GENERAL NEWS.

A Murderer Taken from the Jail and Hanged by a Mob.

SEVEN DEATHS FROM STROKE

Formal Opening of the Australian Centennial Exhibition—A Steamship Lost—The Crew Rescued.

The Herald's Special Dispatches.
CARTHAGE, (Tenn.), Aug. 1.—Last night fifty armed men visited the jail here and took out O. H. Handy, who, on September 17th last, killed J. B. Warman, a deputy sheriff. Handy was to have been tried to-day. The sheriff refusing to give up the keys, the mob with axes and crowbars broke into Handy's cell. The murderer was carried across the river and hanged to a tree in sight of the jail.

CONNECTICUT PROHIBITIONISTS.
First Meeting of the State Convention—A Fiery Speech.

HARTFORD, Aug. 1.—The state prohibition convention held its first session to-day. Rev. C. E. Borthing was elected chairman. In his address he said he was confident that the prohibitory amendment never be enforced. It was of no use to attempt a reform of the old parties. The prohibition party has now taken its position on solid ground and will name no compromise. He was heartily applauded.

OUT OF THE WELL.
Rescue of the Man Who Was Buried Alive in Nebraska

OMAHA, July 28.—John Anderson, who has been imprisoned in a well at Johnston, Neb., was rescued this morning after several days of unceasing labor by his neighbors. Anderson showed the effects of his unfortunate accident, but did not look so emaciated as was expected. So intense has been the excitement and sympathy for the unfortunate man that business of all kinds has been suspended for the past few days, farmers and merchants alike going to the scene and rendering assistance. The release was effected by lowering a box 18 inches long and 10x12 inches square, into which Anderson crawled and was raised by means of a rope. He is in the care of a physician, who has hopes of his complete recovery.

Bones of a Mastodon.
New York Sun.
 The bones of another mastodon have just been unearthed in Nebraska. Only fifteen years ago scientific men were suggesting that the famous elephant mound of Wisconsin was good evidence that the mastodon and the mound-builders were contemporaries. It was discovered later that the animal's trunk was merely a sandhill piled up by the wind, and the mound no longer figures in books as having anything to do with elephants. It has been left to American archaeology, however, to prove that man is at least as old as the mastodon, for in this country alone have the remains of mastodons been found that are incontrovertibly more recent than those of man. One mastodon unearthed in Missouri was undoubtedly killed by primitive hunters, and some of the weapons used were found among the bones of the victim.

A Living Barometer.
Frankfort, Pa., has what might be called a living barometer in the shape of a live tree hog. The little fellow dwells in a glass jar, two-thirds filled with water, that stands on a shelf in the bar of a hotel. Inside the jar is a little ladder of ingenious construction.

Honesty is the best policy. Next to it is an accident policy in the Travelers.

When the weather is dry and fair the little fellow crawls up the ladder and gazes pensively at the barroom loungers, but when his intuitive powers tell him that a rainstorm is coming he dives to the bottom of the jar, and stays there till the sun shines again. His movements are made twenty-four hours in advance of the change in the weather, and he is considered an unerring barometer.

HINTS FOR YOUNG HOUSEWIVES.

Glycerine does not agree with a dry skin.

When you give your cellar its cleaning, add a little copperas water and salt to the whitewash.

A little ammonia and borax in the water when washing blankets keeps them soft and prevents shrinkage.

Sprinkling salt on the top and at the bottom of garden walls is said to keep snails from climbing up or down.

For relief from heartburn or dyspepsia drink a little cold water in which has been dissolved a teaspoonful of salt.

For hoarseness, beat a fresh egg and thicken it with white sugar. Eat of it freely and the hoarseness will soon be relieved.

If quilts are folded or rolled tightly after washing, then beaten with a rolling pin or potato masher, it lightens up the cotton and makes them seem soft and new.

Chemists say that it takes more than twice as much sugar to sweeten preserves, sauce etc., if put in when they begin to cook as it does to sweeten after the fruit is cooked.

Tar may be removed from the hands by rubbing with the outside of fresh orange or lemon peeling and drying immediately. The volatile oils dissolve the tar so that it can be rubbed off.

Moths or any Summer flying insects may be enticed to destruction by a bright tin pan half filled with kerosene, set in a dark corner of the room. Attracted by the bright pan, the moth will meet his death in the kerosene.

It may be worth knowing that water in which three or four onions have been boiled, applied with a gliding brush to the frames of pictures and chimney glasses, will prevent flies from lighting on them and will not injure the frames.

Ingrain carpets, worn beyond repair, should be cut in lengthwise strips and woven the same as a rag carpet. It is unnecessary to sew the ingrain cuttings, weavers generally preferring to overlap the strips as they weave. Mats and carpets assume quite a Persian look when made in this way, and are durable.

Two Ways. Choose Which!

There are two ways of doing what Nature sometimes does incompletely, namely, to relieve the bowels. One is to swallow a drastic purgative which evacuates profusely, abruptly and with pain, the other is to take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the effect of which is not violent, but sufficiently thorough, and which does not grip the intestines. If the first is selected, the person employing it need not expect permanent benefit, and he cannot hope to escape the debilitating reaction which leaves the organs as bad or worse off than before. If, on the other hand, he resorts to the Bitters, he can rely upon the restoration of a regular habit of body, consequent upon a renewal of a healthy tone in the intestinal canal. Besides healthfully relaxing the bowels, the Bitters arouses a dormant liver, imparts a beneficial impetus to the action of the kidneys, and counteracts the early twinges of rheumatism, a tendency to gout, and malaria in all its forms.

OREGON.

Some Interesting Facts for Immigrants and Others.

Oregon contains an area of 96,000 square miles.
 Oregon is the richest in natural resources of any state in the Union.
 Oregon produces the finest grain in the world and the greatest yield per acre. Her wheat is universal in size and flour producing capabilities. Her oats are without a peer in the world; her barley and rye are beyond comparison.
 Oregon is the greatest grass country in the world. The variety and luxuriance of her native grasses are simply unapproachable, while her timothy, clover alfalfa cannot be equaled.
 Oregon is the greatest natural stock raising and dairying country on the globe.
 Oregon is the greatest fruit country on earth.
 Oregon is the natural home of flax and flax seed.
 Oregon produces hops equal to the best grown in the world.
 Oregon produces 40 bushels of wheat to the acre.
 Oregon produced 15,000,000 pounds of wool during the year ending July 1, 1887.
 Oregon grows corn, sugar-cane and broom-corn rivaling any produced in the United States, while experts declare that Oregon tobacco is fully equal to the best Virginia.

Oregon is the most healthful state in the Union. This is proven by Official Government records. The following mortality table is taken from the Tenth Census of the United States and gives the death rate per thousand:
 For the state of Oregon, 10.9
 " Iowa, 11.3
 " California, 13.3
 " Alabama, 14.2
 " Tennessee, 16.2
 " Minnesota, 15.5
 And following the calculation out for all the States in the Union it will be found that the death rate in Oregon is less than any other state.
 Oregon has the most delightful climate in the world—no extreme heat in the summer; no excessive cold in the winter. No cyclones, no blizzards, no fierce floods, no thunder storms. The thermometer seldom gets above 80 degrees in the summer, or below the freezing point in winter.
 Oregon has an annual rainfall ample to insure crops. It has passed into a maxim that "crops never fail in Oregon."
 Oregon never had a drought.
 Oregon encloses the garden spot of the world. The Willamette valley is simply unapproachable for productiveness and fertility of its soil. The soil of this valley never wears out.
 Oregon is a wonderful region of productiveness and healthfulness. It rivals any part of California in equality of climate. It outranks any portion of California in fruit production.
 Oregon is the great stock, wool and wheat growing section of the coast. Stock can graze nearly all winter.
 Oregon has the grandest water ways on the coast. The Columbia river, the third in size in the United States, bounds it on the north. Every portion of the state is ramified by streams of abundant water flow. While Yaquina on the west offers waterway rapidly growing in importance.
 Oregon has the greatest water power in the world.
 Oregon has more available water power than all New England and Minnesota, and greater than other parts of the Pacific coast combined. The water power at Oregon City, south of Portland is three times larger than that of Minneapolis and five times larger than that of Lowell. Portland and her suburbs can supply 8,000 factories with 40 h. p. water power each. New manufactures are guaranteed water at Oregon City for ten years free of charge.
 Oregon has the most attractive and grandest scenery in the world. Tourists unite in pronouncing the Columbia river the most wonderful scenic river on the earth. The landscape view from the hills of Portland Heights is unequalled in the known world.
 Oregon offers cheap lands, and her products are abundant and unailing.
