THE BROWNVILLE AFFAIR.

Further Particulars Concerning the Arrest of the Girl in Brownville.

Further particulars concerning the arrest of Arthur Burton, for raping Eliza Harrington at Brownsville, shows that it is a very mixed-up affair, and the true facts cannot be ascertained until the case comes up for trial at the term of circuit court next week.

An opinion prevails among some people at Brownsville that the girl, who is now crazed, has been intimate with several young men, including Burton, and that in an attempt to produce an abortion, she was rendered temporarily insane. The alleged chloroforming they claim is a trumped-up story to shield the intimacies of all the young men upon the young nuttato.

Be this as it may a monstrous wrong has been committed, from the effect of which a girl of 16 is driven crazy. Her statement is essentially the same as already published in the HERALD, that young Burton entered her room, and threatening to kill her if she made an outcry, administered chloroform and accomplished his hellish design, and on this charge young Burton was arrested and waived examination at the preliminary trial. Whoever the guilty party or parties may be they should receive the severest punishment.

The young girl will probably be brought to this city and examined as to her sanity. She has been living with her cousin, Mrs. Zeiner, whose husband was in the city yesterday for the purpose of instituting suit for slander against certain parties who had spoken in derogatory terms of the character of his wife and the young girl.

WEBBER-KINERHART WEDDINGS.

A large party of relatives and friends gathered at the residence of Mr. John Brown in Brownsville to witness the nuptials of Mr. Frederic Webber and Miss Louisa Maria Kinerhart. The bride and groom were supported by Miss Flo Brown and Mr. J. M. Waters, Rev. Gittens, pastor of the M. E. church officiating. The happy couple took their places beneath a floral arch and horse shoe of orange blossoms and the knot was tied. The parlors were handsomely decorated with flowers. A delicious lunch was served, to which the guests did justice. Mr. and Mrs. Webber received many handsome presents. Their many friends wish them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

PROTECTION OF GAME BIRDS.

Under this heading Judge O. N. Benny has written a letter from Cores to a friend in Portland, in which he says:

Upon an examination of my memorandum book, I find I have expended first and last in this venture (the game birds), without any return, about $518—Independent of the labor, which cannot be estimated in dollars and cents—quite a tax, considering that I was not the possessor of $5000 worth of property at the time. Notwithstanding this I shall not regret the investment of either time or money if the object ought to be attained, for you know that it is largely due to importations of various birds that enables us to "make the deer blossom like the rose," and which add so much to the grandeur and enjoyableness of our young and great country.

Formerly France, Germany and England—like America—were without pheasants and many other kinds of game, the so-called English pheasants being an importation. Now, however, it is quite different, for, owing to the keen appreciation of their sportsmen of choice varieties of game, the spire of field and stream, their preserves have been richly supplied, not only with the breeds of pheasants brought to the state by myself, but the Elliot, Swinno, Pakra and Reeves added. With European sportsmen neither money nor labor seem to stand in the way when a new and game variety can be produced, either for gun or rod.

Of course the sportsmen of the Northwest coast are not expected to keep pace with those of Europe in the introduction of game. But it is not unreasonable to expect them to protect with every means at their command the natural game of the country as well as that imported and turned adrift at their doors.

In this connection I may mention that pheasants are not the only donations I have made to the coast. While consul general I sent to southern California trees of the diichee, a delicious semi-tropical fruit, and to Oregon the Peking pear, large persimmon and doquat together with the tallow tree, from the nut of which is collected the vegetable tallow so extensively used in China in the manufacture of candles consumed in Buddhist worship; also the bamboo and magnolia, besides shrubs, flowers, etc., now growing in the state. I also added to the different breeds of fowls in Oregon the Langshans, Peking bantams and Cotons, as well as the Peking ducks.

Irene now I had hoped to be on my way back to Oregon to take up my residence again under the sentinels of Hood, Adams, Jefferson and Helens, but circumstances over which I seem to have no control still detain me. In fact, in the language of Pat, it is always the unexpected we may look for.

AN OREGON THUNDER-BOLT.

A Squaw on the Warm Spring Reservation Killed by Lightning.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Peter Esser, who came in from the Warm Spring Indian reservation, reports that on Saturday last as two young Indian women were crossing a field on the reservation about four miles from the agency, they were struck by lightning. One of them was instantly killed, the electric current having entered the back of her neck and passed out below the shoulder, making a hole as big around as a nickle. The other one was struck in the hip, the current passing down her leg, burning it badly and making a hole in the ground.

The occurrence caused great excitement on the reservation, the Indians never having known of any one being killed by lightning, which is not strange, as this is the second occurrence of the kind which has happened in Oregon. The body was buried as soon as possible and work was commenced digging for the supposed instrument which had made the hole in the ground. Nearly all the Indians on the reservation were on the ground taking turns at the pick and shovel. If they succeed in finding the thunderbolt it will be the only one recovered so far as known.

A Warning.

The modes of doctor's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the throat and lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue they ravage the extent of the lungs producing consumption and to the head, causing catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must not be intimidated; allow a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your throat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a bottle of Bosc's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.
