The Herald's Special Dispatches.

New York, Nov. 30.—The Sun this morning prints an interview leading democrats of the Grand Army of the Republic in various parts of the country. In a review of these interviews the recent movement for the withdrawal of the democratic members of the Grand Army of the Republic on the ground that the organization is used to further the political ends of the republican party, seems to meet with but little sympathy outside of Indiana, where it began.

Proposed Railroad Trust.

New York, Nov. 30.—The Times says that Jay Gould and President Cable, of the Rock Island road had a prolonged conference yesterday in regard to the proposed railroad trust. Cable opposed it, believing that it would not work successfully. It is understood, however, that Gould made an impression on him, and it is believed that another conference, which has been arranged, will bring him around.

THE QUESTION OF ADMISSION.

Springer Now in Favor of Making a Veto of Necessity.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Congressman Springer, chairman of the committee on territories, has now made a new statement with regard to the admission of the territories. Dakota and Washington people here, who have watched Springer's action during the last three sessions of congress, smile at his apparent anxiety now to admit these territories. Comparatively speaking he has publicly stated that he wanted to admit the territories, he has in secret and in committee exerted all the force of his nature to detain their entrance into the Union as states. Following are his latest words: "We are going to try very hard to pass a bill admitting to the Union the territories of Washington, Montana, Dakota and New Mexico, and we shall certainly pass the Oklahoma bill at once. The next house will undoubtedly be republican by a small majority, and I suppose the republicans of both the house and the senate would have no objection to strengthening that majority. The admission of these territories would do that. The territories would be states in time to elect senators and representatives to the fifty-first congress. Montana, Washington, and Dakota are republican. The senate may insist on the division of Dakota, and such action would probably block matters for a while. I am in favor of any reasonable compromise."

SACKVILLE'S NEW POST.

He Will Be Given Charge of the Paris Legation.

WASHINGTON, November 30.—Rather an interesting piece of diplomatic gossip was heard here to-day. A gentleman, who is very well informed on all diplomatic matters, said to your correspondent: "Perhaps you are aware of the fact, but it is nevertheless true that Lord Sackville changed his plans and gave up his trip to Canada on account of orders from his home office. I have not seen any mention of the fact in the American press. The fact that the British Lordship has been ordered to Paris, where he will remain for two years as Charge d'Affaires of the British Legation. "The British Ambassador to Paris will be granted two years' leave of absence upon the arrival of Lord Sackville, and at the expiration of the two years the former British Minister to Washington will be regularly assigned to Paris. "This I learn from absolutely reliable sources, and I think that it is the true explanation of his Lordship's plans and is the reason why he hastened to Paris direct, instead of taking the trip through Canada, which he had contemplated."

IN MEMORY OF SHERIDAN.

The Monument That Will Be Erected Over His Tomb.

WASHINGTON, November 30.—Samuel Kitzen, the sculptor, is engaged upon a monument for the tomb of General Sheridan in the Arlington Cemetery. The monument is to be a monolith of granite with three sides entirely plain. Upon the fourth side, looking toward the city, is to be a portrait bust of General Sheridan in bas relief of bronze. The bust is to be surrounded by a wreath of laurel on one side representing victory and of palm on the other representing peace. Back of the bust is to be the General's headquarters flag.

THE TARIFF BILL.

Stands at the Head of the Senate's Unfinished Business.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—A Washington special to the Ledger says: There are indications that the senate will resume the consideration of the tariff bill within a few days after the re-assembling of congress. The bill stands at the head of the calendar as unfinished business.

SMALL-POX AT COLFAX.

The Disease Evidently Conveyed Through the Mails.

COLFAX, (W. T.), Nov. 29.—Deputy Postmaster C. O. Bravder was suddenly taken ill, and upon examination, his case was pronounced to be small-pox. It is evident the disease was conveyed here through the mails. The city has purchased a house and lot to be used as a pest house.

IPPED IN THE BUD.

Is it not better to nip Consumption the greatest scourge of humanity in the bud, than to try to stay its progress on the brink of the grave. A few doses of California's most useful production, will relieve, and a thorough treatment will cure. Nasal Catarrh, too often, the forerunner of consumption can be cured by California's Cat-R-Cure. These remedies are sold and fully warranted by Foshay & Mason.

A Child Killed.

Another child killed by the use of opiates given in the form of Soothing syrup. Why mothers give their children such deadly poison is surprising when they can relieve the child of its peculiar troubles by using Acker's Baby Soother. It contains no opium or morphine. Sold by Foshay & Mason.

Just received at W. F. Read's a full line of ladies' fine muslin underwear, also girls' white dresses and infants' slips. Call and see them.

NAVAL AFFAIRS.

The Secretary of the Navy Makes His Report.

UNITED STATES STANDS SECOND.

A Big Navy and Large Expense Coast Defense. Much More, But Where, Oh Where?

Special to the Herald.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Secretary Whitney has presented his annual report to the president. After giving a brief review of the committee of the navy, as it will exist on the 4th day of March, 1889, and comparing it with the same as it existed on the 4th day of March, 1885, and furnishing the list of armored vessels heretofore authorized by congress, the secretary says: "So far as armored vessels are concerned, the subject is to be treated in a broad way by the department and congress. At the present time conditions are such that everything necessary to first-class fighting ships can be produced and furnished to the department in this country as soon as in any other country, with a measure that is required, but this has never until the present time been possible, therefore consideration of the subject has been necessarily postponed by the department until the present time. Efforts of the department in ship construction have necessarily, since March, 1885, been devoted to unarmored vessels, and as to others the department is able to report that when ships in course of construction and those authorized shall have been completed, the United States will rank second among the nations in possession of unarmored cruisers or commerce destroyers having highest characteristics, viz: of size 3000 tons and upwards, and possessing speed of 19 knots and upwards." The secretary quotes authorities as to the value of this class of vessels. "We cannot at present protect our coasts, but we shall soon be in a condition to launch a fleet of large and fast cruisers against the commerce of the enemy, and be able to inflict most serious and lasting injury upon the navy in the last resort." With regard to production of power by turbines the report says: "The standard in 1885 was ten horse power to 1 ton of machinery. All contracts since then have been upon the highest standard, and at the present time the department has reached a point where entire reliance can be placed upon it for the production of war vessels of an equal character to those of any other country."

It is gratifying to be able to report.

"It is gratifying to be able to report," says the secretary, "that notwithstanding the large expenditures for the navy in the last three years, by reducing in other directions made, the total expenditures of the department for these years is less than for the three years ending June 30, 1884. The ordinary expenses of the department having been reduced over 20 per cent. The total expenditures of the department for the three years ending June 30, 1888, compared with three years ending June 30, 1885, were $47,979,597 and $46,830,630."

Under the head of coast and harbor defense vessels the secretary states:

"In the last annual report of the department considerations were given leading to the conclusion that it would be unwise for the department to follow the course of European powers in building unprotected torpedo boats, as in the present uncertainty regarding the practicability of submarine boats, and while awaiting the practical use of dynamite gun boats, it has been deemed wise for the department to build only light draught, heavily armored harbor defense floating battery of rams."

Oregonians Take Life Easy.

People from the eastern states, in speaking of Oregon, generally advance some peculiar thoughts. They say the citizens strike them favorably. A quiet, easy, contented cheerful disposition is characteristic of the people all over Oregon. They seem to have no cares, no bad digestion, no insomnia, no notes in bank, or indeed anything else calculated to disturb their peace of mind. They don't fret about the fickleness of the weather for the weather in Oregon is not fickle; they don't worry over the failure of the crops for the crops in Oregon never fail; the summer's heat don't trouble them for the summers in Oregon are not hot, only warm; the winter's cold don't freeze them for the winters there are not cold, only cool and moist. The cyclone and the blizzard are alike strangers in that land and the favored people only know of such phenomena of dame nature through the medium of the newspapers.

Another child killed by the use of opiates given in the form of Soothing syrup.

Why mothers give their children such deadly poison is surprising when they can relieve the child of its peculiar troubles by using Acker's Baby Soother. It contains no opium or morphine. Sold by Foshay & Mason.
