He was removed to a bed room up stairs and medical aid was summoned. Dr. Maston being called. He pronounced his condition the result of an overdose of opium poison. Every effort was made to save the young man's life but he died before noon.

He was aged about 26 and was the son of W. T. Osburn, of Eugene City. His parents were notified and the body was taken to that place last night. The deceased had a wife and child in Eugene from whom he had been separated for more than a year. He had been drinking heavily and using morphine, and it is likely that after his night's spree he attempted to take a dose of morphine and took too much, resulting in his death. He had been working for John Hanson in a tailor shop in Corvallis recently.

The coroner's jury returned the following verdict: We the jury, find that the deceased was known as Frank Osburn, that he came to his death at Albany, Oregon, on the 26th day of June, 1888, from the effect of an overdose of morphine.

Dated this 26th day of June 1888. C. G. BURKHART, CHAS. PFEIFFER, JNO. SCHMEER, M. F. HAYES, C. P. RADER, VIRGIL PARKER.

PICNIC AT HALSEY.

The grange picnic at Powell's grove near Halsey last Saturday under the auspices of Charity grade was largely attended and a successful affair.

Dr. J. F. Henry, master of Charity grange presided and called the meeting to order at the proper hour and announced the program, a prominent feature of which proved to be in the musical line the Halsey band discoursing fine music.

In addition some splendid vocal music, such as Charity grange is famous for, was given. Perhaps as enjoyable a part of the vocal music as was given was by two little girls who carried the entire audience with their beautiful melody.

State Lecturer John Simpson, occupied the time before dinner and although suffering with physical ailments, made a very good talk.

The dinner of course was the main feature of the occasion, and was the full fruition of a picnic's good time.

State Master H. E. Hayes, then interested the audience with one of his telling speeches, in which he reviewed the farmers situation needs and opportunities.

Hon. B. R. Henry's little son gave a fluent and effective recitation, evincing remarkable oratorical powers for one so young.

Hon. F. M. Kizer, responded to a call and in his usual earnest and determined manner put the crowd in roars of laughter and the best of good humor, withal dealing with solid facts and figures.

As a closing feature of the day a band of distinguished "plug uglies," who had been hovering around the edges of the grove filed in and promenade up to the stand in procession, where the leader delivered a grotesque oration on grangerism, amid the laughter and applause of the crowd.

The picnic was a decided success and the voice of everyone was "let us have more of the same kind."

THE CORVALLIS COLLEGE.

A Meeting of the Board of Regents—The Building Not Accepted.

Last Thursday the board of regents of the so called agricultural college met at Corvallis, to investigate the situation of that school.

By legal decision, which without doubt the higher courts will sustain the claims of the M. E. Church South, upon the institution are practically ended, but the board found that the premises, which consist of thirty five acres of land adjoining the city of Corvallis, and a new, and well constructed building which the citizens of Benton county have erected, was encumbered with debts amounting to about one thousand dollars, part of which is a mortgage held by the school fund.

They refused to accept the trust until the indebtedness was removed and the promise was given that it would be, at an adjourned meeting in time to make the acceptance comply with the requirements of the law to secure the benefits of the Hatch bill, and a curriculum of the study talked over for the next year.

A few words will not be amiss here upon this important topic. An Agricultural College is an essential to the state, and ample provisions have been and will be made for its maintenance, but that college must of a necessity be a distinctly Agricultural College.

To be such it must be located upon a farm of quality and quantity to carry on the requirements that have been found necessary in the states that have such schools in successful operation. To do this not less than 200 acres of good land is requisite.

In addition to this a curriculum of study must be adopted, and strictly adhered to, that embraces the agricultural sciences and not one based upon the usual classical course that is in vogue in colleges and universities. It will not do to have both courses for by so doing the fashionable part of the school will drift to the "Classical" department, and the stigma of cloisterism will be fastened upon the agricultural course, a condition that must wholly be avoided.

The successful schools that have grown up under the the appropriations for agricultural colleges fully demonstrate that there is sufficient in a curriculum that excludes the dead languages to fully occupy the time and make ripe and proficient scholars. Indeed the utility of Greek and latin is fast becoming questioned in any course of practical study, and most certainly it should be excluded from an agricultural course. Lean live not dead languages.

Oregon should have a successful and influential agricultural college and experimental station, and the farmers of the state owe it to themselves that such a school become a fixed fact, and to that end the matter should be taken especially care and cognizance of at the next session of the legislature. If Corvallis makes the present location and building meet the requirements of the case all well and good, and let the state do her part for it there, but if the requirements are not filled there put the college in some locality where they can be filled.

A QUIER CONFESSION.

James Morgan Who Robbed Hoffman & Pfeiffer's Store Sentenced for One Year.

In the circuit court yesterday, James Morgan was indicted for burglarizing the safe of Hoffman & Pfeiffer of $59. He plead guilty and was sentenced to the penitentiary for one year. He presented a statement to his honor Judge Boise, which is given herewith verbatim:

To THE HON. JUDGE BOISE, Sir:— I do not wish to cause the county needless expense, therefore shall throw myself entirely on the mercy of the court. In doing so I consider it my duty to inform you of the fact of the case. It is now about eighteen months since what I have inform you of has taken place. At that time I was employed by Hoffman & Pfeiffer in their store, as I carried a key to the store I used to open the store in the morning, but did not lock up at night one or the other of proprietors doing so. On opening as usual one morning I was surprised to find the safe door open, which never happened before upon investigation. I also found the back door unlocked, another unusual circumstance. It occurred to me then that the place must have been robbed, and I think so yet, had I then acted on my first intentions I should have went at once, and informed my employers of the suspicious circumstances, and perhaps all would have been well, but by hesitating I was lost, curiosity tempted me to examine the contents of the safe, when I found some money still remaining, but knowing that the firm were doing a large business, and that there must naturely have been considerable money in the safe, I concluded only the bulk of it was taken, perhaps the gold only as the remainder was all silver, thinking then that perhaps they would not believe me and that suspicion would naturally fall on me any how, whatever I said or done, I very foolishly put the money in my pocket and fled, and I assure you Sir I have very bitterly regretted it since, it was my only false dishonest step, and I have had no peace of mind since, and have not prospered in any of my undertakings. I had never been a drinking man before, but I was foolish enough to think I could drown remorse by drinking liquor, and finally seeing that I would never prosper until I acknowledged my faults I voluntarily delivered myself up to the authorities, decided to take the consequences. I was really not in any danger of being arrested at this late day for nearly every one seemed to have forgotten about it, but I could never forget it nor forgive myself for having branded myself as a criminal for I have felt like a fugitive from justice for the last eighteen months. Sir, I have here written the facts just as they occurred, not to cause compassion for me as no one but yourself shall see it, but simply because I consider it my duty to inform you of the true facts before I receive sentence. I expect to be punished as it is but just, but pray that the Honorable Court will not be too severe, therefore I am at the mercy of the Honorable Court.

It is my intention when I get out of prison to pay back all as soon as possible. Please excuse pencil as I had no pen.

Very Respectfully,
JAMES MORGAN.
