and another officer rode into Hugo on and attempted to assassinate Sam Robins and J. B. Chamberlain, chairman of the board of county commissioners. They pretended to have warrants for the arrest of the parties, but instead of serving warrants they drew their revolvers and opened fire upon the marshal and chairman of the board. The fire was returned and the attacking party retired. One man was seriously wounded. Both towns are now armed to the teeth and bloodshed may follow.

Want Cleveland to Attend.

BALTIMORE, June 12.—The committee in charge of arrangements for the convention of the national league democratic club, on July 4th hope to induce President Cleveland to attend the convention. Speaker Carlisle, and Senators Gorham, Blackburn and other prominent men will also be invited and a ratification meeting of the presidential ticket is to be held while the convention is in session.

U. S. Senator Elected.

NEWPORT (R. I.), June 12.—In the general assembly to-day Jonathan A. Chase was re-elected United States senator by a majority of both houses. The vote stood: Senate—Chase 29, J. W. Davis 4, Charles H. Page 1. House—Chase 59, Davis 8, Page 1.

Dividend Declared.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The directors of the Manhattan elevated road to-day declared a dividend of 1 per cent. and a reduction of ½ per cent., which is said to be in accordance with Gould's wishes.

A Boy's Startling Confession.

BUFFALO, June 12.—A cash boy, named Andrew Howard, has confessed that he started the million dollar fire which destroyed the dry goods store of Barnes, Hengerer & company. He says he started the fire because he was mad at Starring, a floor walker, who would not excuse him to go to a funeral at which he was pallbearer.

Gen. Sheridan Still Improves.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—General Sheridan passed a quiet night, but was a little disturbed after midnight by coughing. His general condition is about the same.

Mrs. Forsythe Dead.

CHICAGO, June 12.—A telegram from Fort Riley announces the death from heart disease of Mrs. Forsythe, the wife of Col. Jas. W. Forsythe, U. S. A.

Body Recovered.

BALTIMORE, June 12.—The body of T. Harrison Garrett, who was drowned Thursday while on a yachting excursion, has been recovered.

Sheridan's Mother Dead.

SOMERSET (Ohio), June 12.—The mother of General Sheridan died to-day.

A WRETCH'S CRIME.

A Lovesick Fool Kills a Married Woman and Himself.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Fillipp S. Guastoni, agent for a large California wine house, shot Mrs. Louisa Marri in a Green street tenement house this morning and then blew out his own brains. Guastoni was an Italian. He was a constant visitor in the Marri household, and had for some time made no secret of his love for the woman. He had been warned by the woman's husband not to interfere with the domestic relations of the Marri family. Notwithstanding the warning early this morning he forced his way in Mrs. Marri's bedroom, where the tragedy was committed. Mrs. Marri is in a critical condition, and will probably die.

K. of P. Conclave.

CINCINNATI, June 12.—The thirteenth biennial conclave of the supreme lodge of Knights of Pythias, began its session to-day. Probably 20000 Pythians have arrived. It is understood that the prime chancellor will recommend in his report the expulsion of the rebellious Pennsylvanian officers.

MEANING OF AMERICA.

Its Probable Signification Said to be "Strong For Labor."

The meaning of the name Amerigo has often been discussed, the only thing certain being that it is one of those names of Teutonic origin, like Humberto, Alfonso, Grimaldo or Garibaldi, so common in northern Italy, which testify to the Gothic or Lombard conquest. Americ, which occurs as early as 744 A. D., is probably a contracted form of the name Amalaric, borne by a king of the Visigoths, who died in 531. A bishop Emerick was present at the council of Salisbury in 807, and an Americus Balistarius is mentioned in the Close rolls (thirteenth century).

It has been conjectured that the stem is im, from which we get the name of Emma. The meaning of this is not known with certainty, though Ferguson thinks it may denote "strife" or "noise." Since, however the name is probably of Gothic origin, and since the Amalungs were the royal race of the Ostrogoths, it is more likely that the stem is amal, which was formerly thought to mean "without spot," but is now more plausibly connected with the old Norse ami, "labor," "work." The suffix ric, cognate with rex, reich, and rick, means "rich" or "powerful." and therefore the most probable signification of Amerigo is "strong for labor."

INDIAN WAR CLAIMS.

Senator Dolph's Efforts to Get Them in Shape to be Paid.

Senator Dolph has introduced in the senate a bill amendatory of the act for the benefit of the states of Texas, Colorado, Oregon, Nebraska, California, Kansas and Nevada, and the territories of Washington and Idaho. The bill provides that the secretary of the treasury and the secretary of war, assisted by the board of officers heretofore appointed under section 2 of the aforesaid act, approved August 4, 1885, be and hereby are authorized and directed to examine all vouchers, accounts and evidence heretofore submitted by the proper officers of the states of Oregon and California, in support of war claims of said states against the United States for expenses incurred and obligations by them assumed in recruiting, enrolling, organizing, arming and equipping volunteer and militia forces and home guards in said states for the purpose of guarding overland and inland mails and immigrant routes, and for the holding of their forces to be ready to perform military services for the United States whenever called upon, interest to be at rates fixed by the statistics in different states. The board is also authorized to ascertain the amount already paid the state of California and the amount still due for Indian war claims.

British Interest in Our Strikes.

Pall Mall Gazette.

According to a report from the British Minister at Washington, which has just been laid before Parliament, since the beginning of 1887 there have been 1000 strikes in the United States, and of the 400,000 men engaged in them 25,000 to 50,000 are still out. The most serious was that of the New Jersey coal-handlers, which involved a loss in wages to those engaged of more than £500,000. The cost to the workers of the Pennsylvanian cokeworkers' strike of the spring, in which 13,000 men were engaged for ten weeks, was about £200,000 in wages. More than two-thirds of the strikes between January and July, 1887, were fruitless and only brought loss and suffering to those engaged to them. As a whole about 38 per cent, or more than a third of the strikers in 1887 succeeded in getting their demands, against 26 per cent in 1886. It is calculated that nearly 10,000,000 days' work and wages were lost.

Washington Society and Foreign Critics.

Mrs. John A. Logan in American Magazine.

Washington, like other cities, has its entertainers whose pathway to polite society is paved with ducats, and whose ostentatious displays, ridiculous mistakes and absurd remarks have amused society and furnished rich material for caustic correspondent. There are always plenty of people ready to eat their delicious dinners, drink their luscious wines, admire their gorgeous surroundings; and after, electrify their friends by telling the absurdities of mine host. In other respects these people have done good service by taking upon themselves the entertainment of Matthew Arnolds and other captious foreigners who visit this country, accept attentions and go back to their homes and criticise American society, ignorant of the fact that our most accomplished people have given them no opportunity to accept their hospitality and repay it with ridicule.

THE GREAT AMERICAN GAME.

By Bill Nye.

I am extremely sorry that Matthew Arnold did not live to read more of our American base-ball literature. I think he would have liked us better if he had done so. In saying that we are vulgar people and that the American humorist was a national misfortune, I think he criticised us hastily, for he was only in this country a little while and judged our humor largely by the supply he read while here and which he brought with him in his trunk; but if he could have seen the base-ball word painting of our glorious country he would have loved us.

If he could have read that Richardson went out, Irwin to Farrar, that Foster hit safely and stole second, that Welch flied out to Wood, and all about Tiernan's scratch hit and Ewing's failure to sacrifice, and Ward's miss of a grounder that went through him Mr. Arnold would have said that he had done us an injustice.

We do not claim much for our long line of ancestry, and those of us who came over in the Mayflower try to conceal it as quickly as possible, but here, in this wild and savage land, we are trying to build up a classic style of our national game that will make the mother country tired.

I admit that I cannot understand it all yet, but I am striving to do so, and I am willing to work hard.

I sometimes wish that Lord Tennyson could come here for one summer and sit with me on a bleaching-board, with his numerous hair hanging over his topcoat while I explained to him "that it looked rather squally for the Giants for instance, till Slattery jolted merry thunder out of the horse hide tore the ear of the willow, smashed the leather, and [illegible] while the Phillie fumblers were pulling dandelion greens beyond the Harlem, the metropolitan infielder lit out like future punishment beating tanbark, accumulated a one bagger, a two-bagger, and a three bagger, straightened himself out like a longwaisted jack rabbit across the plate, and made his royal red home run just as the New York Central got in with the ball and the band played "Tommy Make Room for your Auntie."

I think Alfred would like that. If me lord likes a vivid and searching style he would find it here. I am only beginning to write in this way, and it is new to me, but I think I can ultimately give a description of a ball game that will appeal to every heart. When I began I would have said, for instance, that O'Rourke swatted at the ball and missed it, till the pitcher hit O'Rourke's person with it, and then he went to the first and gradually got to the third base; but now I would say that O'Rourke, the Gothic-extended catcher for the Giants, strove to belt the blooming ball to windward, mauled the atmosphere two times, and concussed the life preserver on the right leg of Umpire Daniels was presented with one base as a mark of esteem, and with a blister as big a hornet's nest where had tried to bisect the orbit of a hot ball with the bosom of his knickerbockers, he bungled a second and while Hallman was muffing the orb, catching invisible crabs, fluking everything in sight and corking himself generally, O'Rourke lit out like a scared-to-death bobtail cornet, fell forty horizontally, and with his ear full of hot ball, a blister across his meridian, a fractured thigh, and his mouth full of sand, hoarsely ejaculated, "Judgment!"

There is a description that appeals to every human heart. There is a literary moss agate that ought to tickle a man like Tennyson, unless he has a foolish prejudice against American writers.

My ambition is some day to write the lurid description of a base-ball game which will go snorting down the corridor of time along with Balaklava, Marco Bozarris, and the stubborn youth who stood on the burning deck. I want to write it so that it will be bright and jaunty in style, and yet I want to sock a little sadness in it, a description that should be rich in coloring and yet free from information, a carefully and professionally prepared gem of literature that would contain about a column and nothing else whatever.

A fine line of imported cigars received at Brownell & Stanard's
