THE GROWTH OF PETROLEUM USE.

The wonderful strides with which coal oil, as it is commonly called, has made in the domestic economy of nations, are unexampled in all of the other productions of art and nature. It drives out nearly all other illuminating substances, as a general means of illumination throughout the country, besides the many other uses to which the crude article, petroleum, is put to. These facts make the future prominence of the article in the commerce of nations of paramount importance, and the control of it by our nation a desideratum. It may be of interest to know who are rivals in this great production. A gentleman in Paris who signs himself M. de Tchihatchief, whom it would probably be safe to take for a Russian, has a striking article on the sudden rise of Russia as a competitor of the United States in the production of kerosene. Such abatement may properly be made from his confident predictions on account of the unaccounted partisan bias with which he writes; and his figures leave something to be desired on the score of entire self-consistency and recentness, but what he has to say is nevertheless well worth the attention of our oil producers. He makes it evident, in the first place, that the only rival of the United States at present in sight is Russia. Following a late French estimate of the world's production of petroleum, putting the total at 100,000,000 hectoliters, it appears that the United States furnish 64,000,000, Russia 25,000,000, and all other countries only 11,000,000. In fact, while deposits of oil have been found in many parts of the earth—as in Burmah, China, Persia, Egypt, New Zealand, and most of the European countries—their extent is so limited and difficulty of operation so great that the race has narrowed down to the two contestants named. The principal oil fields of Russia are found within a limited territory. The famous wells are almost all situated in the peninsula of Aspheron, which runs out into the Caspian Sea at a point not far from the Southern Russian boundary. Baku is the port whence shipments are made. The great natural advantages of the Baku field are the compact territory to be worked, the small depth of the wells, and their great steadiness of flow. The whole area worked does not exceed 1,100 square miles. Set this over against the area estimated for the United States—571,240 square miles—and the richness of the Russian wells, which produce at least one-third as much as those of the United States, will be at once perceived. The depth of the wells runs from 120 to 540 feet. One famous well is but 33 feet deep, yet out of it the oil jets up to the height of 246 feet. M. de Tchihatchief asserts also that the average flow in the Baku region is 88,000 pounds per day, as against 25,300 in the United States.

THE CELEBRATION OF THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE ANARCHISTS' EXECUTION AT CHICAGO LAST SUNDAY, WAS A VERY tame affair and did not elicit the enthusiasm that the bomb throwers anticipated. That kind of business is not, and cannot be made part of the social system of the American people. It is inimical to the spirit of our institution and can never gain a foothold in American soil.
The Juvenile Opera company, which played in this city some months since, were pretty freely criticized at Helena, Montana, on the charge of getting up too pronounced flirtations with the girls of the troop and the men in the audience during the performance. Naughty girls to make eyes at innocent men.

Three horses were stolen Tuesday night from men living on the road from The Dalles to the Deschutes.
Lu Simpson of Brandon is building a sailing schooner to operate in Arctic waters. She will be ready for the sea by March 1.
A searching party left Tacoma Saturday for Green river to continue the search for Engineer Sypher. The man who was in the wreck, and who received serious injuries, is now able to walk about on crutches.
Engineer Theilston and his surveyors, according to the Astorian Transcript, are experiencing no difficulty in securing the right of way. The people of Clatsop plains will not throw a single obstacle in the way of the road, as it will not afford them means of transportation for their produce to Astoria, but will enhance the value of their land.
The Dalles has voted by a large majority in favor of water works. A meeting of the common council was held Thursday night, and it authorized Mayor Story to float $50,000 bonds at the lowest rate possible. Mr. Story left Friday to place the bonds on the market, which will be floated immediately. Property has already advanced.

Is Consumption Incurable?
Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was taken down with Abscess of Lungs, and physicians pronounced me an incurable consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, and am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine made."
Jesse Middlewert, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption I would have died of Lung Troubles. Was given up by the doctors. Am now in the best of health." Try it. Sold by Foshy & Mason.

I have received a new line in staple and fancy colors and will in the future carry a much larger assortment than formerly and sell them cheaper.
