HAVE YOU A COLD in the head which does not get better? Have you an excessive secretion of mucus or matter in the nasal passages which either must be blown from the nose or drop back behind the palate, or hawked or snuffed backward to the throat? Are you troubled by hawking, spitting, weak and inflamed eyes, frequent soreness of the throat, ringing or roaring in the ears, more or less impairment of the hearing, loss of smell, memory impaired, dullness or dizziness of the head, dryness or heat of nose? Have you lost all sense of smell? Have you a hacking cough? Have you dyspepsia? Is your breath foul? If so you have the CATARRH. Some have all these symptoms, others only a part. The leading symptom of ordinary catarrh is increased secretion of mucus or yellow or greenish colored matter. Foul breath is caused by the decomposition of secretions exuded from festering ulcers far back in the head; sometimes the membrane covering the bones is eaten away and the bones themselves gradually decay. Such cases are indeed objects of pity, as stench from corroding sores reveal the corruption within. As every breath drawn into the lungs must pass over and become polluted by the relief given in the nasal passages, it must necessarily follow that poisoning of the whole system gradually takes place, while the morbid matter that is swallowed enters the stomach, enfleches digestion, and often produces constipation, nervousness and consumption.

DO NOT PROCRASTINATE.

If you have experienced any of the above symptoms do not delay, but try CALIFORNIA CATARRH at once. We positively warrant you a few applications will relieve you and a thorough treatment to cure. Six months treatment for $1.00; sent by mail.

All are Americans. They are accused of defrauding the company. Mammoth Japanese Crab.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
The greatest marine curiosity of Erosshima waters is the giant crab that trundles along a body as large as a turtle's and sweeps out claws that measure ten feet from tip to tip. Formerly the fisherman threw these creatures back into the sea where they found their nets tangled up with them, but of recent years they clean the shells and sell them for foreign museums.

The giant crabs are said to promenade the beach at night, and one version gives them phosphorescent eyes. If imagination cannot supply a picture of these crabs on the beach, it is all detailed in "Ailan Quatermain." Rider Haggard in his careful owing up to where he found the original of the remarkable things in that book, owns to have read somewhere about those horrible crabs, and so borrowed them to put in the canyon into which his canoe load of heroes emerged after their underground baptism of fire. These crabs and the six foot cucumber are the few things in nature in Japan that are enlarged.

A Beautiful Shade Tree.
Those who are preparing to plant shade trees should give their attention to the umbrella. It is the handsomest ornamental shade tree that can be planted and is well suited to this locality. With little care it can be grown from cuttings. It is a rapid grower, the limbs branching like an umbrella producing a symmetrical head and making a dense shade. This tree was introduced a few years ago in many places in the San Joaquin Valley and there are many avenues of the tree in that locality now. They are especially suited to dry climates. A number have been set out about Orleans and have made a wonderful growth.—Orleans News.

Coreless Apples.
Horticulturists are now endeavoring to breed out the troublesome core from apples. We quote from the New York Tribune: "Two case lately put on record of seed less sorts of apple—one of them represented as a large and good winter variety—come directly in class with Professor Claypole's proposition to breed out the troublesome core from the best fruits. It is worthy of attention, especially as the trees are much more exhausted by the production of seeds than by that of their development, and usually the more seeds the less of the eatable pulp and the harsher its quality."

National Surgical Institute.
Two or more surgeons representing this institute will be at the Revere House, Albany Nov. 6th, or at the St. Charles hotel Lebanon Nov. 7th, 1888. They come fully prepared with all the apparatus necessary for the successful treatment of their specialties, curvature of the spine, disease of the hip and knee joint, crooked limbs, club feet and all bodily deformities. Their success in treating these troubles as well as all chronic and sexual diseases has made for the institute a national reputation. Upon application, references will be furnished from patients in all parts of the United States. All persons who are suffering from any of these complaints, should not fail to take advantage of this opportunity for relief.

A Warning.
The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the throat and lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing consumption and to the head, causing catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the outset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your throat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

Guard Against The Strike.
Always have a bottle of Acker's English Remedy in the house. You cannot tell how soon Croup may strike your little one, or a cold or cough may fasten itself upon you. One dose is a preventive and a few doses a positive cure. All Throat and Lung troubles yield to its treatment. The Remedy guaranteed by Foshay & Mason.

Discoveries More Valuable Than Gold.

They are sold at $1 per package, or three for $2.50, and are recommended and used by the leading physicians of the Pacific Coast. No secret compounds. Guaranteed by Foshay & Mason.

PACIFIC COAST CROPS.

A Pessimistic Report Furnished to the Government.
WASHINGTON, October 20.—The monthly report of the Commissioner of Agriculture states in reference to California that "the wheat crop has turned out much better in thrashing than was expected at harvest time, and the grain is of fine quality."

The grape crop which promised such a fine yield, has been damaged by the terrible hot spell in August and the first part of September, which literally burned the fruits on the vines, until all the circulation seemed to be stopped. There seems to be a general deficiency in sugar, especially in the Zinfandel, our leading claret grape, which is deficient also in color. It is feared that the crop will be below the average both in quality and quantity.

"On the Pacific coast the wheat crop was, relatively, a small one. The yield in California is higher than it would be but for the fact that more of the poorest was cut for hay than usual. This practice ever in vogue on the coast, from the Dominion to the Mexican line renders the investigation of the harvest aggregate a complicated one, requiring time and inquiry to settle. In Oregon there is much complaint of a reduction of the yield from early freezing, rain in June, hot weather in July, and rust and blight, yet in Washington county an average yield of twenty bushels per acre is claimed. The contrast of the Washington Territory returns is indicated by two samples: Island county—Large crop, some fields averaging fifty-five bushels per acre. Asotin county—The average yield of wheat is low for what was harvested. A great portion was cut for hay. Some was an entire failure, owing to heat and hot winds in July. Late sown and poorly cultivated fields were injured from this cause."

CANNIBAL COOKERY.
Fine Roast Joints of Boy—Cooking of a Beautiful Girl.

A friend of the writer, who for more than forty years had been in the employment of the German Government, bears personal witness to the prevalence of this custom in Sumatra up to the recent times. He was making scientific investigations in the interior of that island, and was being entertained in the most hospitable manner by the native Rajah, or chief, of the place he was then in. A feast had been made to which he went, taking his own native servant with him.

The banquet had proceeded for some time without any interruption, when at last, as crown of the feast, a beautiful brown roast joint was brought from the back of the house to the open airy place where the repast was being held. This was cut up without remark and handed around, and the Dutch gentleman was on the point of eating his portion, having raised part of it to his lips, when his servant rushed forward and stopped him saying: "Master, master, do not eat; it is a boy." The chief, on being questioned, admitted, with no small pride at the extent of his hospitality, that hearing that the white man would feast with him, he had ordered a young boy to be killed and cooked in his honor, as the greatest delicacy obtainable, and that the joint before them was the best part, the thigh.

Early travelers in New Zealand always express astonishment when they discover the cannibal propensities of the inhabitants, that so gentle and pleasant-mannered a people could become, on occasions, such ferocious savages. Earle who wrote a very readable, intelligent and but little known account of the Maoris very early in the present century, speaks of the gentle manners and kindly ways of a New Zealand chief, whom afterward he discovered to be an inveterate cannibal. He relates that he visited the place where was cooking the body of a young slave girl that his friend had killed for the purpose. The head was severed from the body; the four quarters, with the principal bones removed, were compressed and packed into a small oven in the ground and covered with earth. It was a case of unjustifiable cannibalism. No revenge was gratified by the deed and no excuse could be made that the body was eaten to perfect their triumph. Earle says that he learned that the flesh takes many hours to cook, that it is very tough if not thoroughly cooked, but that it pulls to pieces like a piece of blotting paper if not very well done. He continues that the victim was a handsome, pleasant-looking girl of 16, and one he used to frequently see about the Pab.—Gentleman's Magazine.
