Then I came near relapsing into delirium again, but I kept repeating to myself, 'Pearl, you must get well! Harry needs you,' and after a long time-I have no idea how long it really was-I heard the doctor say, 'she is better, she may live.' And

"No, no, captain. I do not wish to misjudge any one, especially and after the short black waiking one who has been kind to me in an hour of trouble. The lieutenant will explain. There has been some mistake that is all. Now let us talk of yourself captain; for I must go soon. What do you intend to do? They will not keep you here for long will they? "Now don't you worry about me Pearl; I don't mind it a bit; I would do twice this much for Harry just for your sake.
