POLITICAL POINTS.

It is, unfortunately, too true that free trade principles have not yet taken a firm hold of the masses of the American people.—Scotsman, September 11th.

The able-bodied Democratic editors seem to be getting worked up to fever heat over their inability to attack Harrison; and they are consequently pitching into R. B. Hayes, Eliza Finkston, J. B. Foraker and James G. Blaine with great violence.—Pittsburg Dispatch

The proper way to prevent the tariff from becoming a burden instead of a benefit is not to abolish it altogether, but to keep it closely adjusted to the conditions of trade. We know that these conditions change continually, and therefore the equity and the force of the statement of Mr. Harrison in his letter of acceptance: "We do not offer a fixed schedule, but a principle."—Minneapolis Journal.

We find the following dispatch in the Times this morning: "Warsaw (N. Y.), September 20.—There is a strong evidence that considerable trading is to be done November 6th by the Hill men in the wet districts of this country. Already the reports come in to Democratic leaders. A wealthy and very candid citizen of the town of Java, a strong Irish burgh, stated to-day that he had heard a number of such offers by Democrats."—New York Evening Post.

General Harrison bids fair to beat the record in speech-making. Four speeches in one day is his latest achievement. He does not weary people by their length, yet he manages to cover the ground pretty well in these efforts. It is a severe strain upon a man to keep him constantly talking, but the General's friends appear to feel that he can be trusted not to make any mistakes, and the candidate exhibits a confidence in himself that is assuring.—Boston Herald.

That exquisite line of satins in our show window will be run close this week. Have no excuse for not getting in on them. Montith & Seitenach.
