Messrs. Winn & Humphrey have opened a choice line of cigars at the Western Union telegraph and express office.

100 pair all No. 7, sample lot, of men's fine dress shoes at cost, ranging from $1.50 to $3.50 per pair at Wm. Simpson's.

Jim Westfall says he has lost $2500 on his Oregon Pacific contracts through the failure of J. R. Myers & Co.

Misses E. & C. Howard are now selling their fine stock of millinery at cost to reduce their stock. Call early and secure bargains.

Those desiring to take lessons in oil or water color painting should read the advertisement of Wm. Wright in this issue.

A merry party of New Year's serenaders has the thanks of the HERALD for a delightful remembrance in the wee sma' hours on New Year's night.

R. G. Patton, of Hanna City, Illinois, has located in this city. He is patentee of wheel harrows and thinks of establishing a factory for this business here.

Dr. W. H. Davis, one of Harrisburg's popular physicians, has removed to this city for the practice of his profession. He has rented rooms in Strahan's block.

J. S. Tucker has sold his interest in the grocery firm of Tucker & Barde of this city. The latter will continue the business and assume the liabilities of the firm.

The New Year's issue of the Salem Statesman is at hand. It is a carefully prepared 16-page edition. The Statesman is a newspaper which does credit to the capital city.

The mammoth New Year's issue of the Oregonian exhibits a growth in the city of Portland unsurpassed by any preceding year. The edition is exhaustive and complete and fully covers the wide field occupied by the Oregonian.

In our list of business and professional men of Albany in the issue of New Years, the name of Dr. D. M. Jones was accidentally omitted. As the doctor is one of the early physicians of the city the mistake should not have occurred and we hasten to correct it.

NEW YEAR'S BALL.

An impromptu but an elite and successful affair.

About noon yesterday several of the prominent citizens of the city concluded that a grand New Year's ball at the opera house would be a pleasant social event with which to open the New Year, and immediately began arrangements for making it a brilliant, elite and select affair. A committee on invitation, consisting of J. L. Cowan, George E. Chamberlain, E. J. Lanning, G. F. Simpson and W. F. Crosby, was appointed, the invitations being issued by special carriers. The best music of the city was engaged and musicians were summoned by telegraph from Salem to assist. The entire expense of the ball was borne by those who arranged for it, the invitations bearing the legend, "No tickets, no money, only a good time." It was a most successful social event, and although wholly an impromptu it was a brilliant affair, being attended by prominent citizens of the city and their families and visiting friends. As the first social occurrence of the new year it was a most pleasing and enjoyable success.

Case Presentation.

Dr. G. W. Maston is the possessor of a fine gold-headed cane. It was presented to him on Christmas by Rev. E. K. Prichard in appreciation of professional services rendered in Mr. Prichard's family. The doctor is naturally proud of his elegant stick, and the circumstances surrounding its presentation causes it to be more highly prized.

Successful Sociable.

The sociable at Smith's hall, Harrisburg, on last Saturday evening for the benefit of the Good Templar lodge was a very successful affair, in attendance, enjoyment and financial results.

Just received at W. F. Road's a full line of ladies fine muslin underwear, also girls' white dresses and infant slips. Call and see them.

THE CATHOLIC SCHOOL.

Historical Sketch of This Academy Founded by the Sisters of St. Benedictine.

The Academy of Our Lady of Perpetual Help occupies a block, eight streets distant from the heart of the city of Albany, and two blocks from the southern Pacific depot. Founded in 1886, through the efforts of the Sisters of St. Benedict, with the aid of the good people of Albany, this promising institution threw open its doors to the female youth November 9, 1886.

The Academy is a three-story building with a cemented stone basement. The principal rooms for the pupils are: Three class rooms, study hall, library, music room, studio, dormitories, toilet room and refectory. The building also contains the Sisters' department and a reception room for visitors. Hot and cold water are carried by the latest improved methods to the different parts of the house, whilst an excellent well on the premises supplies fresh drinking water. The recreation grounds are large, and the gardens and lawn tastefully arranged.

In December, 1887 the people of Albany subscribed as a Christmas gift to the Sisters a fine 300 pound bell. This bell was placed in the graceful octagon steeple of the Academy, peals far and near its morning greeting to the pupils of these calm and learned walls.

Under the management of the Sisters of St. Benedict the school is steadily advancing in numbers and reputation. The Sisters have truly succeeded in establishing an educational institution which meets every demand of young ladies for a finished education in the English branches. Particular attention is paid in this school to a thorough mastery of the mother tongue, the study of English literature being made a specialty. In addition to this and a complete course of mathematics, extending through arithmetic, algebra, geometry and trigonometry, the curriculum of the school includes the teaching in music, both vocal and instrumental, as also drawing and painting. Vocal culture in class and industrial drawing, so useful and popular in our times, form a part of the routine in every department. The school enjoys special advantages for the teaching of elocution and a clear and impressive enunciation on the part of the pupils is assiduously cultivated. The normal course includes a preparation of aspirants for teachers' certificates, as also the theory and practice of teaching. The honors of graduation are accorded those who hold a teacher's certificate and have completed an academic course in English literature, mathematics and the natural sciences. The minor accomplishments of fancy work, sewing and mending receive all the care and attention proverbially accorded to the Sisters' schools.

The discipline of the school is gentle, yet firm, having for its object not only the molding of refined young ladies, but noble and useful women.

OREGON WAR CLAIMS.

A Favorable Report for the Reimbursement of the State.

Hon. George W. McBride, secretary of state, has received notice from Washington that the first installment of the claims of this state for money expended in carrying out the Indian wars of 1877-78 have been examined by the military board appointed for that purpose, and by them returned to the secretary of war with a recommendation that they be allowed thereon the sum of $28,132.98. This is the claim mentioned a few days ago as having been made and submitted by the secretary of state during the past year. Final proof on the remainder of these claims will be made within a few weeks. Secretary McBride is confident that the state will receive a further allowance.

The secretary of state has also been engaged in preparing and forwarding to John Mullan, agent of the state, at Washington, additional proofs in support of the state claims for expenses incurred during the war of the rebellion, which were rejected last summer by the third auditor of the treasury. These proofs are now being used in Washington, both upon an appeal from the decision of the auditor and in support of the bill now pending in congress, especially directing a re-examination of these claims.

AN OPEN LETTER.

I take this method of informing my friends, to whom I am indebted, that I hope to be able to pay in full all that I owe in a short time. Many of my friends, white people, have been kind and lenient to me, and I beg to assure them that I appreciate this manifestation of their confidence and esteem, and if I am indulged and not pressed for sixty days, I feel confident that I shall be able to pay everything I owe. I have, unfortunately for my self, been in the employ of those in the last two or three years who did not, and perhaps could not, pay me, and this is my excuse for asking for leniency and further indulgence, and I will pay all, even the uttermost farthing. JIM WESTFALL. Albany, Dec. 31, 1888.

The College Will Re-open.

The students of the Albany college will reassemble on Thursday morning, January 3d for regular work. A number of new students will enter the winter term, among them several teachers, whose terms of school have closed for the year.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

A Young Man Carrying a Deer Shot by Another Hunter.

Writing to the Times-Mountaineer, J. H. Vanassel, of Hood river, gives the following account of a hunting tragedy near that place: On Monday Richard Schlessing went to the mountains on a hunt for deer, and after succeeding in killing one he started home with the animal on his back. On reaching Ditch creek—a stream running down a deep canyon which he had to cross—he descended the west side. Mr. Smith, the man who shot him, was hunting on the east side, and his attention was drawn by the cracking of brush, and he saw the deer just as Richard moved behind a tree or thicket of brush. Using caution in stepping for fear of falling, Smith raised his gun and fired. This occurred at 6:30 P. M. The hall was extracted and found to bear the appearance of passing through bones. On Tuesday evening the deer was examined and it was found that the ball had broken his hind leg, thus changing its course and taking effect in the poor boy. The boy's parents reside in Europe, the only relative on this coast being a sister in Oakland, Cal. He died on Wednesday.

ALBANY CIGAR FACTORY.

An Enterprise Established in the City During the Past Year.

An issue recounting the enterprises of Albany would not be complete without reference to the cigar factory of Julius Joseph, which was established during the past year. He has manufactured since May 1st, 65,000 cigars, which have been sold upon the market, a portion of course being retained for his retail trade. He uses only the finest quality of tobacco, and employs first class help. The consequence is his brands of cigars are much sought for. His factory is No. 87 District of Oregon, and his cigars are found among the finest in the stock of dealers generally.

A Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from disease of the throat and lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing consumption and to the head, causing catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allow a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your throat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

The Skating Rink.

Following is the programme at the skating rink for Wednesday evening next: 1—Potato race. 2—Pie race. 3—Apple race. 4—Half-mile race. Admission—Gents, 25 cts; ladies, 15 cts.

Caution to Mothers.

Every mother is cautioned against giving her child laudanum or paragonic; it creates an unnatural craving for stimulants which kills the mind or the child. Acker's Baby Soother is specially prepared to benefit children and cure their pains. It is harmless and cures no opinion or morphia. Sold by Foshay & Mason.

Just received, a fresh barrel of sauer kraut, very fine, at C. H. Spencer's.

127 YEARS HENCE.

A Bird's Eye View of the City of Albany in Another Decade.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD: The past can easily be reviewed; we all know what has been, but who can tell what is to be? Time is the essential of all things and it is in time only that we are surprised. If there ever was a progressive period in the history of the world—from the time that God said "let there be light," down to the present, it is the Nineteenth century. We recount the many great achievements wrought in this century, we are led to believe that the world is ours to have, hold and use, while man is the steward who carries the key to her manifold treasures, and it is but for him to speak when land, water and air delivers up their offerings at his feet, and in the twinkling of an eye the boundless desert is transformed into a blooming garden of Eden; the continent is spanned from ocean to ocean with a net work of steel rails, the orient and occident clasping hands in brotherly love, while the kinbood of sister cities, separated by thousands of miles are brought within whispering distance. The oracle who could and would have foretold the future development of this country and our cities of fifty years ago, step by step, as it actually transpired, would have suffered the fate of the witch who predicted the rise and fall of the Roman Empire. Even to-day if the dead should come from their graves they would not believe by seeing.

The wonderful and startling growth and development of our cities in the past can only be attributed to the "natural decree of destiny." Nature, in the distribution of her bountiful stores, has deposited into the secret corners of the earth those treasures when brought forth and prosperity developed are in every way calculated to attract the attention of the people to congregate and ere long their workings is a beehive of industry, and the breakings of a few more morous causes the sun to rise and set upon a great city.

One of the most favored spots on the face of the earth is Albany, Linn county, Oregon, occupying the geographical center of the great Willamette Valley, and located on the Willamette river, whose placid waters flow on to the Columbia. Her lumber product is simply inexhaustible, the finest that ever grew out of doors, while the climate is everything that could be desired; with navigable waters in the Willamette, and a soil that will grow any bud, kernal, plant or vine of a sound heart; an unlimited water power sufficient to turn every wheel and shaft east of the Rockies, who can estimate her growth and development in the future?

"Westward the course of empire takes its way," and the capitalist in search of the most favored point registers at Albany, for in his mind's eye he views a city now of 3500 but ten years hence with a population of fifty thousand souls; a union depot into which nine railroads converge; while both banks of the Willamette for a mile each ward broadening, center of the solid array of mills utilizing the now wasted water power and making an output of ten thousand barrels of flour daily. On both sides of First street, its entire length will be devoted to manufacturing of all kinds and the din of the workman's hammer; the shrill call of the steam whistle and the constant following smoke from the factories' stacks will speak "industry," with no uncertain sound. Albany then will be the great railroad, milling and manufacturing center of the Pacific Coast. A bird's eye view of the city then will reveal compact, brown stone front business houses, broad, academized streets with concrete pavements, palatial residences with well trimmed lawns, artfully shrubbed, while the dense foliage of the pavement trees will meet each other in a thick cluster of shade for the pedestrian, while on his way to and from his daily convoocation. It will be a great city and the home of the laborer, artisan, business and professional man. Here the overland routes will receive the tropical fruits for the hungry denizens of the over crowded cities of the east, and transport to those barren prairies the wanted supply of lumber, while Yaquina Bay will be our south harbor on the Pacific and Astoria on the North, and the proud Willamette will majestically float her streams to the sea, for ten years hence Albany will be the slope of a commercial mart, for nature has decreed it in destiny's roll.
