HAVE YOU A COLD in the head which does not get better? Have you an excessive secretion of mucus or matter in the nasal passages which either must be blown from the nose or drop back behind the palate, or hawked or snuffed back to the throat? Are you troubled by yawning, sneezing, weak and inflamed eyes, frequent soreness of the throat, ringing or roaring in the ears, more or less impairment of the hearing, loss of smell, memory impaired, dullness or dizziness of the head, dryness or heat of nose? Have you lost all sense of smell? Have you a hacking cough? Have you "strep throat"? Is your breath foul? If so you have the CATARRH. Some have all these symptoms, others only a part. The leading symptom of ordinary catarrh is increased secretion of mucus of yellow or greenish color matter. Foul breath is caused by the decomposing secretions exuded from festering ulcers far back in the head; sometimes the membrane covering the bones is eaten away and the bones themselves gradually decay. Such cases are in deed objects of pity, as stench from corroding sores re-veals the corruption within. As every breath drawn into the lungs must pass over and become polluted by the reflexions in the nasal passages, it must necessarily follow that poisoning of the whole system gradually takes place, while the morbid matter that is swallowed during the sleep enters into the stomach, entangles digestion, and often produces dyspepsia, and finally general debility, nervousness and consumption.

DO NOT PROCRASTINATE.

If you have experienced any of the above symptoms do not delay, but try CATARRH CURE at once. We positively warrant you a few applications will relieve and that thorough treatment to cure. Six months treatment for $1.00, sent by mail.

THE TICKET.

Comments of the Eastern Press on Harrison and Morton.

BLAINE'S CONGRATULATIONS.

The Ticket Meets With Universal Approval Everywhere—The Tariff is the Issue.

Special to the HERALD.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 26.—The Journal says: "The nomination is a complete indication of wisdom and patriotism of the largest, most earnest and generally enthusiastic convention ever held. The nomination of Harrison and Morton is the happiest solution that could possibly have been made of the great political problem. If it were not so clearly the result of human wisdom we should call it inspiration."

WHAT SHERMAN SAYS.

NEW YORK, June 26.—General Sherman says: "I think there could not be a more powerful ticket than Harrison and Morton. Every man who fought for the preservation of this government should vote for these men. Harrison, I think, will be as strong as Blaine would have been. Of course I would rather my brother John had got it, but the republican party should be judge and select its own standard bearer."

A CABLEGRAM FROM BLAINE.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 26.—General Harrison last night received the following from Blaine: "From Linlithgow, Scotland, June 25, General Harrison, Indianapolis:—I congratulate you most heartily upon the work of the national convention. Your candidacy will recall triumphant enthusiasm and the assured victorious conclusion which followed your grandfather's nomination in 1840. Your election will seal our industrial independence, as the declaration of 76, which bears the name of your great grandfather, sealed our political independence. [Signed.] James G. Blaine."

EVERYWHERE ENDORSED.

CINCINNATI, June 26.—The Commercial-Gazetteer strongly endorses the nomination.

The Enquirer says that from the beginning to the end Blaine's friend have had their own way and dominated the result.

A DEMOCRATIC VIEW.

LOUISVILLE, June 26.—Henry Watterson in the Journal says: "The democracy have escaped a serious danger. The strategy of the situation was Harrison and De- pue."

IN GOOD HANDS.

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—The Inquirer says: "The government will be safe in Harrison's hands." The Times says: "Altogether the ticket is respectable and unobjectionable. Every American endorses the ticket."

MORE ENDORSEMENTS.

St. Louis, June 26.—The Republican says: "The country is to be congratulated on the makeshift nominee."

The Globe-Democrat says: "The ticket will undoubtedly prove strong and popular."

IN THE DAYS OF FORTY-NINE.

How Tecumseh Sherman Was Discharged by His Colored Boy.

"Speaking of California," said General Sherman with a twinkle in his left eye, the other day in Cincinnati, "it reminds me of how I was once discharged by my colored boy Jim. I was First Lieutenant in the Fifth Artillery in those days and was ordered out to California. I took my colored boy Jim with me round the Horn in a clipper ship. I paid him $16 a month. I was getting $72 a month then. Big pay! Not very much, for in addition to being First Lieutenant, I was Adjutant General of the Department, but I didn't get a cent for that. Well, we were down at San Diego, and Jim worked along pretty steadily. One day he came to me and said: 'Boss, I've come to quit; I've been offered $300 a month to work in a libbery stable up yar, and you must pay me that much or I quit.' Three hundred dollars a month for a colored boy, and I getting $72 from the United States! That proposition of Jim's rather staggered me. I said: 'Jim, I guess you had better go to the livermy; I can't pay you that much.' 'Well,' said Jim, showing the whites of his eyes, 'I reckon, then, boss, as how I've got to discharge you.' Discharge me he did for Jim left. It was the first time I was ever discharged from the army," said the General, ending the story, "and by a colored boy who was earning four times as much money as I was."

He Did Not Wish to Be Hurried.

From the Philadelphia Call.

"I have not many hours to live," he said, huskily, grasping the hand of his friend, the editor, while he struggled to a sitting posture in his bed. "You and I have always been friends—aye, brothers. Promise me one thing it is my dying request, and I know you—"

A violent spasm of coughing seized him and nearly shook him from his slender hold on earth. When the fit had subsided the editor, with his well-defined trace of a tear on his rugged cheek, bent over the wasted form with all the tenderness of a mother.

"What is it?" he whispered, brokenly. "Whatever you wish I promise."

"It is this," and the dying man's voice became strong with the earnestness of his appeal. "Don't kill me in your paper until I'm dead."

The Most Diminutive Race Known.

Skeletons of two Akkas, the pigmy people discovered by Schweinfurth in 1870, have, says the Boston Budget, been acquired by the British museum, and show that this race is undoubtedly the most diminutive known. The stature of the male skeleton is about an inch below four feet, and that of the female about as much above. The measurements accorded indicate that these heights are rather below the average, though a living adult female three feet ten inches is known. Professor Fowler finds that the Akkas belongs to the black or Negro branch of the human species, and they are not allied to the bushmen or Andaman Islanders, which tribes they most resemble in size.

A Dangerous Herb.

From La Luz Mexico.

The Deputy of Oaxaca, Mr. Perfecto Carrera, has taken to the City of Mexico a plant that grows in Mexico which the natives call the "herb of prophecy." It is taken in varying doses, and in a few moments a sleep is produced similar in all respects to, and we might say identical with, the hypnotic state,

GENERAL NEWS.

Train Load of Chicago Delegates Dash into a Freight.

FOUR MINERS ROASTED ALIVE.

Steamship Collision—A Double Domestic Tragedy in New York—Mrs. Cleveland's Mother.

The Herald's Special Dispatches.

TIFFIN (Ohio), June 26.—A fast train on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, laden with Chicago delegates, ran into a freight train near Chicago junction this morning, while going at the rate of forty miles per hour. The engine, baggage car and several freight cars were demolished. The engineer was fatally hurt. A number of passengers were scratched and bruised. All were taken back to Columbus.

FIRE IN CALIFORNIA.

Several Men Roasted to Death in a Mine.

AUBURN (Cal.), June 26.—Yesterday afternoon fire broke out and consumed the hoisting works at Belmont mine, near Ophir. Three men were at work on a drift 100 feet from the surface. The fire from the timbers of the shaft were extinguished, but it was not until 8 o'clock p. m. that the men were reached. They were found dead near the mouth of the drift. Their names are Joseph Reardon, Wm. Reardon and Joseph Hawkins. In an attempt to rescue the men Andrew Larson also lost his life.

THE COAST DELEGATES.

They Leave in a Body to Congratulate General Harrison.

CHICAGO, June 26.—Estee, Haymond and other Pacific coast delegates to the convention, enough to fill six cars, left this morning for Indianapolis to call on Harrison and congratulate him in his nomination.

Steamship Collision.

LONDON, June 26.—The British steamer Tyremonth, of the Castle and Red Star line, and the steamer Nordland have collided. The Nordland was bound from Antwerp to New York. Mrs. Folsom, mother of Mrs. President Cleveland, is among the passengers. The Tyremonth is badly damaged. She put into Southampton in a sinking condition. It is not known to what extent the Nordland has been damaged.

A Double Tragedy.

NEW YORK, June 26.—This morning Joseph Stafford, bell boy, shot and killed Rosie Sheridan, cook in a boarding house, and then killed himself.

A Vessel Lost.

LONDON, June 26.—A vessel, supposed to be an emigrant ship, founded off Cape Good Hope on the 4th of June. All hands were lost.

THE WRONG COMBINATION.

An En Ployer Who Taught His Clerk How to Spell Door.

New York Press.

A very good story is told of the late Daniel Drew, who, it would seem, never studied spelling, or else graduated from the school where the method was developed which has since received the appellation of phonetic. The old gentleman was, one day and not able to go to his office, but as he was anxious to have something that he had placed in his safe the night before, he sent for his trusted clerk and divulged to him the secret of opening it—"door" being the word on which the hinges moved. The man proceeded to the room where the safe was kept and followed the directions of Mr. Drew to the best of his ability, but without avail.

He returned to his employer and told him of his non-success. Again he was given a minute explanation, and still without being able to open the safe. When he reached Mr. Drew the third time he was asked to describe exactly what he had done in trying to get into it. The man said: "I turned the key so many times for 'D' and so many times for 'O' and again the same number of times for 'O'." "But when he reached this point Mr. Drew interrupted him and said: "'O,' again; you mean 'A'—d-o-a-r."

The clerk humbly acknowledged his error, and making his way to the safe used the proper talisman and succeeded in turning the lock without the smallest difficulty.

Mothers, Read.

The proprietors of Santa Abie have authorized Foshay & Mason to refund your money if, after giving this California King of Cough Cures a fair trial as directed, it fails to give satisfaction for the cure of Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough and all Throat and Lung troubles. When the disease affects the head, and assumes the form of Catarrh, nothing is so effective as California Cat-E-Cure. These preparations are without equals as household remedies. Sold at $1.00 a package. Three for $2.50.
