Wholesale Arrest of Spectators at a Prize Fight in N. Y.

BLOODY RIOT IN THE SOUTH.

More Than Twenty Men Shot Down by Order Men—Sugar Begins to Decline in San Francisco—Old World Notes.

The Human's Special Disgraces.

New York, Aug. 18.—The officers of the steamboat patrol ran alongside a large tug at 5 o'clock this morning and arrested 105 persons, who were witnesses to the prize fight between LaBlanche, the Marine, and John Varley, middle weight champion of England. The fight had just ended in Varley being knocked out at the end of the third round, which occupied eight minutes. Among the persons arrested were Jack Dempsey and Jack Fenton, prize fighters, Snapper Garrison, Jack McAuliffe, Frank Farrel, and a number of special reporters. Jack Dempsey hurriedly tried to disguise himself as a fireman of the boat. LaBlanche and Varley were arraigned in the upper police court and held to bail. The others were discharged. Varley is pretty badly used up. Both of his eyes are closed and his lips are cut. LaBlanche escaped almost unscathed, but his hands were badly swollen. The corridors are filled up with prisoners. The fight was according to Queensberry rules. At twenty minutes past five time was called and the men began to battle. From the start the Marine began rushing tactics, for which he is famous. They had no sooner fairly exchanged blows than he shot his left on Varley's right eye, cutting the skin. He followed this up with another right and left in quick succession. It was evident from the start that the Englishman was over-matched.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18.—Reports from Freezone indicate that more than 20 men were killed by the regulators, and several others severely wounded.

AN OUTLAW CAPTURED.

MONTREAL, Aug. 18.—Alexander H. Caza, a wealthy cowboy murderer of Hotel-keeper Oillon at Citeau Landing, was captured this morning at Beaudette river. He only surrendered because the officers had him covered with rifles.

The High Price Begins to Drop in San Francisco Markets.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Refined sugar declined one-eighth of a cent to-day, making the price of granulated sugar seven and a quarter cents. This is the first change since August 9th.

FERRY BOULANGER.

One of His Supporters Attempts to Shoot a Magistrate.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—Owing to the riotous demonstrations at Morenil last night Boulanger returned immediately to Amiens. At Carthage one of Boulanger's supporters tried to shoot a magistrate.

HUMOROUS DRIFT.

The circus is coming, tra la, tra la. The clown with his chestnuts, tra la, tra la. The great gas cuts, The crowd, the whole, And the orphans who stand on his tail.

When a disease spreads it is contracted on all sides. Can a pair of docs explain this?

Hens do not live to be old for the reason that they are killed and sold for spring chickens as soon as they lose their teeth.

"Can a young man marry comfortable on $500 a year?" asked a correspondent. Yes, he can, but he will be deuced uncomfortable afterward.

"How do you think Thurman will run?" asked a politician of a baseball enthusiast. "Thurman?" said the latter. "Which nine has he signed with?"

It is said that kissing was introduced into England by Rowena. There are lots of fellows who would like to subscribe $5 for a monument to Rowena.

A New York sign reads: "Women treated for ugliness." Only one female has been enticed by it yet, and she was laboring under the impression that she would be treated to ice-cream.

Papa (hotly)—I tell you, Esther, you shall not marry that cad of a Holoiey as long as I live. Esther—Don't worry, papa, Sigmund has often told me he couldn't afford to marry until your estate is settled.

She—What a frigid, tall creature Miss Cantatrice is. He—I agree with you, but what is that high note she is on now? She—I'm sure I don't recognize it. Perhaps it may be a new one—Polar C, for instance.

Mrs. Kendrick (whose husband is a candidate for office)—What do you think my husband's chances are. Mr. Dumley? Mr. Dumley (anxious to offer words of encouragement)—Well—er—away from home I think they're flattering.

Fond papa (to daughter)—And so you think you must learn French, Clara? I taught—Yes, papa, in fashionable society there are so many things one can say in French that wouldn't sound well in English, you know. Fond papa.—H—m!

Lavinia Hart, a perambulating book agent hailing from Wilkesbarre, is credited with having fourteen husbands. We have heard of "two hearts that beat as one," but Lavinia appears to be a Hart that beats more than a baker's dozen.

Copy-reader (to editor)—Here is a story, sir, the dialect of which is most peculiar. I can't make it out. Editor (looking over manuscript)—H—m, yes, this is written in a dialect that was popular some years ago. It was known as "good old Saxon." It's no use to us now.

"Can't you spare me a little money, papa?" "How much, dear?" "Well, I want to buy enough material to make one of the new-fashioned bathing suits." "How much is the stuff a yard?" "Three dollars." "All right, my dear, get what you want. Here is half a dollar."

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

Drink, to Please Mr.

VARINA JACKSON.

The day had been most beautiful; now that the evening had closed in, it seemed more lovely than ever; the moon had risen and all nature was dressed to splendor. The Grays' cottage was brilliantly lighted and draped for the bridal party. In one parlor sat Ella Gray and Frank Baker, who were soon to take the marriage vow, while the other parlor was filled with invited guests and the generous supply of wedding presents.

At last the folding doors were thrown open, the minister took his place, and, with a few brief words and promises to love and honor, Ella Gray and Frank Baker stood before the company as husband and wife. After the congratulations, they all repaired to the dining room, where supper was served. As the wine was passed around, Frank pushed his glass to one side without tasting it.

"Won't you drink your wine, Frank?"

"No, I would rather not."

"Please do, just this one glass, the rest I'll drink theirs."

"No, Ella, that was mother's dying request that I should never taste any intoxicating drinks."

"And you promised?"

"Yes; just as she was dying, I made her this promise, and I do not wish to break it now."

"But just one glass can certainly do no harm; take it please me."

The pleading looks of his young bride touched him, and he took the glass; raised it to his lips, then set it down without tasting, and turned away.

Without a word he took the glass and would have drunk, but just as he was putting the wine to his lips, old Uncle Henry arose from his seat and cried, "Stop!" all eyes were turned toward him.

"Please, Frank, let me tell you my wife's story before you take your wine; then see if Ella will urge you to drink. It was once a clerk in an extensive drug store with a large salary, bright prospects, and a heart light and free as the wind that blows; I thought I was and ever would be the happiest man alive. But what crushed my spirits, blighted my fairest hopes and dragged me down to what I now am—a poor, miserable broken old man.

"What was it? shall I tell you? It was a glass of wine handed round at a bridal party, handed to me by the girl I loved, and she was once my wife. 'Drink, Henry, to please me,' was her smiling request, and I drank; I could not resist the pleading look and words our drink the wine to its dregs, and from that moment I have been a ruined man. And not my life alone, but the life of the girl I married was made miserable by that one glass of wine. 'Drink, Henry, to please me,' is what brought me to this, is what blighted my life for all time to come. 'Drink, Henry, to please me,' is what blasted my wife's brightest hopes, is what broke her heart and dragged her down to an early grave. 'Drink, Henry, to please me,' is what did all this. Now, Ella, will you urge Frank to take his wine? Think of your happiness and his in the time that is to come, and never forget what harm a single glass of wine may do."

By the time Uncle Henry had finished speaking all eyes were wet with tears, and Ella was sobbing like a child; but when she could command her voice so as to speak she promised that she would never ask Frank to drink another glass of wine, and she ever after kept her word. The wine was taken from the table, and she never set it before her guests again.

THE MOST DIFFICULT PART.

Aspirant—About how long does it take to complete a short novel? Old Hand—About a year.

Aspirant—A year! Isn't that rather long? Old Hand—Oh, no. Two months to write the novel and ten months to select the name.

FEATHERLY (making a call)—I suppose you will soon be going into the country, Mrs. Hendricks? Mrs. Hendricks—Yes; we leave for the Catskills next week. Mr. Hendricks will come up once a month for a day or so. Featherly—Yes; I heard him say that he was looking forward to a pleasant summer.

DEPARTING GUEST (to summer resort landlord)—I've paid high prices for everything I've had, Mr. Squeezum, and I haven't grumbled. Don't you ever set 'em up? Landlord—Certainly; we make a specialty of liberality. (To clerk.) Mauton, kindly give this gentleman a few of our circulars.
