A SAD CASE.

An Aged Woman Found in a Pitiable Condition at Her Home on Railroad Street.

Mrs. Hutchins, an aged widow lady, has been living alone in the eastern portion of the city for some time. Yesterday morning a friend who happened to call at her home on Railroad street found the door locked, and could discern no signs of life. Assistance was called and entrance effected by opening a window. It was found that the unfortunate old lady had fallen from the bed, breaking her hip and rendering her recovery, in her enfeebled condition, very doubtful. Medical assistance was called, and she was rendered as comfortable as possible. Mrs. Hutchins has a claim to some property, but has little means of support. Her husband died a county charge some time ago.

The neighbors and friends had endeavored to do everything possible to make her comfortable and keep her surroundings clean, but the enfeebled old lady refused to accept such acts of kindness, and her surroundings have not been as sanitary as might be desired. They have now, however, taken the matter in charge and will see that she is properly cared for.

John and Jonathan.

At a meeting of the W. C. T. U. of this city held on Tuesday last the ladies decided to have Dr. Nourse, of Washington, D. C., give one of his popular lectures in Albany, on Friday of this week, the 28th inst. In bringing this lecturer to this city the ladies of the Union do not expect to discharge the debt upon the hall by the lecture of one evening, but they expect and feel sure of giving the citizens of Albany a few treat. Portland people were delighted with Dr. Nourse, and the Eastern press shower compliments upon him. In 1886 the reporters said that the most brilliant and witty lecture delivered at Chautauqua was by Robert Nourse. The lecture to be delivered here is "John and Jonathan," the most taking of his course. The following is one of the many compliments received: "After listening to many of the lecture courses of the city of Boston and other cities, it is considerable to say of Mr. Nourse, yet I can say in all truth, that Mr. Nourse's lecture pleased and instructed me more than any other I ever had the pleasure of listening to in my life. The people are clamorous to hear him again, and I have engaged him for two more lectures."—Isaiah Bray, General Secretary Y. M. C. A., Oakland, Cal.

The St. Charles Hotel Opened.

It was announced that the St. Charles hotel would be opened to the public on Monday, but the work of refitting and furnishing the house having been completed earlier than was expected, it was thrown open last night. The elegant manner in which the hotel has been refitted and the modern improvements and conveniences which have been added to it, have been referred to by the HERALD. Mr. Earl Race, the proprietor, is a thorough hotel man, and proposes to run a first-class house. An elegant bus has been secured, which made its first trip to the depot last night. The hotel is complete in all its apartments, as will be seen by the many who will visit it to-day.

Fine Oregon Peaches.

T. H. Cone returned yesterday from Ashtand. He brought back some very fine peaches raised by S. Sackett of that place. One of them measured 12 inches in circumference. They were placed on exhibition at the First National Bank. Mr. Cone states that peaches from Ashtand are being shipped to California, Montana and in fact all over the Northwest. Oregon, it has been discovered, can raise as fine peaches as any country.

The Willamette at Corvallis.

Recently the readers of the HERALD will remember Senator Dolph presented to the secretary of war a petition of the citizens of Corvallis and vicinity, praying for an order for the expenditure of so much of the appropriation for the purpose as is necessary to reach the Willamette river above Corvallis to prevent the threatened cut off. The chief of engineers has approved the project for such improvement and directed the commencement of work.

In the 2:35 trot at Salem Friday Oneco, owned by McKnight Bros. of this city, did his owners credit by winning the race over Maud Knox and two other flyers, the time being 2:34, 2:34 1/2 and 2:36. GENERAL NEWS.

A Small But Growing Canadian War Speck.

THE YELLOW FEVER SOURCE.

News from East of the Rockies and from the Old World—Other Newsy Notes.

The Herald's Special Despatches.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—A special from Ottawa, Ontario, says that a matter which may strongly tend to strengthen the already strained relations between the Dominion and the United States has presented itself in connection with the limits of jurisdiction at points adjacent to the boundary line between Alaska and British Columbia. The result of recent investigations reported to the government here show that valuable gold fields which have been discovered, and which are now being worked, on the Yukon river, are in British and not United States territory, as has been supposed. The gold fields are represented to be of great value.

IS IT A TRICK.

A Lawyer of Indianapolis is Accused of a Bold Land Scheme.

BISMARCK (Dak.), Sept. 22.—G. W. Smith, lawyer of Indianapolis, has offered to record a quit claim deed from Oscar Swanson, of Livingston, Montana, to Wm. Sweet for a quarter section of the town of Bismarck, or what might be called the east half of town. The consideration is only $2000. The instrument purports to be the reconfirmation of a sale made by Swanson on March 13, 1872. The register of deeds refuses to record the deed, on the ground that it is a bold attempt to cloud the title of five or six hundred thousand dollars worth of property, including half of the court house ground on Bailey avenue.

REFUGEES ARRESTED.

Two Men from the Yellow Fever District Placed in Confinement.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Two refugees from the quarantine camp in Florida were arrested to-day by the health officers of the city and taken to North Brothers Island, where they are kept close prisoners. The refugees came from an infected city, said to be Jacksonville. They had agreed voluntarily to undergo a ten days' quarantine before continuing their journey. They broke the parole and came through by rail. The health authorities here are in close telegraphic communication with the infected districts and will arrest all who are found violating the parole.

REPUBLICANS IN COUNCIL.

E. S. Senators Hold a Caucus and Mature Their Plans.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The republican senators held a caucus from 10 A. M. to 2:30 P. M. to-day, about which they are more than ordinarily reticent. It is given out that the territorial bills will be restored to the head of the calendar for immediate consideration after the appropriation bills are disposed of, and Senator Sherman's trust bill is to follow. It is also said on good authority that the tariff adjustment question and everything else in the range of immediate legislation will probably be discharged and no decision will be reached.

A Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the throat and lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing consumption and to the head, causing catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your throat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a tin of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

EARLY DAYS IN OREGON.

A Neat Romance of "Sis" Waldo by Oregon's Bard, Joaquin Miller.

Joaquin Miller, on a recent article on the early days in Oregon, in the New York Independent, says: I remember one "Sis" Waldo, the belle—I think I may write of her now, since I am told that she and all her bright little circle have crossed to the other side of darkness—who claimed that she could outlive any man living. And so by and by it somehow came to be whispered about and understood that should marry the man who would keep up with her, or rather, ride at her side from the camp grounds to her father's side home, some fifteen miles away. She was an heiress, had splendid horses, and daily rode to and fro from the camp grounds all alone. The story that she would marry the man who could catch her kept widening and crystallizing till it became the current talk of Oregon and Northern California. Suddenly on one fine summer, a handsome, dashing young Californian from the mines who had loads of gold, laid his plans and came early on the ground with a gallant mount determined to carry off the prize or perish. Interests became intensely heightened in the affair when it became whispered abroad that Miss Waldo was not indifferent to the suit of the ardent and dashing young miner from California. The swiftest animal in his mount of four fine horses was a trim-limbed little Morgan mare, with a brown nose and three white feet. I remember seeing one of the Oregon preachers—a splendid judge of horse flesh he was, too, as were all Oregonians—shake his head sagely as he saw these three white feet one day; and he lifted his nose as he looked at the Californian. He clearly did not like the little brown nosed Morgan mare with the three white feet nor the Californian either.

Suddenly one afternoon as they were singing the final hymn, and "Sis" Waldo stood on the edge of the outer row of the crowd with her gathered riding skirt in one hand and hymn book in the other, there was a commotion. The little Morgan mare, led by the Californian black boy, came prancing under the trees not forty feet from where Miss Waldo's groom stood holding her horse, and ready for immediate use. The crowd began to drift and tilt over to that side. The preachers sang their loudest; their high nasal notes fairly made the maple leaves quiver overhead. But still the pious people had a neck, and one pair of eyes now. At last the same old preacher who did not like the three white feet slipped his hymn book back in his pocket, and still singing with all his might, slid down out of the pulpit behind the other preachers, and slowly but surely tilted over on the edge of the crowd close to the little Morgan mare with the white feet. Don't blame him! We did love horses so in Oregon in those days. And bear in mind we had but little other diversion.

As the last loud notes of "Greenland's icy mountains," died away amid the hissing leaves overhead, there was a leap and a spring for high benches. Hundreds of young horsemen were determined to be in the field! There was going to be such a chase and such a race over the open and rolling Waldo hills as the world never witnessed. But the beautiful and audacious little lady seemed to be in no great haste. She walked slowly up to her horse, stood still a moment, then handed the boy who held her horse not only her hymn book, but her little rawhide whip also. The old preacher who did not put faith in the three white feet of the Morgan mare, now put on a very queer and derisive smile, and, taking his long underlip sideways between his thumb and finger, he jerked at it viciously, as he seemed to say to himself: "Zounds! she wants to be caught."

How she got on the horse I don't know. But she was on and she was gone while I was looking at that preacher pulling his big underlip. And the Californian was not forty feet behind her when I first turned to look.

Oh, the impetuous young people that came pouring out of the woods and after them! Horses, footmen, ladies, all mixed up together; young men and old men, preachers that pretended not to care a copper, all struggling out to get a front view from the little hill-top that had now shot up between the lady and her lover and the hundreds of horsemen that followed.

And did he catch her and keep up with her? Win her and wed her? As a truthful chronicler I can only say that he did not wed her. Reports said that he once, during the desperate ride, came alongside of her, but that she left him instantly and for good, and that when she reached her father's home he was not even in sight of her. I have been told by one who claims to know, that the lover had been drinking some in order to nerve himself for the hot work before him; that although she was at first disposed not to escape him, yet when he came very near her she knew that all was not right; and so she left the three white feet and the Californian behind her in a flash and forever.

An Explanation. What is this "nervous trouble" with which so many are now afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago the word Malaria was comparatively unknown—to-day it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous diseases, as they and Malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called Biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the Liver which in performing its functions, finding it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel is compelled to pass it off through the system, causing nervous troubles, Malaria, Bilious Fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend Green's August Flower. Its cures are marvelous.

We Can and Do Guarantee Acker's Blood Elixir for it has been fully demonstrated to the people of this country that it is superior to all other preparations for blood diseases. It is a positive cure for syphilitic poisoning, ulcers, eruptions and pimples. It purifies the whole system and thoroughly builds up the constitution. Smoke Estrellas.
